University Heights hosts special August meeting

MEETING – A lot has happened on parking in the University Heights Neighborhood Association area since its July meeting. So much that UHNA will hold a special meeting Aug. 25, 7pm at the UIndy Alumni House for a vote of the members to accelerate the process. Joseph Krebsbach, Deputy Chief at IFD, provided an evaluation of roadway access for safety vehicles in the UH neighborhood. He and others from engine 23 reviewed the streets and made the following recommendations to ensure access in case of fire or injury: Matthews Ave., Castle Ave. to Lawrence Ave. – parking should be prohibited on both sides of Matthews Ave. due to the narrow width of the street through this area; Edwards Ave., Shelby St. to State Ave. – parking be limited to the side of street opposite of fire hydrants; Mills Ave.

and Markwood Ave., Bowman Ave. to Matthews Ave. – parking be limited to side of street opposite of fire hydrants. By-laws require that UHNA asks neighbors for a vote to support the parking changes.

Joan Wiley and Kay Chittenden

VA "twins" reunited

REUNION – Joan Wiley and Kay Chittenden began volunteering at the Richard I. Roubush Veterans Affairs Medical Center in the 1970s. Wiley, from Castleton, and Chittenden, from Southport, met at the West Tenth Street VA and transferred to Cold Springs Road facility in 1972. Wiley and Chittenden were awarded countless awards for the hours of service at the VA. "The Twins," who are not related, accidentally showed up one day in 1973 in nearly identical yellow dresses. Then it happened again, showing up in look-alike dresses. So, they created an entire wardrobe and from then on volunteered in matching outfits to become known at the VA Twins. They dressed alike for nearly 20 years. Wiley moved to Warren, Ind. and Chittenden remains in her Southport home. The VA Twins had not seen each other for 20 years. Recently, Chittenden's daughters, Janette Koon and Lynette Graves, took Chittenden to Warren and enjoyed lunch with Wiley. The VA twins still correspond by sending cards and letters.

Q: Futurists predicts that in the next 20 to 30 years computer intelligence will surpass human intelligence. What tasks and processes would you like to delegate to a computer to make your life better and more meaningful?

"If it could fold my clothes or laundry that would be great. That would definitely help out. If it would just clean in general. I could use a robot that cleans rooms and picks up toys, kind of like the vacuum cleaner that goes by itself. That would be great."

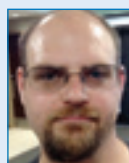

Jaymie Devries of Franklin Township

"I would like to have more voice recognition to where everything could be hands free. But I want it to be specifically trained to how my voice is, my dialect, and my pronunciation so not just anybody could come an operate my machine."

Marc Sherman of Greenwood

"Basic household chores like dishes, vacuuming."

Kurtis Hamilton of Perry Township

"Some time management, bookkeeping, scheduling and appointments. Keep track of where everyone needs to be and when. It would take a lot off my plate. I have to keep track of everyone's calendar. With five kids I juggle who is doing what, when and where, and who is getting them there."

WAMMfest celebrates its 8th annual wine, art, microbrew and music festival

By Nicole Davis

Raincoats and umbrellas were sported throughout Craig Park on Aug. 20 as people gathered to celebrate the 8th annual WAMMfest by the Sertoma Club of Greenwood.

"All things considered with the weather, the turnout is really good," said Nathan Huelsebusch of Taxman Brewing, who has attended for three years now. "The music, the community feel, being able to interact with your neighbors is always fun."

Rain did have an effect on the crowds, said the event's marketing chair, Christian Maslowski. The 3,500 attendees were about half of what WAMMfest saw last year.

"We were pleased with how steady the crowds were, although it was raining off and on throughout the day," Maslowski said. "People still came. Our vendors were still pleased. We never had to cancel any of the music performances, just a short delay during one of them. It was a very smooth-sailing day. If it were not for the rain, we are confident we would have as strong an event attendance wise as we did last year."

New this year, WAMMfest added large screens to show the audience what was happening on state, and reconfigured the lawn for more dancing room. There were more arts booths and breweries than ever before.

"If you came, you got to see, taste and learn more this year than you ever had before," Maslowski said. "Interestingly, because the crowds were smaller, those that came had more one-on-one time with our artists and with our wineries, breweries and restaurants. That's great because folks that like microbreweries and craft wine like to talk to the makers, we like to learn how it's made."

The volunteer-run festival uses all of its net proceeds to contribute back to the community to support youth, individuals and community organizations.

Bryan Johns

Training Chief for Greenwood Fire Department serves the only city he's ever lived

BEHIND the BADGE

Compiled by Nicole Davis

Bryan Johns says there is nothing better than being able to serve - especially when it's his own hometown.

Johns graduated from Greenwood Community High School in 1990. He worked for Local 20 Sheet Metal for two years prior to working at Ford Motor Company. He was hired to the Greenwood Fire Department part time in 2004, then full time in 2005.

"It was the best move I ever made," Johns said. "Working in a factory, I started in production and took my apprenticeship test. I had hit the pinnacle of my career there. Granted you would keep honing your profession, but there was no room for growth or movement. I've been here 12 years now. When you get bored in one area, you can take classes, get trained in a different part of the trade here, go a different avenue."

In 2013, Johns was promoted to lieutenant. He became division chief of training in 2015. He also is part of Indiana Task Force 1, serving as a rescue specialist for the FEMA search and rescue team.

What was your inspiration to become a firefighter?

I was on the Emergency Response Team at the Ford Indianapolis Plant and we would go to Eastern Michigan University every year to compete against all the Ford plants from around the country. One year they had an industrial fire training trailer. I remember going inside in full gear and on air and thinking to myself this would be an awesome career. I came back that year, took my Fire I/II class and started with GFD part time.

What has been one of your most gratifying moments on the job?

Every day I get to serve the citizens of the only city where I have ever lived. Unless you have been a public servant, it's hard to explain to people how rewarding it is to help others during their worst times. As the training chief, my most gratifying moment was this year. I was listening on the radio to our crews attempting to make a quick rescue of a trapped child in an upstairs bedroom. Our crews put into practice something we had taught multiple times over the last year. They did a textbook rescue that gave the child its best chance of survival.

What aspect of the job do you find most challenging?

I have two part-time training lieutenants. We are in charge of making sure 100+ members are fully trained and ready to perform at their best at all times. You cannot just turn the switch off every night when you leave the office. This job is always on your mind and your crew's safety is always on your mind. It's hard to balance time here and at home.

What do you enjoy doing in your off-time?

Spending time with my wife and four kids, camping with the BSA Troop 266 and backpacking the Appalachian Trail. In the last three years, I have finished 1/4 of the 2,200 miles.

What are your future goals, professionally or personally?

When I hired in, I always said I wanted to be a leader in our organization. I have surpassed what I thought would be possible in 12 years. I will continue to strive to make sure our crews have the best training and I will continue to work as hard as I can to make sure they have the most up-to-date information to keep them safe during their careers here at GFD. Personally, I want to finish the Appalachian Trail by the age of 50 - so I have six more years.

What would you have done if you hadn't become a firefighter?

I was a plumber/pipe fitter at Ford Motor Company Indianapolis plant prior to GFD. I would have continued with them, but not here in Indianapolis. My family would have had to move to Chicago or Dearborn and we did not want to relocate with five generations of family here in Greenwood.

my money. my future. my way.

Joe Cook will direct his final production, 10 years after co-founding Garfield Shakespeare Company

FEATURE

By Nicole Davis

In the 10 years since Joe Cook cofounded Garfield Shakespeare Company, he's never sat out of a show. He's either directed or produced every play or musical, put on free for its audiences. He'll be handing down the reins after the late summer production.

"People who don't know how these things all happen would be amazed if they followed me around, how much work is done during a show," he said. "I've loved it... I had my 75th birthday this year. We have a board with some younger people on it who I hope are going to be around. It's just time for me to turn this over."

It seemed fitting, Cook said, that his last production with Garfield Shakespeare Company will be Romeo & Juliet - one of his favorites to direct (the other favorite is Taming of the Shrew). Romeo & Juliet began Aug. 19 and 20, and will continue Aug. 26 and 27, Sept. 2 and 3 at 8 p.m. at the Garfield Park amphitheater. It is a 2 hour, 20 minute show and maintains a fast pace with no long scene changes.

"There's something about Romeo & Juliet," he said. "It's the play that has everything. For the first two and a half acts it plays like a comedy. It's a really fun show then it turns serious. It has the drama."

Cook is a retired teacher. He taught for nearly 40 years, primarily at Ben Davis High School.

"I was one of those people that taught 24/7," he said. "I was at school all day and took stacks of papers home and worked all evening. I needed something in my life that took me from the job. That turned out to be community theater."

He resided in Danville at the time. A lady was starting a community theatre group and had a call out for actors for Fiddler on the Roof.

"That was the one that got the bug," Cook said. "From that point on, for four years, I generally did six shows a year, back-to-back. I worked largely in Hendricks County and Central Indiana where there were theaters I could audition."

After acting in many productions, he began directing. He was instrumental in helping revive Hendricks Civic Theater in the early 1980s. He helped begin Spotlight Players in the late '80s, which started in Danville and moved to North Salem, Ind., before he stepped down. Spotlight Players relocated again to Beech Grove and is currently in Lawrence. Both Hendricks Civic Theater and Spotlight Players are still in operation.

"Along the line, I got interested in Shakespeare," Cook said. "I always had been, but it wasn't the theater I had been doing. I looked around. At that time, there wasn't a lot of Shakespeare being done in Indiana."

He moved to the Garfield Park South neighborhood in 2004.

"I had come to Garfield Park in the '80s and '90s because there was a Shakespeare in the Park program going on here," Cook said. "They did some good stuff but they had faded away. By 2004, when I moved into the neighborhood, there had not been much theatre happening here for about 10 years. The amphitheater was being used for concerts, but no theater. I came trudging over here one day and talked to the lady who was at that time in charge of (the Arts Center), Robin Williams. I asked what I would have to do to bring a new Shakespeare company into Garfield Park. She about fell off her chair. She said, would you believe the number one question I have had from people is 'are you going to bring Shakespeare back to Garfield Park?'"

It took a couple of years, but Cook finally directed a show called Shakespeare's Lovers with a scene from each Shakespearean play. He was asked to direct Taming of the Shrew for Our Town Players in Franklin. It was such a success, that it was brought to Garfield Park for the first full production by Garfield Shakespeare Company, cofounded by Cook and his partner, Bradley Jones.

Jones has done most of the costume design since the theater company was founded, and will also step down after Romeo & Juliet concludes.

Since that first play, in partnership with Indy Parks, Cook has either directed or produced two shows a year in Garfield Park. A spring production is held in the Garfield Park Arts Center. The late summer production is in the amphitheater.

"We're here for two purposes: to give people a chance to act or participate in classic theater... and we're introducing not only Shakespeare but theater in general to a large number of people who have never seen a play before," Cook said. "We perform on a free admission basis. We have families that could not afford to go to a theatre... There was a little girl we heard on the way out saying to her parents, 'wasn't that wonderful; that was like a movie. but it was real people!' That's why we do it."

While Garfield Shakespeare Company has mostly hosted Shakespeare's productions, it has deviated. Three years ago, they saw a record audience of 800 people at the final performance of Camelot, which was done as a full-scale Broadway musical with an orchestra.

Garfield Shakespeare Company has had a nice following over the years, Cook said, though he'd like to see audiences continue to grow. The productions continue to be offered at no charge and operate with all-volunteer crew and donations given.

"I'm very proud we've been able to build this for the community," Cook said.

Cook has no concrete plans for what he will do after he stops directing.

"I've been saying I won't be involved in something else theatrical," Cook said. "Bradley laughs at me. My son laughs at me. Theater has been my life for about 40 years. I'd like to use my time to do something new and different. I can't say right now what that will be. I could be content to stay home, read my books, watch my videos but that probably won't last long. I don't know where you'll hear of me popping up next."

2016 Paranormal Meet & Greet

HAUNTS & JAUNTS

By Rick Hinton

Rain may have dampened the 10th Anniversary Paranormal Meet & Greet at the historic Hannah House on Indianapolis' Southside, Aug. 13, however the event moved forward for the annual gathering of the paranormal community. The weather kept many away; the crowd was not what it has been in past years. However, those that did attend said they are happy they did. Looking towards 2017 and sunnier weather!

Door-to-door solicitation and peddling is prohibited

Recently our City Council passed an ordinance that prohibits door-to-door solicitation and peddling; this also includes food sales in area neighborhoods and dropping off handout materials. This ordinance was introduced after receiving many complaints about interruptions from citizens and the fact that people prefer not to answer their doors anymore to unfamiliar faces.

There are certain groups that are exempt from this ordinance. These groups include political parties and candidates running for elected office (although most wish they were), not-for-profit organizations and utility companies.

This ordinance takes effect on Sept. 1. Should you encounter door-to-door sales, or anyone knocking on your door asking to sell you food products from their vehicle please contact the police at 327-3811. If you have any questions about this ordinance, please feel free to contact our compliance division at 803-9099 or the mayorscallcenter@beechgrove.com. Coming soon, information on why you SHOULD NOT place mattresses and box springs out with you trash.

Hunger Inc. and Southport Meijer partner to provide hunger relief

People in our community continue to struggle to pay their bills and put food on their tables. I am pleased to announce that Hunger Inc. has joined forces with the Meijer Simply Give food pantry donation program this fall to help fill that void for our local families.

Hunger Inc. will benefit from donation cards purchased at the Southport Meijer store July 31 through Sept. 24. When customers at the Southport Meijer purchase a $10 pantry donation card, it will be given to Hunger Inc. and the Southport Meijer store will match every donation. As an added bonus Southport Meijer will double the match of every $10 pantry donation card purchased on Sept. 1 through Sept. 3.

I want to encourage you to help us fulfill our mission of helping feed the hungry in Perry Township and Beech Grove by purchasing a food donation card during your next shopping trip to Southport Meijer. Please tell your friends, relatives, neighbors and co-workers because every dollar makes a difference.

And when we give, Meijer gives. For the 8th consecutive year, Meijer will contribute more than $1 million to over 200 food pantries in Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky.

We are grateful for this program as it allows us to help serve those who need food in Perry Township and Beech Grove. In 2015 Hunger Inc. was able to help feed over 15,000 people.

FROM THE EDITOR

Will you walk it?

In April we first wrote about Franklin Township residents David Roth and Kevin Winton, who are walking 3,091 miles from Atlantic City, N.J. to San Francisco, Calif. We're happy to report that they're almost there! They're encouraging everyone, no matter where you are, to walk the last two miles with them on Aug. 26, 10 a.m. - facebook.com/events/1368776499803500/. Can you do it?

Proceeds from Roth and Winton's walk will benefit Helping Hands for Freedom - an effort to raise $3.3 million to build and maintain a retreat house for veterans and military families. For more than a year, Roth and Winton trained, walked and tested different gear and set up stops along the route. We're sure that preparation paid off, seeing as they're nearing the end.

We've been following the Route for the Brave social media as camera crews have followed Roth and Winton through their journey, posting entertaining and enlightening videos and updates. We have to admit - we're a little envious. Traveling across the country, meeting so many interesting people and seeing so many sights would be a dream come true for many - not to mention that it's for such a great cause! (Though we're sure they're feet are tired).

In their final day, Roth and Winton will walk from Hilton San Francisco Union Square, travel to the Microsoft store at the Westfield San Francisco Center and ending at the beach at the San Francisco Maritime National Historical Park. If you walk with them, you can hear their stories, meet the team and celebrate with our local walkers - through your computer screen, anyway.

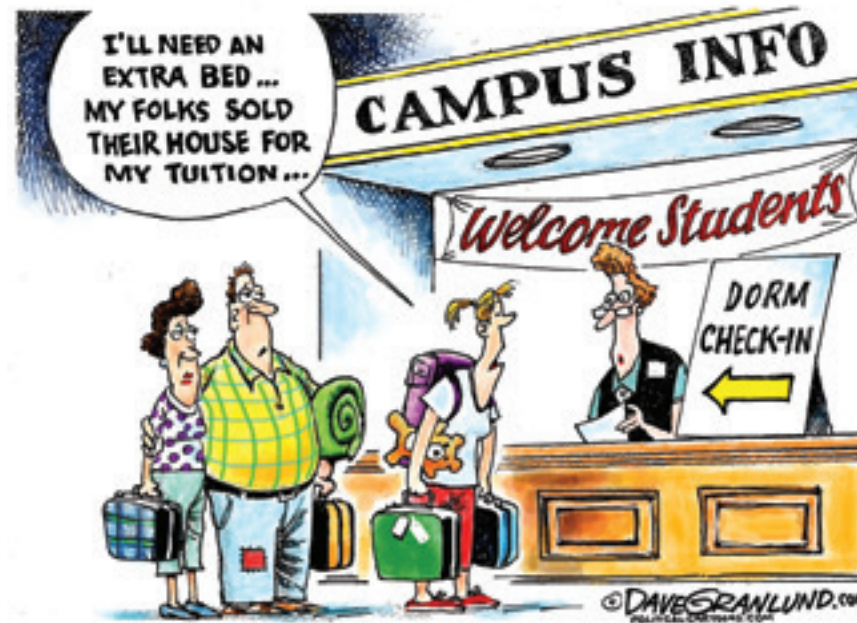

Thank you, Roth, Winton and crew for taking so much time off from your jobs and families to do something for a cause that will benefit our military and military families.

BELIEVE IT!

Our nation has all sorts of arcane, nonsensical laws on the books. Each week, we'll share one with you...

In California, it's unlawful to let a dog pursue a bear or bobcat at any time.

STARS & STRIKES ON THE SOUTHSIDE

The Southside Times is all about people and our community. What do you like in your neighborhood? What don't you like? Who has done something nice, no matter how small and should be recognized? Email your "Stars and Strikes" to news@ss-times.com. Chad Mertz and Molly Laut of Greenwood and Ed Mahern and Jim Simmons of Garfield Park contributed to this week's Stars and Strikes.

★ Star: To The Blind Pig for deciding to go smoke-free beginning Sept. 5. Piggybacking on exterior improvements being done as part of Greenwood's downtown façade revitalization program, The Blind Pig decided the time was right to make even bigger, better changes.

★ Stars: To Indianapolis Councilman Frank Mascari for pushing to install stop signs along Garfield South and East Drives along the park.

★ Star: To Sertoma Club of Greenwood for another successful WAMMfest. Not only is it a great event, but all net proceeds go to support our youth, individuals and community organizations. That is a WIN-WIN for Greenwood!

⚡ Strike: To the alleged drunk driver who hit and killed a Garfield Park neighbor on his bicycle last weekend and fled the scene, only to be captured soon after. Horrible loss of a great person and neighbor.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK

“Love the trees until their leaves fall off, then encourage them to try again next year.”

Pet Lovers issue

Compiled by Nicole Davis

Pages 11-15

A pet is more than just an animal living in our homes; they're family. Their sweet faces and personalities are something many owners take pride in, often sharing stories of something cute or funny their sweet or sassy dog or cat did. To celebrate the lesser-known family members, The Southside Times asked readers to send their best photos of their pet, choosing the top three to be featured on this week's cover.

We look for personality when choosing the top three. There was a lot of personality to choose from this year! Our first place winner, Mr. Money, shows some sass and confidence with his bow tie and proud stance. Second place, Lucky Star, shows us its biggest smile! Third place, Millie, shows her caring nature, keeping her family safe by keeping her head above the privacy fence.

There were so many favorites! Jake posed nicely as he "put the i in Indy," Zoey Chanel had American pride with her sporty sunglasses. Tanner, of Franklin Township, showed his Indiana pride through a hooded sweatshirt. Miss Penny looked cute in her birthday hat. The list goes on and on.

We'd like to thank everyone who submitted photographs, as can be viewed inside the publication and on our Facebook page. Please, enjoy this Third Annual Pet Lovers issue.

FINANCIAL PLANNING

Having More Retirement Accounts is Not the Same as Having More Money.

When it comes to the number of retirement accounts you have, the saying "more is better" is not necessarily true. In fact, if you hold multiple accounts with various brokers, it can be difficult to keep track of your investments and to see if you're properly diversified.* At the very least, multiple accounts usually mean multiple fees.

Bringing your accounts to Edward Jones could help solve all that. Plus, one statement can make it easier to see if you're moving toward your goals.

*Diversification does not guarantee a profit or protect against loss.

To learn why consolidating your retirement accounts to Edward Jones makes sense, call your local financial advisor today.

VanDyke and Canter represent Beech Grove at Nextech

SCHOOLS – Two Beech Grove High School students, Logan VanDyke and Andrew Canter, and 14 other students participated in six-week summer catapult class with Nextech. Throughout the program they had the opportunity to design and code a portfolio, tour five tech companies, earn a Gold Coder badge, and much more. As stated by the Nextech staff, "Sixteen incredible juniors and seniors gave up their summers to be thrown into the deep end of life as a technologist. In exchange for their openness to new challenges and opportunities, these students developed confidence, became part of a community and formed a bond no one could have predicted."

War Dogs... nice, enjoyable late summer surprise

MOVIE REVIEW

By Adam Staten

As the old saying goes, "the only things you can count on in life are death and taxes." While the conclusion of one's life and the government confiscating a percentage of your income are inevitabilities, there are perhaps others things that could make that unfortunate list. Some of those other unavoidable aspects of life include horrendous presidential candidates, and television news keeping a continual and steady focus on the most negative facets of our society. Another one unlikely to disappear from our lives anytime soon is conflict. Why not learn to live with them, and even profit of them? The new film War Dogs takes that idea and runs with it.

War Dogs is a film based on the true story of David Packouz and Efraim Diveroli, two 20-somethings who won a $300 million defense contract from the Pentagon. Thanks to an ever-present narration, we learn that David (Miles Teller) is a lot like most people in their 20s. He's directionless, unsure what to do with his life and has his fair share of problems. Soon after learning that he and his girlfriend are expecting, David runs into an old buddy, Efraim (Jonah Hill).

The foul-mouthed and shady Efraim is in the business of supplying guns and ammunition to armies around the world and he's looking to expand. After much prodding, Efraim eventually convinces David to join the gun-running business. While proving to be insanely profitable, their business venture doesn't quite turn out as they'd hoped. They are quickly delivering weapons to some of the most dangerous places on Earth and become the unlikely targets of massive government investigation.

While War Dogs does put forth an interesting tale of guns, greed and mistrust, it's fairly predictable. The two men experience a meteoric rise in the world of gun-running, going from one-bedroom apartments to multiple Miami penthouse suites and porches. However, as quickly as their empire rises, it all comes crashing down. There are a few surprises here and there, but for the most part, the story is pretty standard faire.

Without a doubt the film's biggest strengths are it's two talented leads. Miles Teller is good in nearly everything in which he appears, but Jonah Hill is the real scene-stealer. He's tremendously enjoyable as the cocky, arrogant and greedy Efraim, who always has an answer (usually the wrong one) for every situation. He outshines the always-good Teller significantly.

War Dogs, isn't likely to make any top 10 lists for the year, but it's still a nice late summer surprise with two strong lead performances. 3.5 out of 5.

Nativity begins adventure

NATIVITY – Nativity School has embarked on the Leader in Me journey. The Leader in Me is a process that incorporates habits for success into all parts of our school day. Those habits help develop the whole person: mind, body, heart, and spirit. In addition, those habits will also help us to recognize that there is greatness in every student and staff member at Nativity, keeping in mind that greatness does not always mean heroic, but more often can be as simple as having strong faith, character, or unique talents. For every child there will be opportunities every day for using and nurturing those unique gifts and talents that make each one great. The Leader in Me is not a "program", but is a "process". It is an underlying philosophy that, joined with our Sacred Catholic Faith, will positively impact all areas of our school. It's not an "extra subject," but a way of thinking that will be woven into our already existing school day. Parents will notice a few positive changes right away. Students will begin learning the 7 habits, and say things like "Let's put first things first and do homework before we play!" or "Let's not argue. How can we make this a win-win situation?"

So you think you're going to live forever?

NUTRITION

By Wendell Fowler

There's a natural tendency for the young to think they'll live forever. The "Live now generation" is convinced they needn't worry about their health till they get older. Old age is too far away to be concerned about death. Reality is: heart disease, obesity, diabetes and cancer rates in the young are soon to eclipse those of the older generation.

For their entire lifetime, not all, but the majority of Millennials, The X and the "Live now" generation, have been unknowingly programmed; encouraged to eat deplorable, dead foods oozing from the assembly lines of food manufacturers. Manufactured food has and is presently unraveling American's tapestry of health and longevity; your birth-right-your natural state. You were created to express perfect health, not disease. Why would our loving God create you to become less than whole? He wouldn't if you stop and think about it.

Mayo Clinic reports heart disease risk is rising for the "Live-now generation". Heart disease has been declining for 30 years. However, it appears to be back on the rise mainly among the young. Evidence from the UK, US and Australia suggests that while death rates from heart disease continue to fall in the old, they are leveling off or rising in men and women aged 35 to 54 years old.

A study is published Online First in the Lancet Oncology, French researchers report the incidence of cancer is expected to increase by more than 90 percent in developing nations. Yes 90 percent friends. Mayo Clinic says cancer can take decades to develop. That's why most people diagnosed with cancer are 65 or older. Cancer isn't exclusively an adult disease — cancer can be diagnosed at any age. Half of us will hear the words "you have cancer" at some point in our brief time on planet earth.

Whatever you think of the obsession with all things natural and healthy, one thing is certain: it's not going away. Reality: it's human nature to wait till you acquire a disease till you take healthy eating seriously. To prevent chronic disease in your future, you must focus on eating healthy foods today; now. What you chose to eat profoundly influences whether you will prematurely acquire cancer or heart disease in your lifetime.

Trust me; it'll be here before you know it. However, eating health and a side order of self-love everyday can prevent future disease. You are a miracle.

Weekly Devotion

"For we which live are always delivered unto death for Jesus's sake, that the life also of Jesus might be made manifest in our mortal flesh. So then death worketh in us, but life in you. We having the same spirit of faith, according as it is written, I believed, and therefore have I spoken; we also believe, and therefore speak; Knowing that he which raised up the Lord Jesus shall raise up us also by Jesus, and shall present us with you. For all things are for your sakes, that the abundant grace might through the thanksgiving of many redound to the glory of God."

~ 2 Corinthians 4:11-15

Paul had received life anew from Jesus Christ. He experienced what the Bible says is the "first" resurrection the day that Christ spotted him on the road to Damascus. Paul is delivered from death but also to death. His life is being spent in behalf of Jesus Christ. Not in some token manner but in a manner that is more than merely noticeable; it is manifest which means it is an open attestation to the great and glorious salvation that only Christ can give to a person.

Because of this, death lurks in him. Death is that thing that lurks just around the corner for each of us. We do not know when it will be our turn to take the journey from this life into eternity but we must always be ready for it and we must anticipate it.

Paul then cites something David said ever so many years ago. It is written in Psalms 116. "I believed, and therefore have I spoken." Paul says, "We also believe, and therefore speak." But, what has Paul believed? He believed he was a man with a new life and a new reason to live. He had life in Jesus Christ. Christ will raise him up also in the last day - and others as well. This what Christ has done spiritually and will do physically for even as He had been resurrected in His flesh, so shall we be.

God's abounding grace and the testimony of the saints to that grace is a growing crescendo of glory.

God bless and go and have a great day.

Paul A. Kirby is the pastor at the Church of God at 3939 S. Emerson Ave.
