Manifestation vs. apparition

HAUNTS & JAUNTS

By Rick Hinton

A coworker—let's call him Sheriff Dave—reads my articles weekly in the Southside Times. He is interested in the paranormal. And he approached me with a question: "What is the difference between an apparition and a manifestation?" Initially I told him they were one in the same, but then I thought about it. Maybe not so.

Paranormal jargon can be a foreign language for most, and an endeavor in understanding for others. Many strive for an understanding in metaphysical affairs, including terminology that, for the most part, doesn't have a niche in normal day-to-day life. He just wanted to know.

Apparitions and manifestations...one in the same? In some aspects they are, but in others completely different. An apparition (the holy grail that may or may not ever happen in a paranormal investigator's career is a visual experience—a physical presence—seen with weary eyes and a definite description of clothing, hair and facial features. Once this happens you never go back to any sense of normality. A manifestation, however, can include the element of an apparition, yet so much more, becoming a pot of tangible signs of a legit haunting including: tactile (a sense of touch or scratches); auditory (sound); olfactory (smells); and of course the elusive visual that could be the product of a fresh, vibrant mind, or that of a tired one where sleep's been elusive. You need to be the judge!

And there's the way we perceive what we think we are seeing. There are two types of vision we use on a daily basis—central and peripheral. Central is straight ahead, line of sight only, encompassing about three percent of our range of vision. Yet, it is what we use 95 percent of the time. Peripheral vision is what we see to our sides—about 180 degrees—and is not so clearly defined, appearing as fuzzy and non-distinct. Peripheral vision is the majority of paranormal sightings. "I thought I saw something out of the corner of my eye" is a common statement from those who have had some kind of experience. How reliable is it?

It takes a while to sort it out. It may have been something as simple as an eyelash adding a touch of mystique to a great story to tell. Maybe you had just watched a scary movie and were on edge? Or, was the encounter in this fuzzy peripheral realm a shadow figure? Sometimes it very well could have been. There are no absolutes!

Paranormal jargon, the list goes on....

Rick Hinton, a Southport resident, loves researching things that go bump in the night. His articles can be read on Facebook: Rick Hinton, Southport Paranormal Examiner. Hinton conducts paranormal investigations with his team, South Central Paranormal.

Chief Jeremy Pell

White River Township Fire chief keeps Center Grove safe by keeping up with the growing community

BEHIND the BADGE

Compiled by Haleigh Inscore

White River Township Fire Chief Jeremy Pell says he feels fortunate to serve a community he calls “one of the greatest” and makes it his personal responsibility to keep Center Grove safe. One of the ways his department achieves this is by keeping up with the rapid growth of the area and continuing to serve to the best of their ability.

Pell is a native Southside resident who is actively involved with the community along with his wife, Lori, and their three sons. He has served multiple fire departments in the Indianapolis area since he was 19 years old and says he is “blessed enough to come back” to the department where he started as a volunteer.

What has been one of your most gratifying moments on the job?

These ambulances...we had one ambulance here that was run by a private ambulance service. We were able to put two ambulances in service, we're able to do it cost-neutral so they support themselves financially, and I know for a fact there are people alive in this community because we have those ambulances staffed with paramedics 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. The response time's gotten better; we're on the scene faster.

What aspect of the job do you find most challenging?

As a firefighter, we all want to make a difference and it's challenging when those pieces don't fall into place – when you get there a little too late, when there's nothing you can do, when it really just ends at trying to console a family, or explain to them why we couldn't get their house put out. The challenge of a fire chief is really the same thing. We are in a community that is growing tremendously. Our runs have increased 50 percent since 2012. We're going to get an interstate. We're looking at 300 homes, an apartment complex, the 135 corridor, interchanges, and the challenging part is keeping the resources we have and then trying to add firefighters to the street because really that's what it boils down to. If we can't keep firefighters on the street, which we're struggling to do, then we can't make a difference.

What do you enjoy doing in your off-time?

I've got a little dog training business and my boys and I are part of a non-for-profit search and recovery canine group...I love going camping with my family, I love my boys, I volunteer in the school and we go to church together.

What are your future goals, professionally or personally?

Professionally, this is what I see: this is a wonderful fire department that serves well. We have managed things very well. We're debt free. We're under budget; we have a balanced budget. We pay cash for our fire trucks and our tax rate has gone down. We are prepared to address this interstate. I hope to put a third ambulance in service, I hope to move that fire station so it's in a better place, to improve response times... Our staffing is about 63 percent part-time. We need to shift from part-time more toward a full-time fire department... We need to eventually add another fire company and shifting more toward a full-time department is what this community needs to grow at the pace of the community.

What would you have done if you hadn't become a firefighter?

I probably would've opened up a bicycle shop. That's kind of how I started; it was my first real job. It's hard to imagine not being a firefighter. I started out working in an Emergency Room and I've been a firefighter for over 27 years now but I probably would have been biking, fitness and some kind of my own little business. (That) might be what I do after I retire - I might have a little dog business sometime...I've got a lot of years left.

Rebecca Pardue opens four Humble Impression nonprofit thrift stores in four years

By Nicole Davis

Four years since beginning Humble Impressions in Perry Township, Rebecca Pardue is working towards opening her fourth nonprofit thrift store.

"We're growing with love and showing the love," she said. "We don't have lots and lots of money. We just have love. That's what God keeps showing me. It isn't the riches; it's the love that Humble has to share."

Long before opening Humble Impressions, Pardue said she was going through a hard time. She had borrowed $10 to get her son an outfit, but the thrift store was charging $12 for that outfit. The manager said he could not reduce the price.

"As I moved forward, helping in the church and the pantry, God was supplying my needs, too," she said. "He guided me to what He wanted me to do."

She opened the first location at 8236 S. Madison Ave., Indianapolis on June 19, 2012. Donations began pouring in and she continued to expand the space. She began lowering her prices and testing different deals. She says she wants to make sure prices are affordable for everyone in need of clothing, household items and other goods. All proceeds go to churches and food pantries.

The second Humble Impressions opened at 3530 S. Keystone Ave., Indianapolis, in 2014. Donations have filled the 10,000 square-foot space. The Keystone location includes a furniture showroom in addition to the thrift shop. Humble Impressions also received its 501c3, nonprofit status in 2014.

In the meantime, Pardue was undergoing chemotherapy after being diagnosed with breast cancer for the second time. After her surgery, she returned to Humble Impressions three days later.

"I was going to chemo twice a week," she said. "I was right back at Humble. I wasn't overexerting myself, but I was there. I don't even think about it now. That's how amazing it was. I know that God has me on a journey. When He gave me the vision of Humble Impressions, it was not in one community, it was several. How many is several? I don't know yet."

So far, several is four. She opened her newest location at 1609 E. St., close to the Garfield Park area, on May 1. The store is 1,700 square feet.

"Before Humble Impressions even came about, I wanted to step into this neighborhood and open a thrift store," she said. "People are starting to step in. We don't want to turn someone away that's lost. We still have to love them."

She continued, "People will step into a thrift store before they will a church. I don't know how many people have found Christ by coming into Humble, but we're planting the seeds. They walk in, hear the music, feel the love. To see it happening, that's the joy."

She plans to open the fourth location in Taylorsville in the fall. She is currently renting out the building to a man selling fireworks, to use those funds to continue fixing up the building and getting things needed for Humble Impressions.

"It's just awesome how it's grown," Pardue said. "God moves us where he wants us.

This year we're stepping out in faith, trying to get grants. We would love if someone in the community could help with that, help write grants. We need more volunteers, more servants' hearts to step out or spread the word."

Pardue said the most rewarding aspect of operating these thrift shops is seeing the people she has helped, from little things such as giving away bread to families who need it to helping a person get back on their feet. When Mark Lynch first visited the Keystone location, he was looking to purchase some clothes. He then began volunteering.

"She is a wonderful gal and helped me out a lot, took me in here, and now I help out here," Lynch said. "I feel much better about myself and about life. I was homeless; now I'm not. She's been a Godsend."

Lynch, who works installing drywall, also volunteers at the East Street location four days a week.

"It's a wonderful feeling," he said. "It does help the community. Everything is cheap. It helps everyone all the way around. It would be great for people to volunteer here or the other stores. (Rebecca is) wonderful. I wish everyone could know how she is and how she does this."

Those wanting to donate to Humble Impressions are recommended to do so at the Madison Avenue or Keystone locations since those stores are larger. For more information on the store, visit humbleimpressions.com.

Southport hosts 11th annual Flag Retirement Ceremony with more than 900 U.S. flags

Photos and Story by Nicole Davis

Southport held its 11th annual Flag Retirement ceremony on Flag Day, June 14. Area residents gathered as the city retired more than 900 U.S. flags.

"It's a tradition we fostered 14 years ago with flags on every pole," said Kenny Winslow, of the Southport Flag Committee. "After two, three years they have to be properly retired."

When the United States flag becomes worn, torn and faded, it is time to replace it and retire the old one with dignity and respect. The traditional method is to incinerate the flag in a solemn ceremony.

Boy Scout Troop 120 and Troop 39 volunteer with the city of Southport and the parks department for this community service project. The flags are folded in a triangle manner by the Boy Scouts. The Pledge of Allegiance is recited before the ceremony. During the ceremony, all attendees get the opportunity to retire the flags. The ashes are to be buried once the flag is completely consumed.

Once all flags have been placed in fire, each branch of the military was recognized as Darrin Isaac performed an Armed Forces Medley. This year's honored military/veterans were Marjorie Courtney, Army; Harold Grubbs, Marine Corps; Carl Weigle, Coast Guard; Ralph Utt, Navy; and James Entwistle, Air Force. The ceremony is concluded as Jack Bussell plays Taps.

Greenwood AAA office offers free VIN etchings

AUTO – AAA Hoosier Motor Club's Greenwood office, 1309 E. Stop 11 Rd., Indianapolis is partnering with Safelite Auto Glass to offer complimentary VIN etchings to AAA members and non-members on June 24, noon until 4 p.m. VIN etching, which is harmless to windows, is a theft deterrent measure in which a vehicle's identification number is gently etched into all its glass. Thieves generally avoid VIN-etched vehicles because all of the glass must be stripped and replaced before the vehicle can be unloaded or resold; a costly and time-consuming process. No appointment is necessary for the 20- to 30-minute procedure.

'Aloha' to fitness & fun

Baxter YMCA welcomes the community at its Aloha Family Fun Run

FAMILY FUN RUN

By Marianne Coil

Some 200 walkers and runners participated in the Baxter YMCA Aloha Family Fun Run on Saturday, June 11, at the facility at 7900 S. Shelby St., according to Molly Burns, a member of the Baxter Center Advisory Board.

The purpose of the event was to raise money for Baxter's annual campaign. These funds help to support a sliding fee scale, which makes membership affordable based on total household income, said John Schwentker, executive director. Baxter YMCA has 16,000 members, he said.

"Aloha means 'Welcome,'" Burns said. Organizers wanted the first annual fun run to appeal to members and non-members alike, and so the Hawaiian theme was chosen.

The winner of the 5K run was 16-year-old Christopher Switzer of Indianapolis, who set a pace of 5:48 per mile. Second-place finisher was Mark Carlson, also 16, followed by third-place runner Eric Brown, age 38.

The second contest was the 1M Walk. Participants had the option to compete in both races. Best overall performance for the day was noted with winners declared in different age and gender categories.

Food and beverages and pool passes were available, and post-race fun for children included a bounce house and circuit races testing balance and dexterity.

The 5K winner, Christopher Switzer, crosses the finish line. At left, a police officer pauses after giving a motorcycle escort during the final sprint.

FROM THE EDITOR

Retirement with respect and dignity

The park was silent as everyone from U.S. veterans, active military, boy scouts, girl scouts and Southside residents took their turn at retiring more than 900 flags. Southport held its annual Flag Retirement Ceremony on June 14, Flag Day. The intention of the event is to honor the flag and everything it represents: a country united, the freedoms we have today, and so much more.

To those who may consider this ritual disrespectful to the flag, maybe it's because they weren't there to see firsthand how the ceremony was conducted. It is worth noting that while burning is not the only method, under Title 4, Chapter 1, 8 paragraph k of the US Code, it states, "The flag, when it is in such condition that it is no longer a fitting emblem for display, should be destroyed in a dignified way, preferably by burning."

The National Flag Foundation provides a guide for how to conduct these patriotic flag burning ceremonies. One flag should be displayed to represent all of the flags to be burned. The ceremony should be outdoors in a program special to the flag retirement, should involve a color guard, the leader of the ceremony should call the group to attention, order a salute, lead the entire group in the Pledge of Allegiance, order the flag retired by the color guard to be folded in a customary triangle. Southport did all of this, and more.

It was great to see so many Southside residents coming together on Flag Day for this annual tradition, and we give thanks to the flag committee for offering this ceremony each year.

Top ten reasons to adopt your next pet from the Southside Animal Shelter

Compiled by

(Dear readers - I usually don't do blatant promotions for folks but a recent visit to the Southside Animal Shelter at 1614 West Edgewood Avenue prompted this.)

10. Look at that picture. Seriously. How can you resist?
9. You always complain that folks should "think global, buy local." Well, here's your chance. This dog used to live two blocks over.
8. Paris Hilton has one of those expensive froo-froo dogs. You don't need that kind of reputation.
7. AKC papers are no better than last week's The SouthSide Times when it comes time to line the bottom of the cage.
6. Their dogs ain't broke but they have been fixed.
5. The folks there are friendly, knowledgeable and can give plenty of free advice on how to clean up "accidents."
4. Their pets are specially trained to stay off of your computer and to never order online kibble.
3. You need a cat that has personality not a pedigree.
2. Each pet has been road-tested for your safety.
1. Every time you "buy" a puppy [rather than adopt], the terrorists win.

Happy Father's Day

Father's Day, June 19, is an opportunity to show our appreciation for the advice dads give every day, even if we don't always follow it. In this year's essay contest, Southside students answered the question, "What advice or wisdom has your father shared with you that you believe will be important to your future?" Congratulations to our winner, Rintei Chawngthu of Indianapolis Southside Christian Academy and runners up, Emmanuel Kolleh and Lal Eng Kima. Wish the dads in your life a Happy Father's Day on June 19th!

WINNING ESSAY!

"My father has taught me a lot of things in many different ways. Health is very important to him, as well as our studies in school. He also makes sure we grow spiritually. He's always willing to guide us and he teaches us to be strong when things get hard for us. He really taught me to appreciate all that we've been blessed with. There are so many things we take for granted that he taught me to appreciate. He taught me that I shouldn't be selfish and think of other people. You have to learn to go through life with a good attitude. He also taught me the importance of reading. He would get up early and spend hours reading, which is amazing dedication. I really appreciate all that he has taught me and hope to learn more."

RUNNERS UP

"Dear Dad, you have given me good advice but the most important one is to be respectful. If your not respectful, you will get in trouble with your teacher. You've also taught me to be nice. If you're nice, people will want to be your friend."

Emmanuel Kolleh, Age 8
Grade 2, Thompson Crossing Elementary

"As I was growing up, my dad was there for me. He loved me. I loved him. When I make mistakes, he corrects them. He would always encourage me to read. He would say when you read a book, you are talking with the author. Reading will help you in life. He encourages me to know our native language - to keep our culture alive. He tells me to pray. He said, "Never forget to pray. It will strengthen your bond with God." He also told me to never forget my family. No one will ever love me as much as God and my family. Sometimes we don't get along, but after awhile we get along again. This shows me how important it is to forgive. As I go through life, I hope my family will be there every step of the way."

Area service professionals share summer home and garden tips

FEATURE

By Brian Ruckle

Hot summer temperatures are back and Southside service professionals are on call to help you keep your home cool, your lawn lush, your garden bountiful, and your interiors comfortable and attractive.

Joe Annee of Annee & Matry Heating and Cooling emphasize not neglecting annual service calls and changing out filters every three months.

"Make sure you have your air conditioners cleaned and checked so they work properly.

If the condenser coils and evaporator coils get dirty they will not cool," said Annee.

Chris Huser of Lamping/Huser Heating and Cooling stresses the importance of keeping a consistent temperature in your home or office.

"Don't fluctuate your thermostat up and down. It is hard on the unit and it is harder to maintain a constant temperature. I recommend keeping it at 72 or 74 or whatever you are comfortable," said Huser.

Effective shades are another tool in home temperature control. Steve Cambridge of Indy Shades said that solar shades are very popular now.

"Solar shades block the sunlight and glare, keep the room cool, but also allow people to see outside," he said.

Attractive lawns, gardens, and home exteriors don't happen by chance. In addition to using the services of professionals, there are many tasks you can do yourself. Dick Douglas of Indy

Rents said they have pressure washers, a variety of lawn and garden equipment including post-hole augers and dirt-moving equipment.

"We give a detailed explanation on how to use each piece of equipment. We try to give the customer as much information as we can before they leave the door," he said.

Bill Heidenreich of Heidenreich Greenhouses and Garden Center said June and early July are still good times to plant.

"It is a good time to plant. We still have a lot of stuff left and a lot of good looking stuff. It can be harder to find certain things but it isn't too late to plant," he said.

Changes in home interiors can also contribute to comfort and attractiveness. Dan Hornaday of Flooring by Stretch Rite said one of the best brands on the market now is Mohawk's SmartStrand Silk, an ultrasoft carpet that is naturally stain resistant and resilient.

"It feels like silk. It is very soft and yet very durable. It comes in multiple colors and has great warranties," said Hornaday.

Millie Sowers of Mainstyle Flooring said that homeowners have been increasingly enjoying luxury vinyl plank or tile as an alternative to more expensive ceramic or hardwood. Also, she said that summer is a good time to have your carpets cleaned professionally.

"Manufacturers recommend your carpets are cleaned professionally every 18 to 24 months. This also protects your warranty," said Sowers.

Popstar: Never Stop Never Stopping... Strong candidate for worst film of year

MOVIE REVIEW

By Adam Staten

In the world of comedy, things don't get much bigger than Saturday Night Live. The long-running sketch comedy program is so universally known that it's simply referred by three simple letters, SNL. The iconic weekend late-night program is responsible for producing legends like Belushi, Murphy, Radner, Chase and many, many others. Some of the biggest names in comedy today spent time honing and perfecting their skills in art of making others laugh on SNL. One former SNL cast member had a film open in theaters recently, Popstar: Never Stop Never Stopping.

Popstar: Never Stop Never Stopping is a mockumentary style comedy starring Andy Samberg. Samberg stars alongside his Lone Island comedic cohorts as Conner, a Justin Bieber-like character with tons of flash, charisma and musical talent. After gaining worldwide fame and notoriety as a member of The Style Boyz, a rap group eerily similar to the Beastie Boys, Conner feels it's time to strike out on his own.

After achieving massive worldwide success with his first solo album, Conner4Real, as he's now called, is about to release his sophomore album as a solo artist. Unfortunately, both the reviews and sales of the album are hard to stomach for the narcissistic musician. Things only get worse from that point on for the talented, but troubled Conner. His multi-million dollar empire is crumbling before his eyes and there's little he can do, but watch it fall. As you might expect, things aren't as grim as they initially appear. In order to get back on top, Conner goes back to his musical roots, and what made it all worth it in the first place, The Style Boyz.

When the beginning, middle, and conclusion of a film is so telegraphed like Popstar: Never Stop Never Stopping, it better come with material that produces a high number of laughs along the way. Unfortunately, the non-stop laughs and hilarity never happen. And it's not like it's not funny at all, but the film takes joke after joke and beats them into the ground, much like an episode of Family Guy. I mean how many dumb, insanely stupid songs does the film need? A lot, apparently.

Popstar: Never Stop Never Stopping is a film that mocks the insanity and stupidity of the music business, with Justin Bieber catching most of the film's ridicule. However, the film never moves past this joke on to anything else, but instead feels decidedly one note and truly unfunny. Popstar: Never Stop Never Stopping is a bad SNL skit stretched to fill 90 minutes. Easily the worst film of the year. 1 out of 5.

Using the litter box

PAWS for THOUGHT

By Dr. Bruce McLaughlin

Inappropriate elimination can be a common and frustrating problem in house cats. When a cat does not use its litter box it could be either a behavioral problem or a physical problem. Physical problems could be urinary tract infections, constipation, or difficulty entering the litter box due to arthritis or other joint issues.

It is important to first determine if the issue is due to a physical problem or behavioral. We normally start with a physical exam, possible blood test, and a urinalysis. There can be times when inappropriate elimination may be a combination of a physical problem AND behavioral.

If we can determine the inappropriate elimination as a physical problem, we can treat the problem. If we determine that it is behavioral, we will make recommendations to modify your cat's behavior.

Other changes that will help change your cat's behavior:

1. If you have multiple cats, it's recommended that you have one more litter box than the cats you have.
2. Cats respond to uncovered litter boxes vs. covered litter boxes.

3. Have the litter boxes in a quiet place that is easily accessible.

4. There should be three inches of litter in the litter box.

5. Clean the box one or two times daily...at a minimum. Many cats are very picky about the cleanliness of their box.

6. Use a litter box that is at least 12 inches longer than your cat. Litter boxes that are too small for a large cat will sometimes cause them to use other areas.

7. Don't use litter boxes with high sides. Older cats may have difficulty entering a box due to arthritis. Anything that makes it more difficult to enter the box will increase the risk of your cat not using its box.

8. Don't have the litter box in the same room as your cat's food. Cats don't like to use a litter box in their "kitchen."

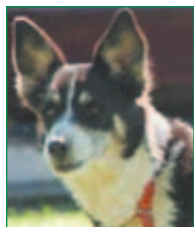

There are also medicines that help in modifying behavior in both dogs and cats. This is always an option if the above suggestions do not correct the problem.

Unscrambling eggs and the truth about cholesterol

NUTRITION

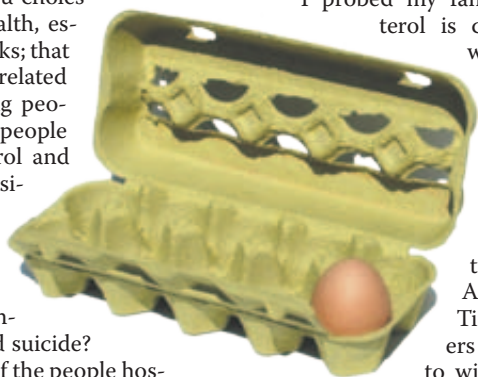

By Wendell Fowler

My quest for the truth began several years ago when I lectured with cardiologists at Indiana State. They informed me only 20 percent of heart attacks are caused by cholesterol. Inflammation is; eating from the disastrous Western diet; not eating from the celestial garden apothecary.

What if I told you cholesterol is vital for health, especially for older folks; that more heart disease-related deaths occur among people with low than people with high cholesterol and that a Yale university study found low cholesterol levels are associated with aggressive and violent tendencies, depression and suicide?

In fact, 50 percent of the people hospitalized with heart attacks have normal cholesterol levels, and 25 percent of people who develop premature heart disease have no traditional risk factors. Causes of heart attacks: clot formation, plaque instability, vasospasm and electrical chaos (sudden death). None of these causes has much to do with increased cholesterol, but everything to do with inflammation: the silent killer.

You're probably as confused (misled) about cholesterol as I. That's okay; it's not our enemy, however. Your nervous system and brain cell walls thrive on cholesterol; cholesterol is vital for hormone production, helps created vitamin D from sunlight, and is a powerful antioxidant. Cholesterol is loaded with A and B vitamins, selenium, iron, other minerals, quality protein, lutein and zeaxanthin, choline and aids in CoQ-10 enzyme production, ironically depleted by statins. January 2009 issue of the American Heart Journal reported almost 75 percent of heart attack patients fell within recommended targets for "bad" LDL cholesterol. Researchers also found that more than half of patients hospitalized for heart attacks had LOW levels of "good" high-density lipoprotein HDL cholesterol levels, as measured by US national guidelines.

I probed my family doctor, "If cholesterol is crucial to health, then why would I need statin drugs?" Meh, he shrugged causally remarking it puzzled him too and quickly changed the subject. Then why am I taking it and enduring the snarky side effects? According to the LA Times: "Medical researchers found that, contrary to widely-held belief, statins do not drive down death rates among those who take them to prevent a first heart attack. JAMA, Harvard and Physician Health study reports cholesterol from eating eggs doesn't cause heart disease after all. Demonized since the early 1950's, cholesterol is essential for optimum holy temple health. Support your community Farmers Market. Buy your eggs from locals who call their layers "the girls" and your health will be sunny side up.

Weekly Devotion

"Then said He to the disciple, Behold you mother! And from that hour that disciple took her unto his own home. After this, Jesus knowing that all things were now accomplished, that the scripture might be fulfilled, said, I thirst. Now there was set a vessel full of vinegar: and they filled a sponge with vinegar, and put it upon hyssop, and put it to His mouth. When Jesus therefore had received the vinegar, He said, It is finished: and He bowed His head, and gave up the ghost." ~ John 19:27-30

Taking care of last minute details. Jesus was dying in great agony. He was suffering in two ways, physically and spiritually. His physical agony was more than His body could take but His agony over sin and taking responsibility for our sin was worse. And yet, He took time just before He breathed His final breath to see to it that His mother would be looked after. John was special to Jesus as was His mother and He saw to it that they would remain close. John would outlive Mary but for all of the time that he did live, he looked after her as though she were as much his mother as was his birth mother.

The plan of salvation was completed with only one thing left to do and that was His resurrection three days following His death. Everything that He could do with His natural body, all the sacrifices required by the law for the remission of sins, it was finished. Now, He could lift up His voice and say to the Father, "Into Thy hands I commend My spirit".

Today, as you move through the day, take a moment or two to simply say, "Thank You, Jesus for giving up everything for my salvation."

God bless and go and have a great day.

Paul A. Kirby is the pastor at the Church of God at 3939 S. Emerson Ave.
