AROUND TOWN

Indianapolis Fire Department to host Open House

The Indianapolis Fire Department will open its doors Oct. 3, 1 – 4 p.m. as part of a neighborhood open house. Join one of seven selected IFD Stations and meet with firefighters and other personnel who serve that area. The IFD Service District covers 278 Square miles in Marion County and is serviced by 44 stations divided into seven Battalions. One station from each battalion was chosen to participate in the open house. This is the fourth in a series of planned IFD open houses, the final one for 2015. Included are Southside firehouses, Station 3 at 1136 Prospect St.; Station 19 at 1003 S. White River Pkwy. W. Dr.; Station 20 at 1452 N. Emerson Ave.; Station 34 at 1925 W Edgewood Ave.; and Station 55 at 10515 E. Thompson Rd.

Home Bank Celebrates One Year Anniversary at Greenwood branch

Home bank recently celebrated their one year anniversary of their Greenwood branch at their location at 1472 S. State Rd. 135. The branch is currently celebrating its one-year anniversary in conjunction with the 125th anniversary of Home Bank SB by offering a no service charge checking account. Lobby hours for the Greenwood office are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday. Drive-up hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and 8:30 a.m. through 12:30 p.m. on Saturday. Home Bank SB was chartered in 1890 as a mutual institution which essentially means that it is owned by its depositors.

Southside freshmen part of record-breaking enrollment at Lipscomb University

This fall, several Southside Indianapolis-area students are members of Lipscomb University's 2015-2016 freshman class. These students include: Grant Brown, Biology, Southport High School and Grant Exline, Mgt: Corporate Mgt Conc, Center Grove High School. These students are among 669 freshmen enrolled at Lipscomb University, contributing to the university's overall record year enrollment of 4,686 after the first week of classes. The university has experienced an 86 percent jump in overall enrollment over the last decade.

Chuck Roach: Non-Compete Agreements

Many employees are reluctant to sign for obvious reasons. No one wants to be limited in what he or she can do to earn a living. From the employer's perspective, for certain positions it is considered a reasonable protection in exchange for the offer of employment and payment of wages during the period of that employment.

The question of whether you should sign such an agreement depends on many factors... Regardless whether you decide to sign or not, caution and careful review is vital. Avoid getting caught up in the excitement of the job offer without mulling all of the terms, and understanding what you are being asked to agree to.

Ghost stories: Doppelgängers

HAUNTS & JAUNTS

By Rick Hinton

A pivotal moment in my investigative career happened in Cincinnati, Ohio. My voice was recorded, uttering gibberish that at the time held no relevance to the investigation at hand. It was my voice, yet it wasn't me. And as far as what was spoken, was it really nonsense or did the statements hold some ties to that particular location?

Spiritual mimicry is one of many "grey" areas of the paranormal holding no definite conclusions, but truckloads of possibilities. Is it just a playful intrusion of mischief...a stab at malevolence...or, are there more ominous and sinister intentions?

Even though my personal experience was auditory, there is another faucet of spiritual mimicry which is more physical in nature—Doppelgängers.

The term Doppelgänger is German for "double walker," a form of shadow self that is thought to accompany every person. They can appear not only to you personally, but also to those familiar with you. These paranormal doubles are said to be often sighted out of one's peripheral vision which, in witnessing a murky undefined caricature along the corridor she could see Doug's darkened outline moving alongside her, yet he was quiet and not responding to conversation.

They moved along in the darkness with the chattering from the investigators ahead reverberating off of the walls as flashlight beams darted to and fro. Then came that heart pounding moment of sobriety when Elizabeth saw Doug up ahead with the group! The form next to her just as quickly disappeared.

Doppelgängers are an iconic twist to the already confusing puzzle of paranormal possibilities, and just one more ingredient in the soup. Spirit mimics (whether auditory or physical) hold a place in the paranormal universe all their own, and with everything considered—ripe for exploration. The search for sense in all this will bring only more questions with no definitive answers. At the end of the day, this is the crux of our endeavors.

of oneself, should cause quite a jolt! These counterparts have been called harbingers of bad luck and misfortune. And tradition would dictate that seeing one's own carbon copy could be an omen of impending death. Or so they say...

Friend and fellow investigator, Elizabeth Wynn, had her own experience that left her rattled during an investigation at Waverly Hills Sanatorium in Louisville, Ky. While traversing a long dark hallway in the former tuberculosis asylum she dropped to the back of the group alongside her husband Doug. Or so she thought. As they made their way Rick Hinton, a Southport resident, loves researching things that go bump in the night. His articles can be read on Facebook: Rick Hinton, Southport Paranormal Examiner. Hinton conducts paranormal investigations with his team, South Central Paranormal.

Q: The discovery of water on Mars comes just before World Space Week, which is Oct. 4 to Oct. 10. How important is space exploration and travel to you. Should we go to Mars? Return to the moon?

"I am totally for space exploration. I certainly feel that we should return to the moon. I think we have spent too many years waiting in between space exploration and today. When it comes to the earth, they aren't making any more and so where else is there to go but outward. Many of the technologies that we enjoy today came from space exploration."

READERS' WRITES

Beech Grove receives special recognition

On Saturday Oct. 3 the City of Beech Grove and the Greenscape Commission will host our annual "Arbor Day" celebration. The festivities run from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and the event will be held in the parking lot of the Eagles Lodge, which is located at 712 Main St.

This year's event takes on a special meaning as the City of Beech Grove will be designated as a "CLEAN Community" by the Indiana Department of Environmental Management (IDEM). IDEM is recognizing the City of Beech Grove for the implementation of programs in the city to promote the environment. With this award, our beautiful city becomes only the 18th city in the State of Indiana to receive this recognition. Our special guest is the newly appointed Commissioner of the Indiana Department of Environmental Management, who will make the presentation.

We invite and encourage everyone to come out and celebrate this high distinction that our city has received. This is just another reason why the City of Beech Grove is a desirable city to raise your family in.

*Dennis B. Buckley, Mayor
City of Beech Grove*

Mike Jarvis to run for Beech Grove city council on Nov. 3

Local elections are just as important to the citizens of Beech Grove as state and federal elections are. The actions of the local City Council members directly affect residents on a daily basis: roads and transportation issues, the building of parks and recreational facilities, businesses that come to the city, and taxes, just to name a few. These decisions affecting your neighbors, property values and children deserve to be guided by elected officials who were installed by the majority. I believe voting is not just a right, but a responsibility.

On November 3rd, Beech Grove voters will choose among candidates for City Council. I'd like to personally encourage every registered Beech Grove voter to make your voice heard and vote in this local election.

The City Council is to be mindful of residents who expect us to maintain a quality of life that that the citizens enjoy here in Beech Grove, and the City Council should strive to make decisions that will help us maintain and surpass those expectations. Those goals and priorities include strategies for operational excellence, direction for strategic growth, a financially sound government, quality of life in downtown Beech Grove, and sustaining a safe and secure community.

*Mike Jarvis, Beech Grove City Council
District 2*

OUR VIEW

Take a moment to support a Southside teacher

Miss Jocelyn Craft was nominated by St. Roch Catholic School in the National Catholic Education Association's (NCEA) bracket-style contest to send a deserving teacher to the national convention in San Diego free of charge. She has advanced to the final 16 teachers, out of 64 participants. She is the only representative from the Archdiocese of Indianapolis. Craft teaches kindergarten, and this year marks her ninth year in education.

"It would be great for Miss Craft to attend the national convention because it is an outstanding opportunity for her to grow professionally and spiritually," wrote Pricipal Joe Hansen in an email. "We have sent people to the national convention before, but San Diego is far away, and probably not cheapest option when it comes to professional development. Little did I know that Miss Craft actually has family in San Diego! ... If she were to win it would make it all that more special."

She is co-chair of the Response to Intervention Team and serves on our Catholic Schools Week, Parent Involvement, and STREAM (Science, Technology, Religion, Engineering, Arts, and Math) committees and recently volunteered to organize and coach the school's first Math Bowl team. "She is always the first person to jump in and help with any project or challenge," Hansen wrote in the nomination.

NCEA will continue its bracket-style challenge on its Facebook page for fans to vote for the winning teacher. Voting rounds will last for the duration of one week intervals over six weeks. Round three voting ends the morning of Oct. 3. Only one vote per Facebook user is allowed per voting period. Visit the Facebook page of the National Catholic Education Association (Official) and click on "Send a Teacher to NCEA 2016."

It only takes a moment – so on your next break, we encourage everyone to log into Facebook and cast their vote to help a local Southside teacher.

Let the fun festivities continue

Oh, yes, another fun fall festival event – Holy Name Oktoberfest – will take place this Friday and Saturday at Holy Name of Jesus Catholic Church, 89 N. 17th Ave., Beech Grove. Great food, beer and games for the kids, 5 p.m. – midnight. In addition there will also be live music; and for you Notre Dame fans, you'll be able to cheer on your 4-0 Irish on a big screen at the festival as they take on 4-0 Clemson. Big Beech Grove event; big game, big fun – all in one place. Don't miss it. Go to holyname.cc for more information.

This whole Volkswagen thing is an incredible mess. If you don't own a VW, you're probably thinking the fallout won't affect you. Wrong. You and we, via the federal government, paid out in excess of $51 million for green-car subsidies – all because the emissions reports were pure fiction. Fleeced again, fellow taxpayers, weren't we? And yet nobody seems to care. It's just another headline fading to white by now.

Democratic presidential candidate Hillary Rodham Clinton (N.Y.) can't make up her mind about a lot of issues, can she? With a U.S. Senate voting record that shows her as uncompromisingly pro-choice with respect to abortions, the campaign cycle has brought about a different response. She said to NBC News that she was "open" to restrictions on late-term abortion. Draw your own conclusion.

The Stupid Americans of the Week Award (we just made up that title) goes to the couple in central Ohio that knocked off a community bank and followed that by posting photos of themselves with fistfuls of dollars on Facebook. Didn't need Sherlock Holmes to solve that.

Aaron Allen

Southport police officer named 2015
Officer of the Year at Sept. 23 reception

BEHIND the BADGE

It's been a big year for Southport police officer, Aaron Allen. He started a new role as head of Southport's training division in June, instructing for Southport's Police Academy. He was promoted to Sergeant in August, and during Southport Police Department's annual Recognitions and Swearing-In Dinner on Sept. 23, Sgt. Allen was named the 2015 Officer of the Year.

"I'm very surprised," Allen said after the presentation. "I don't like to be recognized for (my actions). It's part of the job. I'm overwhelmed."

Promotions recognized during the ceremony included Kyle Vaughn and David Hodge to lieutenant; Nathaneal Williams and Allen to sergeant; Jason Swanson to detective; and William Ballard, Aaron Hollenbaugh, William Tharpe and Casey Godby to corporal.

Southport Police Chief Thomas Vaughn announced Allen as the department's first-ever Officer of the Year, pointing to Allen's successful efforts at saving a man's life while working part-time at the Indiana State Fairgrounds on Aug. 15. Allen was directing traffic near the parking lot when the call came out for the state police, but he said that he knew he could get to the scene faster due to his location. Allen performed CPR on the man for 10 minutes until backup arrived. Other officers brought an AED and together they continued the CPR. Medics arrived with Narcan, a medicine used to reverse the effects of opioids, usually in the case of an overdose. It was Allen's third time to use CPR on a person.

Allen has served as a police officer since 2004. He lives on the Northwestside of Indianapolis with his wife, Stacy, son and step-son. He has worked with the Southport Police Department since 2011. He also works as a police officer for the Franklin Township Community School Corporation.

"When you're in the schools, you're dealing with kids and you have to talk to them differently," Allen said. "You have to have one hat when you're on the streets and one hat when you're in the schools, but both jobs intertwine and help make my law enforcement career better."

What was your inspiration to become a police officer?

My dad had a lot of friends in law enforcement. I always looked up to them and wanted to be a cop since I was 5 years old. As I got older, I grew the passion even more.

What has been one of your most gratifying moments on the job?

When I graduated Police Academy in 2011. I worked so long to get to that point. When I finally achieved the goal I had been searching for and wanting for so long, it was a big accomplishment for me.

What aspect of the job do you find most challenging?

Trying to get a happy medium between not only the citizens but the victims and suspects as well. Trying to figure out in a matter of minutes what is going on and get everyone to an agreement on what needs to happen.

What do you enjoy doing in your off-time?

Hunting, camping, fishing, playing with my kids or spending time with the family – my wife and kids.

What are your future goals, professionally or personally?

I'd like to keep going up the chain of command. I'd like to help bring new officers in, teaching them what I've learned in my years of law enforcement and ensure that they're a better officer and can protect the citizens that they are going to serve.

What would you have done if you hadn't of become a police officer/firefighter?

I started out going to be an accountant right out of high school. I figured out that I didn't want a desk job. I'd probably have to do something outdoors, where the job is constantly changing.

A 'PEEL'ing Work

George J. and Monika Adrian celebrate Adrian Orchards' 90th season of providing locally-grown produce to the Perry Township and surrounding communities

By Nicole Davis

Adrian Orchards has provided apples and local produce in Perry Township for 90 years. Third generation owner, George J. Adrian, says the milestone is something he can be proud of – as it's certainly taken a lot of hard work to get there.

"To be a farmer you have to enjoy it," he says. "It's a lot of work and not a lot of money... You grow up on a farm and it's in your blood. It's what you know how to do."

Adrian Orchards was started as a hobby by George and Edith Adrian in 1925. The building that currently serves as the country store used to be their garage and workshop. In the '40s, George J.'s dad, George A., came back from his military service and took over management of the business with his wife, Carolyn.

George J. is the oldest of six children and he says they all had jobs on the farm growing up. He and a couple of his siblings went into the business together in 1988. Their parents left Perry Township for Mississippi to start a peach tree farm and supply the fruit to Adrian Orchards, until demand in Mississippi grew too large. Carolyn passed away in 2002 and the peach farm later closed. George A., 93, still visits the family farm to get his fresh produce. In 2005, Adrian Orchards sold 40 acres of the Perry Township farm. They have another farm in Waverly, Ind., where most of the produce is grown.

"In hindsight, downsizing when we did

(was my best business decision)," George said. "It wasn't my idea, but there is no way I could manage a farm two times as big as I have now."

In 2008, George J. became sole owner of Adrian Orchards. He and his wife, Monika, run the business together, working night and day to ensure that they have the highest quality produce possible.

"Everything revolves around the farm, the work that needs to be done," George says. "It never ends. It's year-round. We're trying to market the crop this time of year and come winter we have to prune the trees. This time of year, it's 100 hours a week. You're working outside all of the time. You're beat by the heat or the rain. That's the challenge. If it was easy, everyone would do it."

The biggest challenge behind operating a farm, George says, is the weather. In 2012, the spring frost caused them to lose 90 percent of their blooms on the apple trees. The summer drought created a shortage of other produce. This year, he says the weather has helped produce a reasonable apple crop, with minimal frost damage. In June there was 12 inches of rain and July had 14 inches, so that did cause some flooding problems. He says that his father used to joke that he was a professional gambler, because it's such a high risk when business depends on the weather.

"You'll never find a farmer who's ever happy about the weather," George says. "It's never just right."

What has made the business successful through the last 90 years, George says, is that extra touch they can provide that the ever-growing number of large grocery stores can't. For several generations, people have grown up stopping at Adrian Orchards.

"It's kind of like your own family," George says. "If people are just friendly here, we say hello or remember your name, that's a connection that will keep them coming back. You have a personal attachment. We can give you information about the produce. People realize it locally grown, that's an important thing nowadays. Instead of driving by with a grocery cart, you can get a little information about the varieties of peaches, corn and what's freshest."

Busy season for the business is October, but they began harvesting their apples in July and don't stop until the first of November. They begin making their own cider in the fall. Oct. 3 and 4, Adrian Orchards will host its annual Harvest Fest, from 11 a.m. – 6 p.m. on Saturday and noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday. They will offer expanded activities for children, food, live music, the opening of the pumpkin patch, hay rides if the weather permits and more. As they recognize their 90th season, George says they will continue to provide the same quality produce and friendly customer service like it's been done since 1925.

"I enjoy growing things that people appreciate, the fruits of my labor basically, that's the most gratifying," George says.

Getting to know George...

- Favorite apple: "At this point, is the Jonagold. They are the best right off the tree but they have a short shelf life."
- "I just eat, sleep and work. There's not much of a social life in this business."
- "Something my folks always did, was at the end of the season, take a break. You have to recharge your batteries. Get away for a short time and refocus, not be so ground down by the daily routine. I try to take a break every year."
- "I like to catch a little sports late night, whatever is current: basketball or football."
- George was named the fastest apple picker in the Guinness World Record book for picking 365 ½ bushels of apples in eight hours on Sept. 23, 1980.

Carpenters volunteer for historic Garfield Park trolley

Garfield Park in Indianapolis is home to the last standing wood trolley station in the state of Indiana. Constructed in the early 1900s, the century-old trolley station was in need of structural improvements, and Local 301 Member Action Committee (MAC) members of the Indiana/Kentucky/Ohio Regional Council of Carpenters (IKORCC) eagerly agreed to help.

This project was an all-hands-on-deck collaboration funded by a Historic Preservation Fund 50/50 match grant. However, the grant did not cover all expenses, and volunteers were needed. Steve Hoyt (New Palestine), Rick Russell (Columbus), Brian Duncan (Shelbyville) and Marco Martinez (Avon) from Local 301

Local 301 volunteers to install wood shakes on a historic trolley house located in Garfield Park.

MAC, .300 Hitters Chad Capps and Chris Vantrees and four apprentices volunteered for five days, totaling 80 work hours, to install wood shakes on the structure that were donated by Formation Roofing in Indy. Additionally, Indy Parks painted the historic structure and will pour the concrete slab.

Partners in the rehab project included the Indiana Department of Natural Resources Division of Historic Preservation and Archeology, Indianapolis Parks Foundation, Indy Parks, Friends of Garfield Park, Indiana Landmarks, Efrogmson Family Fund, Owings Foundation and Indiana Trails Fund. For more information, please contact Steve Hoyt at shoyt@ikorcc.com.

Fathers House celebrates 7th Annual Roll Call

The Father's House, a multi-cultural, non-denominational Christian church on Indy's Southeast side, hosted its 7th Annual Roll Call Event on Sept. 18 to express support of IMPD officers for the jobs that they do daily. The Father's House received 250-300 IMPD officers from multiple districts as they hold their Roll Call meetings at the church. The congregation, along with several area businesses, provided them with a meal and a gift before they head back out into the streets of Indianapolis. In 2013, the church launched an effort to supply every IMPD officer with a Trauma Kit that allows him/her to immediately stop bleeding should they, their partner, or a victim be wounded in a situation where EMTs can't get to them right away.

Rep. Kirchhofer named 2015 IAO Legislative Champion

State Representative Cindy Kirchhofer (R-Beech Grove) was selected as the 2015 Indiana Academy of Ophthalmology (IAO) Legislative Champion for her extensive efforts on behalf of health care.

"I am humbled to receive the Legislative Champion Award from the IAO," Rep. Kirchhofer said. "Working in a hospital, and as a strong proponent of public health in the Legislature, I realize the importance of quality health care. I am pleased to see that my work as a state legislator has benefitted the ophthalmology field and I look forward to continuing our joint efforts to further improve wellness for all Hoosiers."

The IAO promotes the highest quality, comprehensive vision, medical and surgical eye care while also being an advocate for quality health education and policy. The Legislative Champion Award was presented to Rep. Kirchhofer on Friday during the Academy's Annual Meeting luncheon.

Beech Grove celebrating College Go Week

Both Beech Grove Middle School and High School celebrated College Go Week on Sept. 21-25 with various activities to inform students about going to college and what their career options are. One of the main focuses of College Go Week is to get current seniors to apply to schools because many colleges and universities will waive application fees during this week. One way to get students to think about going to college was to have teachers wear college gear of the school from which they attended. Pictured are four BGMS staff members who wore their college gear Luke McFann (8th Grade Math), Wendy Eckstein (8th Grade Language Arts), Jonee Sutton (Art), and Kelley Newman (PE).

Greenwood HS' Reynolds is an outstanding librarian

Greenwood High School's IMC Director Mrs. Julia Reynolds was recognized as the Outstanding School Librarian Award Winner for the state of Indiana. Mrs. Reynolds was formally recognized at the school board meeting this week.

Families and students celebrate fitness and health during Coach Hathaway's Running South

By Nicole Davis

A light rain in the morning of Sept. 26 didn't deter participants of Coach Hathaway's Running South. As they picked up their registration, did some pre-run stretches and lined up for the race, the weather cleared up and they were off.

"It turned out to be good running weather," said Jason Wisemann, race director. "This race promotes healthy living, healthy lifestyles. It's a whole community event, so you have something for every group and ability. It's especially good for kids to see their parents live that healthy lifestyle."

Running South is an annual event through the Perry Township Education Foundation with provides grants to teachers and administrators in Perry Township Schools. The day included a 5k, 10k, ¼ mile Kiddie Romp and a health fair at Southport High School/Perry Stadium. The event's name is in honor of Coach Tom Hathaway who taught biology and coached cross country and track for 44 years. He passed away in March, 2012.

Three hundred forty-eight people finished the 5k and 109 finished the 10k. Top three finishers in the 5k portion were 13-year-olds Drew Shellenberger, Lexie Green and Gage Biggerstaff. Top three finishers in the 10k portion was Ethan Michelson with a time of 39:00.9, David Smith with a time of 39:11.2 and Padraic Kenney with a time of 39.46.1. # A prepositional prescription

GRAMMAR GUY

By Jordan Fischer

Question: "Dear Grammar Guy: While correcting my daughter's high school essays, I always try to change her sentences that have a preposition at the end, such as, 'Is that the book I'm looking for?' into, 'Is that the book for which I'm looking?' She keeps telling me her way is acceptable. Have rules become less rigid?" ~ Pam Carpenter

Answer: Let my prepositions go, Pam! I think somebody famous said that once. Maybe Moses.

I have good news for you today, Pam: You can redirect all of your effort correcting your daughter's sentence-ending prepositions into watching for passive voice and encouraging her not to use "creative" substitutes for the verb "said." (Just say "said." It's fine. I give you permission.)

While I heard the same prescription about not ending sentences with prepositions when I was going through school, a little bit of research shows that it's nothing more than a pernicious myth – probably started by a grumpy middle school English teacher to torture his students.

Our friends over at the Oxford Dictionaries – not exactly amateurs when it comes to the rules of English – have this to say on the matter: "There's no necessity to ban prepositions from the end of sentences. Ending a sentence with a preposition is a perfectly natural part of the structure of modern English." As they point out, mangling a sentence to avoid ending it with a preposition often ends up sounding like Yoda speech. I may have paraphrased the Yoda part.

In conclusion, the only time you need to worry about ending a sentence with a preposition is when the preposition was unnecessary to begin with (ex. "Where are we going to?" vs. "Where are we going?"). Otherwise, go crazy with your bad self – or your prepositions, at least.

We can build a better brain

NUTRITION

By Chef Wendell Fowler

Got 'Teflon brain' and nothing sticks? Mentally swim through Jell-O? Forgot where you left the kids? It's likely your brain is starved of the holy designated nourishment assigned by our celestial creator.

You can ramp up brain power. Nearly every food you consume can positively or negatively affect brain vigor and mental clarity. Feeding your brain is a simple act of adding or removing certain foods from your diet.

Ubiquitous Saturated fats from fatty meats and dairy as well as Trans Fats for are two brain thrashers. Trans fats, listed on labels as "partially hydrogenated" oil, are man-made oils chemically altered to extend shelf life. Trans and saturated fats are in donuts, pastries, cookies, breads, pretzels, chips and greasy deep fryers. These can cause brain inflammation and contribute to neuron death and Alzheimer's. Got to ask yourself if a moment's pleasure is worth losing your mind?

Sugar is sneaked into about 80 percent of commercially prepared foods. High fructose corn syrup is also huge offender. It is used to prevent freezer burn and lengthen shelf life. It oozes into thousands of snacks, sauces, soup and prepared foods. This evil sweetener blocks the hormone that tells your brain it's time to stop eating. It also blocks the hormones which increases appetite. Burp! Want to be fat; eat foods with high fructose corn syrup. Also avoid these label ingredients: sucrose, lactose, fructose, dextrose, galactose, maltose, or sorbose. Read labels, please.

How you feel at any given time of the day, is the outcome of your last meal. If you recently eat a heavy meal of meat, cheese, gravy and fried foods, you're probably yawning as much of the blood needed for brain function is shunted to the stomach. Also, after a heavy meal, your stomach and heart are working furiously. 911 Thud!!!

Keep it nourished by eating God's organic, bug and clover-fed poultry and lean grass fed beef with healthy fats. Grass-fed beef contains the same healthy fats as oily fish. Good fats release a hormone that signals your temple's stomach to feel full. People who eat good fats have 40 percent less chance of getting Alzheimer's than those who don't. Good sources of fats include: oily fish (salmon), avocado, chia, walnuts and flax seeds.

Love your brain. Be present as you plan dinner and shop. Don't robotically grab. Pause. Meditate whether this food will feed or deplete your brain? Become the miracle you are.

Sicario... Easily one of 2015's best

MOVIE REVIEW

By Adam Staten

While there is still a couple of months left in 2015, now is the time when films expected to contend for Golden Globes and Oscars start hitting theaters fast and furious. While Johnny Depp's performance in the recent film, Black Mass, will more than likely earn the eccentric actor several nominations; one other film has been receiving a lot of buzz as well. Sicario, starring Emily Blunt and Benicio Del Toro, hits theaters this weekend.

Sicario is the story of idealistic and by-the-book FBI agent Kate (Blunt), who during a raid of a house, stumbles upon something that she was never supposed to find. Kate and her team discover body after body hanging within the walls and floorboards of the house. Little does she know her life and her outlook on life are about to change dramatically.

After her massive and impressive find, Kate is quickly recruited to be apart of a government task force going after a major, but rarely seen Mexican drug lord. Initially, Kate is overwhelmed by the fast-paced and rather harsh reality that her new surroundings provide. She quickly grows skeptical of the people around her and realizes that not everyone is what they seem and nothing is black and white, but rather shades of grey litter everything in her new environment.

One of the biggest reasons that Sicario has been getting so much attention is because of the performance of the film's lead, Emily Blunt. While Blunt does display very impressive and strong work here, it's probably not Oscar-worthy material. However, Benicio Del Toro steals the show. His quiet, yet powerful performance provides the film's most intense moments. He should at least come away with a best supporting actor nod.

Sicario is a smart, well-thought out, and intricately written film. There are more than a few times when the film has the audience guessing one way and it goes the other. The film does tend to get a bit slow at times, but given everything else it brings to the table, it's a very minor offense. The film also showcases some really rather spectacular cinematography with expertly crafted shots throughout.

Strong performances abound in Sicario, combine that with the exceptional script and you've got one heck of a film. Sicario is so far, easily one of 2015's ten best. 4 out of 5.

Adam Staten lives in Perry Township and is a movie buff. Staten graduated from University of Southern Indiana with a degree in Communication Studies.

ON CAMPUS

UIndy Homecoming has activities for everyone

The University of Indianapolis is heading into a historic Homecoming weekend that includes opportunities for local families, as well as a major fundraising announcement and the ribbon-cutting for the new UIndy Health Pavilion. All activities take place Oct. 3.

Hound Hustle 5K Run/Walk:

Beginning at 9 a.m. is the second annual Hound Hustle 5K Run/Walk, with a route that tours the campus and adjacent University Heights neighborhood. The registration fee is $25 on site – includes a commemorative T-shirt and a donation to a scholarship fund. Registration and more information are available at www.uindy.edu/homecoming/hound-hustle.

Science balloon launch:

Faculty and students from the Department of Physics & Earth-Space Science will launch a collection of self-contained experiment pods to the very edge of space, to be reclaimed later for the collection of data.

Tailgate Town:

From 3 to 6 p.m. Saturday, visitors can enjoy Tailgate Town outside Key Stadium at Hanna and State avenues. Attractions will include a zip line, a climbing wall, the Colts in Motion traveling football museum, inflatable play equipment and live dance music by The Doo! Band, previously known as Zanna-Doo.

Homecoming Parade:

Spectators can gather along Hanna Avenue at 4 p.m. Saturday for the annual parade, which will feature classic cars, golf carts decorated by student groups, the Marion County Sheriff's Office Mounted Unit, the Circle City Sidewalk Stompers clown band, McGruff the Crime Dog, dance teams and plenty of candy for the kids.

Football Game:

Kickoff is at 6 p.m. in Key Stadium as the Greyhounds host Missouri's Truman State Bulldogs. Halftime festivities will include the crowning of the Homecoming king and queen. Tickets are $8 general admission, $5 for students and seniors and free for children 12 and younger.

Friday events:

The weekend also includes two major events on Friday: At 12:30 p.m. is the ribbon-cutting and dedication of the new UIndy Health Pavilion at Hanna and State avenues. At an invitation-only event Friday night at the Indianapolis Museum of Art, UIndy will launch the public phase of a $50 million comprehensive campaign, intended to build upon the recent progress made on the university's Vision 2030 strategic plan.

Weekly Devotion

"Then Peter, turning about, seeth the disciple whom Jesus loved following; which also leaned on His breast at supper, and said, Lord, which is he that betrayeth Thee? Peter seeing him saith to Jesus, Lord, and what shall this man do?" John 21:20-21

The longer I read and study the Bible the more I am amazed about what I had never noticed about it before. Peter has been challenged three times to love Christ. The word is "agape," which is a love that comes only to a person who has a spiritual new birth.

Peter is put out with Jesus for pressing the issue of loving Him. He attempts to divert the attention of Jesus away from him by pointing out that the disciple that leaned on His breast at the last supper professing to love Him also betrayed Him. Jesus is having none of this inner-disciple competition and tells Peter that John, the other disciple, is His business and none of Peter's. There is such a rich lesson here for all of us if we will only take the time to learn it.

Our personal relationship to and with Christ Jesus is just that, personal. It is easy to point the finger at others when it comes to the failures of the church but the one person that I most necessarily need to look to is myself. I must ask myself, what have I done to contribute to the success or failure of the church of God? What have I not done, what have I done? Have I been as responsive as I should have been, as quick to move in an instant and to move in faith? What about my personal fears? How have they kept me from going forward and venturing into new areas of ministry and how have they held me back?

God bless and go and have a great day.

Paul A. Kirby is the pastor at the Church of God at 3939 S. Emerson Ave.
