Q: What does your mother mean to you?

"My mother means everything to me. She is the pillar of strength in my life. She is quiet, gentle, kind, and humble. My mother is forgiveness and the true meaning of unconditional love. My mother is all I hope to be as both a person and a mother. When I feel lost, lonely or unsure I go to her. She is home....she is love."

Stephanie Littell of Perry Township

"My mother means the world to me. She has always been there for me. She has always supported me. Most importantly, she has always loved me. That means so much. It has shaped me as a person. There is no way you can repay your mother."

Brandon Sturdivant of Franklin Township

"My mother gave me life. I don't think I could have faced life or gone into a classroom without carrying my mother with me. I work with 5 and 6-year-olds. I didn't look forward to it but once I got in with them, a lot of the things growing up came back to me. I've carried mother with me in whatever I did as I grew up."

Sister Theresine Will of Beech Grove

"Mom was the backbone of the family. She was the one who kept us all in line. She was always checking to make sure we were doing things right. There wasn't a person she met who wasn't a friend. She was the most outgoing friendliest person you would want to meet. I miss her dearly. She has been gone about six years now."

Bob Puckett of Franklin Township

What wood you carve?

FEATURE

By Nicole Davis

It's surprising the amount of things that can be crafted from wood, says Dan Bailey as he shows off a variety of things he's handcrafted throughout the years: small figurines, necklace pendants, rocking horses, framed drawings, rocking horses, benches and more.

A member of Circle City Carvers, Bailey will have some of his items for show and for sale at the club's Magic in Wood Woodcarving Show on March 16, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Southport Life Center, 4002

E. Southport Rd., Indianapolis.

Grove, said he got into wood carving more than 25 years ago, when he heard some guys at work talking about a carving club. He joined Circle City Carvers and taught himself to do carvings for the following 15 years when he decided to get into wood-burning art.

Most of his own work leans toward Southwestern Native American artwork, although he has an eclectic amount of pieces he's created for himself and at the request of family and friends. Bailey retired from GM in 1993 and then worked for the Marion County Sheriff's Department. He has made quite a few carvings with that sheriff's logo for retirees and former corworkers. One of his favorite pieces of wood-burned art, he says, is the Harley-Davidson logo because it was a little challenging to do.

Most of Bailey's pieces are made of wood from a pear tree in his backyard. The light color and sturdy wood allows for the designs to stand out better. He also teaches wood burning class a couple of times a year, and says it's rewarding to him to help people develop talent in the hobby.

"You can develop talent," Bailey said. "The thing I really appreciated, when someone picks up something and says you've done a good job, it humbles me. I use what talent God gave me the best I can."

As a longtime member of Circle City Carvers, Bailey said he looks forward to the upcoming show. They usually have an average 30 artists at the show. The club meets twice a month at St. John's Lutheran Church, 6630 Southeastern Ave., Indianapolis. For more information, visit circlecitycarvers.org.

Voter turnout continues to be low in 2015 primaries

Russell Hollis, Deputy Director, Marion County Clerk's Office, said this primary election's numbers were dismal yet unsurprising.

"Even though I hoped turnout would be higher, I've been paying attention to what we're seeing nationally and there's just been a steady decline." Hollis said. "Whatever it is locally, it does seem to be a national trend."

"Voter interest and turnout – these things can change at the very last minute. Marion County voters may get energized about the mayoral election this fall, but it could also be something that happens last minute," Hollis said. "For example, in 2011, (local) municipal voter turnout was roughly 30 percent in November. And in the 2012 presidential elections, Marion County saw 56 percent voter turnout."

Diving dedication

Perry Meridian's Dick Brunoehler continues to be recognized for his swimming, diving and coaching talents even after his passing

FOCUS

By Nicole Davis

Dick Brunoehler learned early in life what he wanted to do: coach. He taught and coached for 48 years, earning an induction into the Southport Wall of Fame in 1981 and the Indiana Swimming and Diving Hall of Fame in 2007. Although Dick passed away in December 2014, the Indiana High School Swimming & Diving Hall of Fame named him the winner of the 2015 Hobie Billingsley Award at its April ceremony.

"It was bittersweet," said Dick's wife, Marilyn Rogers Brunoehler. "I'm happy that he got this award, but sorry he didn't live to see it."

Dick grew up in Kansas and served in WWII in Japan. Marilyn said that she has a photo of him in his time of service, diving off a 10-meter diving board in Tokyo.

"He wasn't afraid of heights!" Marilyn said.

Dick graduated from Indiana University and began teaching math and physical education at Rising Sun, Beech Grove, Southport and Perry Meridian. He coached basketball and track before becoming head swimming and diving coach at Southport in 1958. He transferred to Perry Meridian in 1974 and retired in 1989, but continued coaching until 1998.

Long after he retired, Marilyn said he would have former students and swimmers come up to him and introduce themselves.

"He'd go home and get his yearbook out for the year of who he was talking to," Marilyn said. "He'd reminisce about the year."

Dick continued to dive in Masters Diving until the age of 77, traveling to meets across the country. His list of achievements is endless, as Marilyn shows a basket filled with medals that Dick earned throughout the years, not counting the larger trophies displayed through the house.

"His accomplishments were so over-the-top," Marilyn said. "He deserved this award."

He is survived by his wife; sons, David, Phil and Steve Brunoehler; stepsons Brian and Aaron Rogers, 12 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

OUR VIEW

For those who protect and serve

In the past few weeks we have witnessed the destruction of a community in Baltimore because of alleged police brutality after an adult African American died in the custody of six police officers – and also, unfortunately, another New York City police officer was shot and killed – one of the eight officers nationally gunned down in the line of duty since March.

"...we applaud the men and women in blue that so willingly serve our communities. Their jobs have become increasingly tougher..."

Could this happen in Indianapolis? The answer is, of course – we face the same problems other major metropolitan cities face. We just held an election on Tuesday that will determine who occupies the Mayor's office in 2016. We hope Chuck Brewer and Joe Hogsett are paying close attention to the issue of community policing – whomever is our mayor must continue to work with those leaders who work the front lines of Indy's respective communities – particularly impoverished neighborhoods and areas with higher rates of violent crimes.

Finally, we applaud the men and women in blue that so willingly serve our communities. Their jobs have become increasingly tougher and quite honestly, we can't imagine why anyone – given the climate that they have to work in – would want to go into the profession. We're grateful IMPD Chief Richard Hite and our other municipal departments and their respective leaderships are so dedicated to maintaining positive, peaceful relationships with those they serve.

BELIEVE IT!

Our nation has all sorts of arcane, nonsensical laws on the books. Each week, we'll share one with you....

Another primary behind us, congrats to the winners

The run-up to the recently concluded municipal primary elections provided excitement across the board - at least for us. It happens every four years (although mostly we wish it were every year). Certainly, elections bring forth all manner of emotions. This year there were several school referendums that folks had a chance to vote on (see page 4 for results). For the school districts, it all worked out. We know that no one yearns for any kind of tax increase, but our schools are important and we believe they are fiscally responsible - especially at a time when funds are limited. There's no question that when a family looks to a community, a public school district weighs in to the decision making. We are particularly intrigued by the upcoming Indianapolis mayoral race this fall, which will pit Republican Chuck Brewer, a Southside resident and relative newcomer to the local political scene, against Democrat Joe Hogsett, a veteran of the political wars by comparison. And while it may be exciting for us, we do hope future primary elections would see more turnout from the people. Voter turnout out was down again in the area, which seems like a standard cry. But to those that did take the time to vote, we thank you.

Beech Grove City Council

Meeting, May 6

- What happened? Ordinances 2 and 4 were approved on third reading. Ordinances 6, 7 and 8 were approved on second reading.
- What it means: Each ordinance pertains to a separate section of the city's employee manual. Ordinance 2 relates to the personnel manual, relating to sick leave. Use of sick leave was amended to add that no sick day will be charged to full-time employees if exposed/injured during time of employment.

Ordinance 4 concerns health insurance guidelines within the personnel manual, relating to employees who have become disabled as a result of their employment. The city established rules for what it will and will not cover.

Ordinance 6 relates to special leave, concerning time off for bereavement. Full-time employees will be granted up to three days to attend the funeral of an immediate family member, as specified in the ordinance.

Ordinance 7 establishes residency requirements for full-time employees; they must reside in Marion County or a county surrounding (touching) Marion County.

Ordinance 8 establishes new minimum callin standards. Full-time employees who are called into work in an emergency situation will receive at least three hours pay or time spent.

- What's next? Ordinances 2 and 4 will go into effect in 60 days. The remaining ordinances will undergo third reading at the June 1 council meeting.
- What happened? Ordinances 9, 10, 11, 12 and 13 were introduced.
- What it means: Ordinance 9 establishes pension plans for employees in the employee manual. Beech Grove chooses to be a participant in and contribute to the Indiana Public Retirement System. Full-time employees can enroll.

Ordinance 10 eliminates the Cumulative Capital Development Fund, which was established in 1985 to help improve the park, but is no longer necessary.

Ordinance 11 updates the extra duty compensation section in the personnel manual.

Ordinance 12 applies to the compliance division, adding "ice boxes" to the list of prohibited abandoned items on property.

Ordinance 13 amended Ordinance 28-2014 which the council approved in March regarding general offenses. Any business with more than 10 police runs for a theft of less than $50 will be notified after the first violation, instead of the 10th. City Attorney Craig Wiley said the first ordinance did not work because notices were sent too late.

- What's next? These ordinances will face second reading at the June 1 meeting.
- What happened? Resolution #4-2015 was introduced and defeated.
- What it means: The resolution proposed the elimination of the Main Street Revolving Loan Program. Businesses in the Main Street district applied for and were granted loans through this program. While some business paid, others defaulted. Dan McMillan, clerktreasurer, said this cost the city more than $225,000. The resolution to discontinue the program was voted down, 4-2.

Hospitals: Fuel for a paranormal fire?

HAUNTS & JAUNTS

By Rick Hinton

Hospitals are a strange mixture of both hope and despair. One enters mired with a health condition and then is released back into their world with a profound new lease on life and a vow to take better care of themselves. However, many times one enters and circumstances are not so kind: the ceramic-tiled walls and the smile of a stranger dressed in white could very well be the last glimpse in this earthly life. Hospitals are portraits of life and death — an ongoing saga of the human condition. Hospitals can also be the last hotel where one may check in, but never check out!

The former St. Francis Hospital has held a firm imprint on the small town of Beech Grove since 1914. Founded by the Order of the Sisters of St. Francis of Perpetual Adoration, it opened its doors as a Catholic charity hospital originally holding only 75 beds. Through the years it transitioned into a 540 bed facility with over 3,000 employees. Presently, one chapter ends as another transition takes place. St. Francis closed its Beech Grove campus and shifted its inpatient service to a newer facility seven miles south on Emerson Avenue. The current question for those residing in the surrounding neighborhoods — what is in store for the castle-like building just off of Albany Street? The building is older, less easily remodeled, and basically landlocked. Yet there are those interested....

Two suitors are currently vying for the property: Los Angeles-based DealPoint Merrill proposes to fill the current building with rent paying medical tenants, while Indianapolis based TWG Development and CEO Joe Whitsett have a vision of tearing down the complex and providing independent living spaces for seniors in addition to single family homes. Closing for DealPoint has been delayed several times while town officials and business owners feel more comfortable with the Whitsett plan.

Stakes are high for Beech Grove. The former hospital sits on a prominent corridor of the community, and beginning to look rundown.

Many times hospitals retain "impressions" that play havoc on poor employees performing their day to day duties as hospital wheels continue to turn. It's not a job they signed on for. Administrative staff and the sisters of St. Francis would never admit to any paranormal ramifications while the Beech Grove facility was open. And they certainly won't now. Regardless, the atmosphere and history of not only St. Francis, but hospitals in general, can be the fuel to a paranormal experience.

St. Francis, it would appear, has this fuel.

STRIKES FOR STROKE

Franklin Township's Harpp family shares how their personal experience led them to host an annual fundraising event during Pediatric Stroke Awareness Month

COVER STORY

By Nicole Davis

At 7-months-old, Cash Harpp was sitting in his swing when his favorite cartoon came on the TV. His mother, Abbe Harpp, noticed that Cash had no reaction. She tried to get him to laugh, but his smile looked a little one-sided. She called her husband. Jeff, and then the family pediatrician, saying it looked like he had a stroke.

"People always say 'No way. Babies can't have a stroke," Abbe said. "The day that it happened, we called the doctor and we were told babies don't have strokes. We took him to the ER. He gets a CT done. When the doctors walked into the room, he looked stunned."

Cash, now an Abbe Harpp discusses Cash's time spent in the 8-year-old third grad- hospital after his stroke, pointing to photos of him er at Bunker Hill El- at 8-months-old. ementary in Franklin Township, was diagnosed with Moyamoya Disease. This disease causes a constriction in arteries in the brain, resulting in blood clots and can lead to a stroke.

"We got thrust into the unknown of why did this happen, what precipitated it and what do we do now?" Jeff said. "Several years ago, social media wasn't how it is now. We didn't know anyone that was going through what we're going through. Now with social media you can find groups and talk to other families. With Moyamoya, it's a one-in-a-million problem."

The Harpps, who moved to Indianapolis in 2009, lived in Northwest Indiana at the time of Cash's stroke. They were sent to a neurosurgeon at Comer Children's Hospital in Chicago who was one of the few doctors who could treat the disease at that time.

Cash underwent brain surgery at 8-monthsold, and has continued to go to physical therapy ever since.

"Were fortunate that he had it at so young of an age," Abbe said. "He wasn't walking yet. He just learned to army crawl. He wasn't talking yet. That was just part of his growing up. He was delayed but his brain was able to rewire to pick up the damaged areas."

The Children's Hemiplegia and Stroke Association (CHA-SA) was one of the first support organizations that the Harpps found. The nonprofit organization, CHA-SA.org, helps children who have survived an early brain injury. It offers informational resources, drives awareness and advocacy and provides a "support community."

"The main purpose is to educate the community and even doctors that this is a reality that happens," Jeff said. "Despite the low numbers, proper diagnosis and treatment is crucial. We were blessed to be with the people we had because we know families that were not. Their children are profoundly disabled as a result. For Cash, if his condition cal means, it's fatal. He's always at a higher risk for repeat stroke. His is 30 percent higher now than the general population."

Abbe and Jeff said there are many families that don't catch the symptoms early enough because it is such a rare condition. With May being Pediatric Stroke Awareness Month, they decided to begin advocating for the cause in Indiana. In 2012, they founded Strikes for Pediatric Stroke in Indianapolis, a fundraiser benefitting CHASA. The fourth annual event will take place May 16, 2 - 5 p.m. at Expo Bowling Center, 5261 Elmwood Ave., Indianapolis. The cost is $20 per adult or $15 for ages 12 and under, which includes two games of bowling, shoe rental and soda.

"It's a lot harder for us to get messages across, not only to other families affected but to other communities because, frankly, it doesn't affect many people and won't get the awareness that other things do," Jeff said. "Our message is small and we don't have a big microphone to sound off to a lot of people to. We've been fortunate. This is the least we can do to give back to people who aren't."

Jeff and Abbe said they are still trying to find the best way to promote and raise awareness about pediatric stroke; the bowling alley provides an environment where people who may not have heard about the event beforehand can still walk up and learn.

"We've been blessed in a lot of ways," Jeff said. "Kids can't necessarily communicate their symptoms like adults can. There are a lot of kids that get sent home from the emergency room thinking they have a headache or something and they can suffer something pretty catastrophic. We want it to be in people's minds, that this can happen."

4-year-old hosts Alex's Lemonade Stand in Franklin Township

In an effort to join the battle against child-hood cancer, 4-year-old Kaylee Miller, of Franklin Township, will host an Alex's Lemonade Stand to raise money for the fight against childhood cancer. Her fundraiser is on May 8, 9 a.m. at 7746 Heatherdown Court, Indianapolis in the Lakeland Trails Subdivision and it coincides with the community garage sale. During Kaylee's lemonade stand, she will serve fresh lemonade from McAlister's Deli as well as sell raffle tickets for chances to win great prizes from other local businesses.

Kaylee asked her parents several times to have a lemonade stand. After some research, they discovered Alex's Lemonade Stand Foundation, and will honor a local family – Jilly - at their lemonade stand. Those interested can contribute to Kaylee's PIF Lemonade Stand by stopping by Dottie Couture Boutique in Greenwood. Mention Kaylee's Lemonade Stand and a portion of the total sales will go directly to Alex's Lemonade Stand.

Randall Hadler:

BEHIND the BADGE program, teaching CPR and cal training to eighth grad

Every now and then Randall Hadler will go on a 911 call and hear a someone say, 'you're the person who taught me CPR!' It's something he enjoys about serving on the Beech Grove Fire Department: the small community feel.

Hadler became a paramedic for Decatur County EMS Services after he completed college. After reading in a newspaper that Beech Grove would be hiring, he applied and was hired in 2003.

"It's more than what I thought it'd be," Hadler said. "There's the 'family-hood' that the fire department has but there's the comradery with the police department that the fire department has in Beech Grove, so it's more. And people here really do respect their public safety professionals."

Hadler was promoted to EMS Duty Officer in 2006, then to lieutenant in 2014. He is currently working with the Commission on Accreditation of Ambulance Services (CAAS), an independent commission which sets standards for ambulance services, to have the fire department reaccredited. He leads the CPR program, teaching CPR and medigetting cal training to eighth graders at Beech Grove Middle School.

Hadler also works part-time at Franciscan St. Francis Health. He resides in Shelbyville with his wife, Melanie and sons, Joshua and Nicholas.

What was your inspiration to become a firefighter?

I became a paramedic and was working with firefighters. I saw how much they love the job and

Randall Hadler

mething I would thought that was something I would like to do. It's an honest profession. It's very family-oriented and that's something I enjoy.

What has been one of your most gratifying moments on the job?

Being able to communicate with the people, the citizens. Being able go out and help them when they're having one of the worst days of their life.

A friend of mine, his dad went into cardiac arrest. We were able to get a pulse back on him and he walked out of the hospital. That was my most memorable moment.

Fire lieutenant leads health safety courses for

What aspect of the job do you find most challenging?

Being a newly-promoted lieutenant, I find that the most challenging thing is being the relay person between the upper administration and the guys I work with, making sure needs they have are met and that everyone is getting the education they need to move forward.

What do you enjoy doing in your off-time?

Spending time with my family – watching my boys play soccer, doing things at home with my family, reading books.

What are your future goals, professionally or personally?

Professionally, I'd like to continue to move up in the department, prepare for promotions as they become available. I'd like to continue to do the community education like the CPR program we have. Personally, I'd like to keep providing for my family and being one of those fathers my kids can look up to every day and that my wife enjoys being around.

What would you have done if you hadn't of became a firefighter?

I would probably have gone back and got my Master's degree at college in animal growth and development, animal science or something like that.

Greater Greenwood Community Band finds a new home for musical library

By Nicole Davis

As the Greater Greenwood Community Band approaches its third concert on May 17 for its 2015 season, band members have a sense of relief as they settle into their new library and storage space.

Near the end of 2014, band members thought they might not have a place to keep their library of music, historical records, instruments and other necessities. Their office space had been donated to them by the City of Greenwood, located in the city center for the past year, and the Polk St. building before that.

"When we went in, we knew we'd only be there a short period of time," said Tom Dirks, conductor.

The city needed the space for renters and the band was nearing the deadline of when they needed to vacate. They couldn't find a place which could properly fit their supplies.

"We were worried we'd have to divide our equipment which would be a disaster, or postpone our activities," said Ora Pemberton, associate conductor.

Greenwood Mayor Mark Myers called Chamber Director Christian Maslowski, who led the band to conversations with Community Hospital South. The hospital donated office space to the all-volunteer band, in the offices located just beside the hospital off of County Line Road.

"It was a life saver, literally," Dirks said. "A good band can't function without a library. This fit our basic needs very well. The space is adequate for us to continue to grow."

The new office space has more space than the band ever expected. The facility is provided free-of-charge, including utilities. City officials helped the band move and organize their supplies from the city building to the hospital offices. The band has an inventory of more than 16,000 selections of music, a copy machine, library supplies, instruments and historical albums with information from its inception to present day.

"We were very fortunate," Pemberton said, adding that they are thankful for the people who helped them in the process.

Beech Grove Bowl's Special Rollers League prepares to kick-off its fourth summer season

FEATURE

By Nicole Davis

Beech Grove Bowl's Special Rollers League, dedicated to children of all ages and skill levels, especially those with special needs, is taking applications for its fourth season which begins June 6. Beech Grove Bowl owner, Scott Seach, said the environment in this league is one-of-akind, as the children focus more on the socializing and having fun than their scores.

"For the kids with special needs, it gives them an activity they can do with no limitation," Seach said. "No matter what need they have, there's nothing they can't do in bowling. They can participate on equal grounds with people who don't have special needs. For parents with kids that aren't special needs, it gives their kids the ability to learn patience, understanding and how to foster relationships with one another."

Beech Grove Bowl is hosting a Free Kids day on May 16, 11 a.m. - 2 p.m. where kids ages 14 and under will receive two free games of bowling and shoe rental. The event > is to promote Kids Bowl Free (kidsbowlfree.com), a separate summer-long program which began May 1, but they will also take applications for the Special Rollers League at that time.

> The Special Rollers League was created in 2012 when Beech Grove resident Anna Lee was trying to find a sport for her son to play, but he couldn't participate in many of them due to his epilepsy. Seach suggested creating a league at Beech Grove Bowl, 95 N. 2nd Ave., Beech Grove. They began working to get donations and sponsors to make it affordable for any child wanting to participate.

"We put the idea Facebook people started donating," Seach said. "The first year, about 50 kids signed up in two weeks. It was mind boggling to both of us. We had no inkling it would do what it did."

The Special Rollers League costs $60 per child which includes two games of bowlt-shirt and shoe rental. Sponsors have off- pizza party, concluding the season. set that cost each year.

The league is incorporated as a nonprofit, and the children even organize and participate in fundraisers to contribute to the fees.

"To date, none of the parents have had to pay a dime," Seach said. "I always tell you maybe it'll cost $10-15, worst case scenario, but so far we've had enough to cover it."

Since the first year, Seach has continued to make improvements to the bowling alley

which makes it easier for all kids to participate. Last year, the floor was raised up to allow for better accessibility.

Those interested in participating or sponsoring a league can call Seach at (317) 784-3743 or visit facebook.com/Beech-GroveBowlSpecialRollersLeague for more information.

'Deflategate' report finds Patriots culpable

Independent attorney, Ted Wells, who was commissioned by the NFL to investigate the controversy regarding the New England Patriots and the alleged 'deflategate' that took place earlier this year, concluded that "it's more probable than not" that Patriots staff "participated in a deliberate effort to release air from Patriots games balls after the balls were examined by the referee." The conclusion was drawn based on a series of text messages between Jim McNally, Patriots locker room attendant and equipment assistant, John Jastremski. While Coach Bill Belichick has been exonerated by the report, Brady's name apparently came up several times during texts between McNally and Jastremski. In a statement, the NFL said it is deliberating "what steps to take in light of the report, both with respect to possible disciplinary action and to any changes in protocols that are necessary to avoid future incidents of this type."

MOVIE REVIEW

By Adam Staten

If you haven't heard or seen one of the hundreds of commercials advertising the film, the newest Avengers movie has landed in theaters. There aren't many other film franchises that draw as much fanfare as the Avengers or really the entire lineup of Marvel films. The only other franchises that even come close to the fanaticism of the Marvel films would be the Star Wars and Star Trek films, but even then it's debatable. However, all you have to do is slap the Marvel logo on a film and it's guaranteed to make a couple hundred million easy. But is Avengers: Age of Ultron any good?

The newest film from Marvel Entertainment begins with the group of crime fighting superheroes in midmission. After saving the world from certain destruction yet again, the group stumbles upon what is perhaps their biggest and deadliest foe to date, Ultron.

Ultron is a program initially created by Tony Stark as a peacekeeping initiative. Unfortunately for the Avengers and everyone on Earth, Ultron's definition of peace involves destroying the planet and those who reside on it. Ultron's scheme also involves pitting the group of superheroes against one another by bringing to light each of their shortcomings and failures, a tactic that nearly works.

In an expected and welcomed change of pace, the story is a tad darker than pervious Marvel films. The villain is more sinister and twisted than the first Avengers film. The story also starts to go into a direction similar to Nolan's Batman films as it starts to bring up issues of mortality, vigilantism, and other similar issues. However, about a fourth of the way through, the film completely abandons that and dissolves into just yet another Marvel film.

The performances are fine for this kind of a film, nothing outstanding, but nothing that leaves you shaking your head in disgust. This time around Hawkeye, The Hulk, and Black Widow take center stage. All three are arguably the three strongest actors out of the group. Thankfully, the dullest characters, Captain America and Thor, almost blend into the background as neither really has much of a storyline here.

Avengers: Age of Ultron will undoubtedly go on to make hundreds of millions of dollars and become the highest grossing film of 2015. Even though, it's better than the first, it's not by much. It's a typical Marvel film, fans will be pleased, but it's nothing special. 2.5 out of 5.

You are the reason why I can feel the joy of life each day - feel the warmth of your love for me - and live a happy life. I'm very thankful to have a strong, loving and encouraging mother. You have always been very supportive and an amazing comfort when I need you. You have taught me so many valuable lessons that have helped me and I hope you will continue to do so. I'm glad that they set aside a day, Mother's Day, to celebrate our most cherished mothers. On this day, I would like to spend time with you. I don't think anything big is necessary for this event – even just being together at home would be nice. So on this very special day, I would like to go to a nice, big park and just let the hours fly by as we talked and admired the things around us. At the end of the day, I want to have dinner with you. Knowing that, as simple as the day was, I would cherish it, because it was spent with Love, the person who loves me most.

Rintei

Dear Mom,

Thank you for everything you do for me! I love you SOOOOOO much and I am thankful and appreciate everything you do and have done for me. Some of my best memories as a kid were when you read books to me like Snuggle Puppy or Brown Bear, Brown Bear. I also remember you would always do art with me like painting or coloring in my Care Bears coloring book. You also taught me how to do many things such as cooking, spelling my name, counting by 5s and 10s, my multiplication facts and even how to do the monkey bars! I love you SOOOOOO much and I am overjoyed to have a full 24 hours to celebrate just you. You're the world's BEST mom and I wouldn't change a thing about you for the world.

> Love. Your favorite daughter Gracie

"Best Mom Ever"

I could never put in words how much my mom means to me. She will always love me no matter what.

My mom is my hero. She will love, support and care for me through good times and bad.

She stays with me through everything; even though we fight we are still family. Yes, I am adopted but I never seem to think about it because you never want to think about the past—just the present because if you think about the past you could miss the most wonderful moments in your life.

And if I could plan the most amazing Mother's Day for my mom, it would be starting off when she wakes up on her own, because I want her to be energized for the day ahead.

I wouldn't give her breakfast in bed because that's not too original. When she comes downstairs it will be clean because what mom doesn't want a house that got cleaned without her asking and without lifting a finger?

Then I would make her chocolate chip pancakes with milk.

Then we would go to lunch at El Rodeo.

Of course you can't go out to eat and not have dessert, so then we'd make cupcakes with fondant on them even though you're not really supposed to put fondant on cupcakes, but we'll break the rules—put those smiley faces on the cupcakes!

At night, we'll put on our pajamas and watch a movie till we go upstairs to our rooms and say goodnight, then go to bed and we will remember this day forever.

BEECH GROVE

BGHS students connect to careers

A new program has been launched at Beech Grove High School. The objectives of the Career Connections - Pathways Exploration Program are: Help students identify and explore career possibilities by utilizing the resources of the Beech Grove Guidance Department, the new College and Career area, the Advisory Board Members of the Applied Life Science – Agricultural Education Program and additional individuals familiar with specific careers.

Seventeen students enrolled in the pilot program: eight freshmen, three sophomores and six juniors. Based on the instruction provided by Guidance Counselors, Mrs. Matthews and Mrs. Cooley, the students completed three different programs, and each student then identified three possible careers based on their interests and strengths. Students started meeting with professionals this week: Phil Cooley, Law Enforcement; Larry Sernyk, Dow AgroSciences; Greg Bohlander, Indiana Farm Bureau; Rich Witmer - Former Beech Grove Police Chief and currently Director of Security for Franciscan/St. Francis Hospital; Madelyn Walters, Adayana (an agricultural business consulting group); and Frank Mascari, owner of Spalding Jewelry in Beech Grove. Other professionals will meet with students this week. Bruce Bye, Chair of the Agri-Science Advisory Council, coordinated this new program with BGHS staff.

CG leadership team participates in Future Ready Regional Summit

Several members of the Center Grove Schools leadership team were in Mountain View, Cali. on May 4-5 to participate in the eighth of 13 Future Ready Regional Summits. The summits are designed to help district leaders improve teaching and learning through the effective use of technology. President Obama announced the regional summits at the ConnectED to the Future Convening, hosted at the White House Nov. 19, 2014. The summit is being hosted by the U.S. Department of Education and the Alliance for Excellent Education at the Computer History Museum in Mountain View, Calif.

Dr. Rich Arkanoff, superintendent, Sally Hacker, assistant superintendent, Dr. Jack Parker, director of curriculum, and Jason Taylor, chief technology officer, are attending the summit. They are engaging in a series of workshops that offer expert support to create or build upon an existing digital learning plan that aligns with instructional best practices, is implemented by trained teachers, and leads to personalized learning experiences for all students, particularly those from traditionally underserved communities. Young Hoosier Book Award election held at PMMS

More than 100 Perry Meridian Middle School students were eligible to vote in the state Young Hoosier Book Award election. To be eligible, students had to read and pass tests for at least five of the 20 nominees by the April deadline. This required a lot of time, determination, and long-term goal setting. To be rewarded for all of their work, Mrs. Preddy, the school librarian and project coordinator, awarded every voting student a book autographed by the author. There were a variety of books from which students could choose. The winning book for the school will be announced soon and the votes have been turned in for the state election. The state's middle grades winning book and author will be announced in May.

Fun Facts from National Geographic

"The BELUGA, or white whale, is one of the smallest species of whale. Their distinctive color and prominent foreheads make them easily identifiable. Unlike most other whales, the beluga has a very flexible neck that enables it to nod and turn its head in all directions. Belugas generally live together in small groups known as pods. They are social animals and very vocal communicators. They use a diversified language of clicks, whistles, and clangs. Belugas can also copy a variety of other sounds. Belugas feed on fish, crustaceans, and worms. The whale is related to the tusked 'unicorn' whale known as the narwhal. The beluga is not related to the sturgeon of the same name, which has been heavily fished for its famous caviar."

Dalman wins competition

Roncalli High School senior Nolan Dalman won first place in the Central Indiana region of the national high school architectural drawing and design competition sponsored by the National Association of Women in Construction Educational Foundation. Dalman is the recipient of a check for $300 and now moves on to compete in the five state Great Lakes Regional. This year's competition asked students to design a complete set of working drawings for a family home for five people with one of the children being a paraplegic and confined to a wheelchair. Seniors Alex Kelley and Joe Gervasio placed second and third respectively in this competition, making it a clean sweep for Roncalli teacher Iim Ratliff's students.

Exploring the Southport Armed Forces Cadets (SAFC)

Submitted by Madison G. Smith

Southport Armed Forces Cadets (SAFC) is an after-school military program which teaches leadership skills, safety skills, life skills and teaches about all branches of the military. Cadets learn many things, such as how to make a resume, how to prepare for a job interview and navigational skills. If you like to be in charge, there are equal opportunities in SAFC for leadership. The positions within SAFC change with each new semester, giving participants a chance to hone their leadership skills in the different areas.

There are currently five different positions that can be held within SAFC. The platoon sergeant is in charge of the whole platoon. The squad leaders are in charge of eight to 10 cadets and are occasionally in charge of activities. Training officers make training schedules, and occasionally lead PT. Chaplains are the ones who students can go to for advice or help with something. Medical officers carry around a medical bag and administers first aid if anyone get hurt.

During a typical meeting of the SAFC, cadets do some form of physical training (PT), and learn military knowledge such as the phonetic alphabet, military ranks, and Military 24-hour time. PT can be anything from self-defense training to a game of capture the flag to PT relay races. In SAFC, you can take Community Emergency Response Team (CERT) training.

CERT is training to be a responder to natural or man-made disasters. Have you seen the Color and Honor Guard at sporting events or other events around the Southport area and thought, "Wow! That looks cool!" SAFC performs Color and Honor guard at sporting events and special events around the Southport area. For those who like action, there are combative exercises where cadets learn how to defend themselves. For those who are fans of bullet-wielding weaponry, SAFC teaches you about firearms and teaches you how to use them safely and properly. There are even trips to gun ranges such as Camp Atterbury to practice shooting and to learn proper gun-handling techniques.

Being apart of SAFC provides benefits for your future. Whether you plan to join a branch of military or work in the private sector, having had military leadership training provided by SAFC will help you no matter what career you choose as well as in many aspects of life.

So long as you are age twelve to high school age, you can join! SAFC is open to anyone in the Southern Marion- Northern Johnson County area and meets weekly at Southport High School from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. If you attend SHS or another local school and are interested in SAFC, send an inquiry to bthompson@perryschools.org.

IFD to host Open House at Franklin Township station

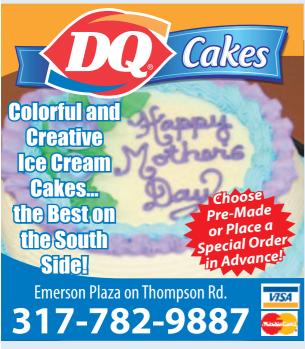

The Indianapolis Fire Department will open its doors on May 9, 1-4 p.m., as part of a neighborhood open house. IFD Chief Ernest Malone invites the public to attend one of the selected IFD Stations and meet with firefighters and other personnel who serve that area. Included is Station 53, located at 6231 S. Arlington Ave. This is the second in a series of planned IFD open houses and is part of Chief Malone's commitment to engage our community with the firefighters that serve it. The selection of the particular station is part of Director Riggs DPS Initiative that concentrates on specific areas in need of a focused public safety community partnership.

Middle School East Robotics places fifth in World Championship

Franklin Township Middle School East Flashes Robotics team placed fifth in the VEX IO Robotics World Championship in Louisville, Ky. Team members include: Mason Clark, Kaleb Harris, Tara Kalia, Brandon Kinnick, Rory Lawless, Ethan Thackery and Devin Treadway. The team competed against 140 other middle school teams from around the world and the United States.

Focus on FRANKLIN TOWNSHIP

The team is composed of specialists who are drivers, programmers or builders, but it was through team work, lots of trial and error and perseverance that the team climbed its way to the top 32 to be eligible to compete on the final day. During the final competition, the team scored enough points to finish fifth in the world overall.

The team qualified for the World competition by winning the Excellence Award in the Indianapolis City tournament. Each team member has worked tirelessly since July, meeting every Monday and on many weekends. Each person was required to complete weekly homework assignments, put together a tech binder, contribute to the STEM display for the team, and present a portion of an oral presentation to the judges on the topic of how robotics helps the disabled.

Cameron Brown earns the Rank of Eagle Scout

Cameron Brown, a freshman at Franklin Central High School, has achieved the rank of Eagle Scout, the highest rank in Boy Scouts. This accomplishment represents four years in the Boy Scout program for Brown, a member of the Crossroads Troop 104. Brown has also received the rank of Firecrafter.

During the process of satisfying the requirements for the Eagle rank, Brown has performed community service and leadership for his troop. He earned 34 merit badges. Brown's Eagle project was to paint the exterior of the Buck Creek Playhouse which consisted of over 230 hours of community service. He has participated in community theater at the Buck Creek Playhouse. Brown will be an instructor at Camp Belzer this summer and is excited to teach young scouts the values of the Scout oath and law. Brown will be formally presented the Eagle Scout award at a Court of Honor ceremony at the Acton United Methodist Church on May 16.

Cauliflower: Veggie of the year

NUTRITION

By Chef Wendell Fowler

Mark Twain said cauliflower is nothing but a cabbage with a college education.

Kale came, conquered, and found a home in American's crisper-drawers. It appears, however, crunchy white cauliflower is gaining ground. We're warned not to eat white food, but hold on. Responsible nutritionists are referring to processed junk food, sugar, AP flour, white rice and sausage gravy, but not cauliflower.

There's wonderful health news regarding the predictable veggie tray standard. The large white flower is a member of cruciferous vegetable family of broccoli, Brussels sprouts, collard greens, cabbage, watercress, collards and bok choy. Cruciferous vegetables hold vitamins, minerals, other nutrients and plant chemicals called glucosinolates that break down into biologically-active compounds being studied for possible anticancer effects. BTW: The heavy green leaves that surround the head protect the flower buds from sunlight. The lack of sunlight does not allow chlorophyll to develop. Therefore, color is not produced.

Cauliflower brims with dietary fiber, crucial for good digestion. When you get enough fiber things, ahem, move smoothly, like roto-rooter through your temple's intestines. Cauliflower also contains glucoraphin, which protects your stomach and innards from cancer and ulcers. The omega-3 and vitamin K in cauliflower helps prevent chronic inflammation that leads to arthritis, chronic pain, and certain bowel conditions. In addition to folate, cauliflower is loaded with niacin, riboflavin, pantothenic acid, and thiamine. Cauliflower is low in sodium but delivers a good amount of potassium too. A 1/2-cup measure of cooked cauliflower contains 27.5 milligrams of ascorbic acid, more commonly known as vitamin C, nearly 50 percent of the daily recommended intake. Vitamin C is a powerful antioxidant that helps to reduce levels of snarky chemicals accumulating within your temple that damage cells within tissues.

Cauliflower can be served cooked or raw. Raw has considerably more nutrition. Peel off stem leaves, turn cauliflower upside down. Cut the stem just above where the florets join together. Separate the florets into equal bite size pieces. Turned off by the sulfur smell? Quickly steaming cauliflower reduces the sulfur smell, preserves crispness and color and reduces the loss of nutrients. When wrapped, cauliflower will keep for up to five days in your crisper drawer.

Much of society is reconnecting with earth. When all men, women, and children accept that foods born from the heavenly apothecary, not a chemistry lab, are the best vitamins on earth, disease and suffering will cease. You weren't born to hate veggies, you were taught. You were created to express perfect health. Reconnect.

'Flout' or 'flaunt?'

GRAMMAR GUY

By Jordan Fischer

Here's a question for you: When you're late to work, and you're flying down the road 15 miles an hour over the speed limit, are you "flouting" the law, or "flaunting" it?

The issue at hand is a case of mistaken identity. "Flout" and "flaunt" have different meanings, but similar connotations. Over the years that has lead to some confusion.

The band geeks out there are probably already aware that "flout" comes from the Middle English word flouten, meaning to play the flute (you knew that, right?). It means "to break or ignore (a law, rule, etc.) without hiding what you are doing or showing fear or shame," and originated from flute players' tendencies toward reckless, barefaced criminality.

(Some of that might not be historically accurate.)

"Flaunt," on the other hand, means "to show something in a very open way so that other people will notice." You see where the confusion could arise, yes?

"Flaunt" is sometimes used to mean "to treat contemptuously," but it's a non-standard usage. And, frankly, it's wrong.

This is one we can keep simple, thankfully: "Flaunt" means to display ostentatiously, and "flout" means to openly disregard the rules. Peacocks flaunt, while jail birds flout. We'll leave what flutists do for another day.

Altenheim celebrates open house of newly-renovated suites

CarDon and Associates celebrated this past weekend the renovation and expansion of the Altenheim Exceptional Senior Living campus with a public open house, 3525 E. Hanna Ave., Indianapolis.

Included in the renovation are 37 private rehabilitation suites, including 17 remodeled rooms and 20 brand new rooms. The new suites redesigned with new color schemes include private showers, microwaves and refrigerators, and a state-of-the-art therapy gym. The Altenheim has been part of the Indianapolis Southside community for more than 100 years and with CarDon and Associates since 2010.

Kent Rodgers, CarDon and Associates Chief Financial Officer said during prior to the April 30 ribbon cutting with the Greater Beech Grove Chamber of Commerce that the changes were in line with changing generational expectations of care.

"When we came into the community we had visions of this. It took us a little while to get there but we are excited about the service we can provide to the residents here in the area as private rooms are expected nowadays. We are glad to provide the rehab patients with a room that looks like a hospital room or better that they came from, the hospitality feel of a hotel setting," said Rodgers.

Mother's Day kitchen traditions

RECIPE

For The Southside Times by Family Features

There's no better place than the kitchen to honor your special bond with a woman who has taught you all you know about cooking and baking. Whether she's your mom, or a woman who has been like a mom in your life, Mother's Day is the perfect time to create kitchen traditions you can cherish together year after year.

A decadent recipe you can prepare together and enjoy warm out of the oven is an ideal choice. As you wait for the dough to rise in these homemade cinnamon rolls, you'll have plenty of time to catch up and reminisce over shared memories of your childhood and beyond.

Cinnamon Rolls with Caramel Glaze

Servings: 1 dozen rolls

Rolls:

- 1 1/3 cups warm milk (105°F)
- 2 packages (1/4-ounce each) active dry yeast
- 1/4 cup granulated sugar, divided
- 1/2 cup (1 stick) butter, softened
- 2 egg yolks
- 1 teaspoon Wilton Pure Vanilla Extract
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 4 cups bread flour, plus more for dusting

Filling:

- 1/2 cup (1 stick) butter, softened
- 1/3 cup granulated sugar
- · 2 tablespoons bread flour
- 2 tablespoons ground cinnamon

Glaze

- 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter
- 1/2 cup lightly-packed light brown sugar
- 1/2 cup heavy whipping cream
- 1 teaspoon Wilton Pure Vanilla Extract
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup confectioners' sugar (about 1/4 pound)

familyfeatures.com

For rolls, stir together warm milk, yeast and 1 tablespoon sugar in large bowl. Let stand 5-10 minutes or until foamy. Add butter, remaining 3 tablespoons sugar, egg yolks, vanilla and salt. Mix with electric mixer using dough hook on medium speed until combined. Gradually add flour, 1 cup at a time, and mix on medium speed until smooth, elastic dough forms, about 5 minutes.

Spray large bowl with vegetable pan spray. Form dough into ball, place into bowl and cover with plastic wrap. Let stand in warm place for 45 minutes or until doubled in size.

For filling, stir together butter, sugar, flour and cinnamon in medium bowl until well-combined.

Prepare 13-by-9-inch pan with vegetable pan spray.

Punch dough down and roll out to 18-by-14-inch rectangle on floured surface. Spread filling onto dough and roll up from long end, like a jelly roll. Pinch seam to seal, trim ends and cut into 12 equally-sized pieces.

Place rolls into prepared pan; cover with plastic wrap and let rise 25-30 minutes or until doubled in size.

Meanwhile, heat oven to 350°F. Remove plastic wrap from rolls and bake 25-29 minutes or until golden brown. Cool in pan on wire rack while preparing glaze.

For glaze, melt butter in saucepan over medium heat. Add brown sugar and cream. Cook over medium-high heat until mixture reaches a simmer; cook for 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and stir in vanilla and salt. Whisk in confectioners' sugar until smooth. Pour glaze over warm rolls. Serve warm.

Chester's thoughts on taxes

CHESTER'S CORNER

By James D. Allen

Once again Jim hired an accountant to do his taxes. Alas, last year's refund turned in to this year's bill for taxes not vet paid. He was shocked but apparently he and his wife were too prosperous; so he wrote a check and dreamed of cheaper days.

He brought the form home for his wife to sign, which she did. But then Clifford the wonder dog got up on his hind legs, snatched the tax form from the table, and chewed it to shreds!

Is he an anti-IRS protester or is he just a dog being a dog? They had to call the office and ask for a new form while our canine friend was sent to the corner as punishment. Thankfully, there was no extra charge for overcoming the dog

Being a dummy, I am not legally required to file a return. Being penniless, I have nothing to report anyway. Jim assures me that he has laid aside ample funds for my future but somehow I can never find where they've been placed.

Jim's wife is now retired and lives happily on her teacher's pension. Imagine being paid to do nothing?! Come to think of it, Jim is paid for not doing very much. If that comes up short she smiles sweetly at Jim who calmly hands over the extra cash. So far, the system has worked. I'm still poor and she has the dough!

Legally, Jim is considered "self-employed" (which means he gets to pay the Social Security tax twice) though everyone knows he works for the church. But he sets his own hours and schedule which means he spends a long time in the office reading and

What a gig! I think and read all the time and never get paid for it He also prays and reads the Bible but most Christians do that

One reason why Jim is overweight is that his parishioners keep giving him extra food. There are church suppers and meals and snacks at people's homes. Then he goes to meetings with other pastors and they always find an excuse to eat. The IRS collects nothing from these free grub which is fine by me. Surely some things should not be taxed.

I wonder, if Jim ever bought me some new clothes, could they be "written off" as a "business expense"?

Does your life have a purpose?

DEVOTIONAL

By Paul Kirby

"Saying, Behold, we go up to Jerusalem; and the Son of man shall be delivered unto the chief priests, and unto the scribes; and they shall condemn him to death, and shall deliver him to the Gentiles: And they shall mock him, and shall scourge him, and shall spit upon him, and shall kill him: and the third day he shall rise again." ~ Mark 10:33-34

Ours is a purposeful life. God has us all here for His purpose. Romans 8:28 says that all things come together for the good of those who are here to fulfill God's purpose in their lives because they love Him. (And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to His purpose.)

Some people think that they are here to take up space and breathe the air. I realize that some seem to have a greater purpose than others but in God's mind none do. Whatever my purpose is in God's domain, I am willing to serve in that capacity content and full of holy joy. Jesus had a purpose. All of His life was a journey to that purpose. Even before the world was created and put into place in this solar system, God knew He would send Jesus into this world to die for the sins of mankind. Jesus knew before He came what an ordeal this life would be for Him.

We miss this sometimes when we read about Jesus. We forget that He is the perfect image of the Father and that He is God revealing Himself to us all the way to the cross and the death of the physical body in which He lived.

God has a greater purpose for you than merely being here. We are all here to be His children, His servants, His eyes, His hands, His feet, and being all of these things we are His agents of love and mercy. May we, like Jesus, determine to live to the goal that God has set for our lives. Some will have great wealth, others great health, and others great fame and well-known names. Then, others of us will just be the average "Joe" just being faithful to God to the end. If we are faithful to the end there is a crown of glory waiting for us in eternity and a place around the altar of God. We will join those whose names are so well known in the chorus of praise that the angels cannot sing. We will sing the salvation song that man cannot write but which God's Spirit has written in our hearts. Hallelujah and amen!

God bless and go and have a great day.

Sisters of St. Benedict celebrate new garden

FEATURE

By Brian Ruckle

The Sisters of St. Benedict took paradise back from a parking lot and replaced it with a meditative garden for the whole community to enjoy.

On Wednesday, April 29 the Sisters, community leaders, and supporters who helped celebrated and blessed The Peace and Nature Garden at the Benedict Inn at 1402 Southern Ave. in Beech Grove. The Beech Grove Chamber of Commerce held a ribbon cutting and Sister Carol Falkner blessed the land

The space opened up after the decision in 2012 to raze the community center which had become difficult to maintain. Sister Sheila Marie Fitzpatrick, director of facilities and project manager for the project, said the parking serving the community center was removed and moved closer to the other building on the property.

"That left us with a large space that had been a parking lot for 40 years and we felt like we had to do something," Fitzpatrick said. "We decided we wanted something that would be a meditative space that would be accessible to all so folks in wheelchairs. walkers, could also take part in it," she said.

The Sisters teamed up with Keep Indianapolis Beautiful (KIB), Roncalli High School, St. Roch Catholic School, The Life Academy, The Benedictine Oblates of Our Lady of Grace Monastery, Beech Grove High School and many others. KIB brought other groups to help including employees from Eli Lilly and Company and even a Muslim youth group. The project started July 2013 and in April 2015.

"It was amazing how many people came to support the project. I estimate over 500 volunteers," Fitzpatrick said.
