Q: If you could invite anyone past or present to share Thanksgiving dinner with you and your family who would you invite? What would you serve?

"Ronald Reagan. He was the greatest president we've had during my lifetime."

John Wood of Franklin Township

"I think I would invite John Adams. I've always liked him as a founding father and a patriot. He is a lawyer and so we would get along. He is also feisty, and so he would have good dinner conversation. He would liven things up a bit. I think we would have to serve turkey. I think that would fire Adams up."

Erin Warrner of Homecroft

"I would invite Teddy Roosevelt because he is a great American. He is a brilliant man. He has an exciting lifestyle when he went out to the Dakotas and ran a ranch. I just think he would be a terrific dinner guest. Since it is Thanksgiving I would probably do the traditional Thanksgiving things. I would also probably consider adding some buffalo to the menu because he was big in buffalo and cattle. I would definitely do a whole variety of pies because I think he would really like that."

Suzanne Koehler of Franklin Township

"I would invite Benjamin Franklin. I find him the most interesting founder of our country. I think he would like French wines. Definitely a good bottle of wine and your traditional turkey, stuffing, dressing."

Before we replace your hip or knee we replace your anxiety and fear.

Usually the worst part of any surgical procedure is the fear of the unknown. At Community's Center for Joint Health we're known for eliminating that uncertainty. Our hip and knee replacement patients, along with a "coach" they've designated, attend our pre-op class which lets everyone know what to expect come surgery day and beyond. In fact, you're given your very own guidebook. Suddenly your anxiety and fear is replaced with joy and excitement of increased mobility. And all that's before our orthopedic surgeons work their wonders. Choose Community and give yourself peace of mind. To learn more visit eCommunity.com/joint or call 800.777.7775. Exceptional care. Michael Stafford looks at ways to keep Books Unlimited Indy open in the Garfield Park area

By Nicole Davis

"This store is a true testament to history."

"Book lovers' paradise in our neighborhood!"

"Thanks for 30 + years of great deals and finds."

"Keep this store alive for as long as you absolutely can!"

Messages are scribed through a guest book that Michael Stafford has kept on his counter at Books Unlimited Indy for the past year and a half. These handwritten notes from customers of all ages and from areas across the U.S. represent the love the community has for the nearly 40-year-old bookstore.

Located next door to Garfield Eatery and Coffee, across the road from Big Car and on Shelby Street where the Red Line rapid transit system will soon come through, the store has the perfect location, Stafford said. Yet, competing with electronic books and larger sellers like Amazon in the digital world makes running a small, local bookstore tough.

Stafford almost had to sell the store in 2015 before deciding to hang on for another year. Although things are looking up, it's not safe yet. He listed the store up for sale a month ago. After hearing the news, the community began rallying around him. A gofundme page was set up to help the store raise funds to stay open: gofundme.com/g3qprvuc. As community members expressed their wish for the store to remain in the Garfield Park area, the people behind Big Car, a nonprofit arts organization which is investing in the Garfield Park community to help it thrive, have been trying to help Stafford stay open.

"The minute I give up, the shop kicks back," Stafford said. "It's rough being a small, independent book dealer. But, we need places like this, mom and pops. The values of this place go beyond dollars and cents. This shop needs to be here. It's got heart and soul. It's good for everybody."

Books Unlimited began on East Washington Street in 1978 by Stafford's father, James Ware.

"It was about half this size," Stafford said. "It was a cinder block building, as bare as bare gets. You couldn't walk down an aisle if another person was there. Somebody had to back out. There were books all over the floor. It was a classic hole in the wall. It didn't look like much, but the books were good and place was good. We had a good following."

Stafford was 20 years old when he first worked behind the counter. He even opened an offshoot of Books Unlimited, becoming a comic book dealer through Comics Unlimited. He purchased the bookstore from his father in 2011, relocating it to 2629 Shelby St. after their old building was bought out.

Stafford celebrated five years of owning and operating Books Unlimited Indy on Nov. 21. The store sells used books, collectibles and other items. The store has fiction on one side, nonfiction on the other and is organized into categories such as Indiana history, US

"We're physical beings. We've developed the way we have to touch, feel, smell, see, hear. Books help to feed that part of us. It nurtures our inside."

- MICHAEL STAFFORD

history, war, politics, religion, psychology, nature, health, world history, movies, children and more.

Stafford said he's picky about the quality of books he brings into the store and is always on the lookout for unique items.

"Some of the things I find, the notes, the stamps of where they come from, who's read it, who has held it - they have soul," he said. That's the reason he believes a physical book can never be replaced by electronics. "Books just feel better. We're physical beings. We've developed the way we have to touch, feel, smell, see, hear. Books help to feed that part of us. It nurtures our inside. Digital world doesn't do that. Pick up a computer and press a few buttons; it's hollow."

Books Unlimited Indy is a hideaway for Stafford, who said he personally enjoys reading comics the most. His favorite part of the shop, though, is that guest log, which represents the "heart and soul" of his shop.

As the future of Books Unlimited Indy is unforeseen, he said he hopes the situation changes and he can remain open, offering the small bookstore experience on the Southside for everyone to enjoy.

"Places like this aren't around any more," Stafford said. "It's the last book store of its type in this town. There is no one to fill the void. We'll see where it leads."

Marion County Sheriff's Deputy enjoys daily interactions with people while working jail security

BEHIND the BADGE

Compiled by Nicole Davis

When Sam Karallus moved to Indianapolis he would see the sheriff's deputies and knew he wanted to be one of them. Having worked with the Marion County Sheriff's Office for the past two years, he said he's been fortunate to have supervisors and senior deputies who have taught him how to do the job well, answering questions and molding him into the person that he is today.

Karallus grew up in Leo, Ind., which is north of Ft. Wayne. After graduating from college with a degree in criminal justice, he took a position with the department of corrections in the prison. He worked there five years prior to being hired as a deputy for the Marion County Sheriff's Office in 2014. He now works jail security, running the front security desk.

"I love it," he said. "I'm a people person. I get to have the day-to-day interactions with all kinds of people."

Karallus resides in Perry Township.

What was your inspiration to go into law enforcement?

It started as a kid. I grew up in a small town. Being in a small town, you interact with mainly the sheriff's department. They put a smile on my face as a little kid. Continuing that friendship as I grew up, it got me hooked. Now I am able to (pass that along) to the younger generation.

What has been one of your most gratifying moments on the job?

There are so many things in my career that have put a smile on my face and someone else's face. I can recall one time I caught a shoplifter. We had taken her back to the office and did paperwork. She didn't end up getting arrested. As I walked her out, she broke out into tears. She gave me a hug and expressed how sorry she was. You could feel the sincerity that she knew what she did was wrong. That's just one of many.

What aspect of the job do you find most challenging?

Dealing with so many different things at one time. If you're not a good multitasker, that is challenging. Dealing with all the different problems that people bring to you, being able to break those down and help them with each single problem. There is not one answer that will fix every problem.

What do you enjoy doing in your off-time?

I'm a big hunter and fisherman - any way to get outdoors and forget the stresses of the job.

What are your future goals, professionally or personally?

Professionally to move up with the sheriff's department, move up in rank and become one of those senior deputies that can help the younger deputies that come on and help them through their career. Personally, I recently got engaged, so building my family.

What would you have done if you hadn't become a deputy?

I probably would have been a fireman.

Indiana writers Spokesmen of a forgotten past

HAUNTS & JAUNTS

By Rick Hinton

Indiana produces some fine writers and on a local level. It's always a jolt to remember the events they are writing about, with locations you have most likely passed through a hundred times. It doesn't get much closer than that! These are just a few authors in my personal library, exploring not only the paranormal, but also the dark underbelly of Indianapolis:

JOHN DEAN:

His book "The Indiana Torture Slaying: Sylvia Liken's Ordeal & Death" brought a grim chapter of Indianapolis' history to the public. The house—and neighborhood—never really recovered from the torture of a 16 year old girl in the mid 1960s. The house was torn down a few years ago, and seemingly full of ghostly activity (why wouldn't it!). For me personally, this is still a hard one to get past. Which brings about the next author directly related to the subject...

FOREST BOWMAN, JR.:

In 1965 he was counsel for 16 year old Coy Hubbard and 13 year old John Baniszewski for the trial involving Sylvia Liken's death. His book "Sylvia: The Likens Trial" covers every aspect of the proceedings closely followed by Indianapolis residents in the day. Court trials are not a consistent hotbed of adrenaline soaked activity—there are those lapses that can put you to sleep—however Bowman was there, and has recorded his perceptions and conclusions as a first observer. It wasn't a pretty trial!

JULIE YOUNG:

A local historian with an array of work covering an Indianapolis we may have forgotten: "Eastside Indianapolis," "Historic Irvington," "The Famous Faces of Indy's WTTV-4," to name just a few.

ROBERT SNOW:

This author served 38 years with IPD, retiring in 2007 with the rank of Captain. And he has some stories to tell: "Killers in the Family" (the 2008 murders involving the Reese family), "Slaughter on North LaSalle" (the 1971 murders of business entrepreneurs and playboys Robert Gierse, James Baker and Robert Hinson in their near east side home off of 10th Street).

ED WENCK:

"Hoosier Killers: Indiana's Darkest History." There are several variety's of killers in the landscape, and Indiana has had its mix.

MARK MARIMEN:

"Haunted Indiana" volumes 1-4, "Weird Indiana," "Haunted Travels of Indiana," and "School Spirits."

KAT KLOCKOW:

Paranormal author of "Haunted Hoosier Halls-Indiana University." Is there paranormal activity at IU? Apparently so!

ANDREW E. STONER:

"Wicked Indianapolis."

FRED CAVINDER:

"Historic Indianapolis Crimes."

Being an author is a pursuit behind the keyboard, but the finished project makes the hours worth while. At least, I think so...

Rick Hinton, a Southport resident, loves researching things that go bump in the night. His articles can be read on Facebook: Rick Hinton, Southport Paranormal Examiner. Hinton conducts paranormal investigations with his team, South Central Paranormal.

Beech Grove City Schools serves Thanksgiving dinner to community members

By Nicole Davis

Thanksgiving came a little early this week when Beech Grove City Schools held its second annual Community Thanksgiving Dinner on Nov. 21.

"This is a great opportunity for our students, our staff and community come together," said Superintendent Dr. Paul Kaiser. "We have 50-70 kids volunteering, a lot of teachers volunteering and we're serving our community. We're especially thankful to our sponsors, Performance Services and Community Health South who donated money along with Chartwell and Piazza Foods. It's all free to the community and donated by our business partners. It's a great day to be a Hornet."

Students greeted guests at the door, dished out food and served drinks. Their time could be applied toward volunteer hours, a graduation requirement. Students from South Grove Intermediate School even volunteered to help serve. The Beech Grove High School cafeteria was filled with guests through the two-and-a-half-hour event. Many, like 94-year-old JP Pedrey, were returning for the second year.

"He connected with a couple of teachers last year," said JP's daughter, Cathy Cummings. "They invited him places. He just went to The Wizard of Oz. It's got my dad doing more things. All of that happened because he came last year, met a couple of people from the school and they got him connected to the high school, the programs and productions they put on."

Having More Retirement Accounts is Not the Same as Having More Money.

When it comes to the number of retirement accounts you have, the saying "more is better" is not necessarily true. In fact, if you hold multiple accounts with various brokers, it can be difficult to keep track of your investments and to see if you're properly diversified.* At the very least, multiple accounts usually mean multiple fees.

Bringing your accounts to Edward Jones could help solve all that. Plus, one statement can make it easier to see if you're moving toward your goals.

*Diversification does not guarantee a profit or protect against loss.

To learn why consolidating your retirement accounts to Edward Jones makes sense, call your local financial advisor today.

FROM THE EDITOR

Thanksgiving is not just for one day

Like many holidays, we forget the original intent. We get caught up in a sporting event or family time or a large meal, while we turn our focus to Christmas. But we're missing an opportunity to remember how we got here. It's been 400 years since the colonists landed. We all know the story and yet we are too far removed for it to have meaning. So we spend our time on Facebook posting our thanks for this or that, then we return to the hustle and bustle of our lives. But we have so much to be thankful for every day. Our lives could be richer for just stopping to remember what we have.

It's easy to get stressed about the orange barrels lining the highways and byways of our daily commutes, but without the proper care, the streets cannot get us to our destinations.

What about advances in health-care? Sure it costs a pretty penny, but we're alive to complain.

Food is another thing we take for granted. We don't have to forage for a meal, spend the day preparing and the growing season toiling.

We are blessed. Live in the moment. Eleanor Roosevelt was once quoted saying, "The purpose of life is to live it, to taste experience to the utmost, to reach out eagerly and without fear for newer and richer experience." Carry that throughout your days and it will make a difference in your attitude.

 Stars: To the Beech Grove City Schools for the Thanksgiving dinner they provided to the community on Monday night.

 Stars: To everyone who participated in the free shredding and appliance recycling event held behind Beech Grove City Hall.

Stars: To the bagger at the Kroger on Thompson Road who paid the balance on a stranger's groceries after they realized they couldn't cover it all. "Kroger is lucky to have an employee like that and I will be paying it forward," wrote that recipient on a Facebook post.

★ Stars: To the City of Greenwood and the Greenwood Common Council for proposing and approving a new $100 credit opportunity for sanitary sewer customers. The credit, which seeks to reduce improper inflows into the area's sanitary sewer system, is available beginning Jan. 1 and through Dec. 31, 2017. It's the latest component of Greenwood's "Find It, Fix It" campaign launched earlier this year. To receive the credit, Greenwood is requesting that homeowners provide proof of compliance for their home connections, which must be certified by a licensed plumber, home inspector or professional engineer. A compliance form can be found on the city's website, and once completed, it should be returned to the Greenwood Finance Department.

★ Stars: To the Shepherd Community Center that is distributing meals and such for Thanksgiving.

HUMOR

TOP TEN SIGNS YOUR STORE ISN'T READY FOR THE CHRISTMAS SEASON

By Torry Stiles

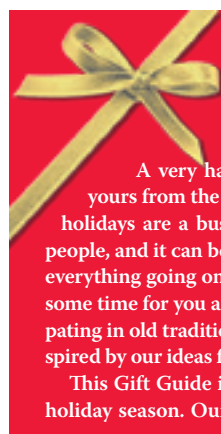

10. You let your brother's geeky kid handle your advertising and now you're trying to explain to your customers about your great X-man sales.
9. "Yes, I have fire insurance. Why do you... What's that smell?"
8. "... and I suppose you think Mr. Peterson won't mind when we tell him we can't open Peterson's Toy Store because Joey left his keys in his mommy's van? You're 42 years old. Put them in your Dukes of Hazzard lunch box from now on."
7. "Why does our Santa smell like cheap vodka and nachos?"
6. "Okay. You get two beers for each truck you unload but the first person who drives the forklift off the dock is pulling overtime."
5. Your plan for snow plowing the lot hinges on someone getting their license back before the first snow.
4. "Everybody called off? Who showed up?"
"That new stock boy is here."
"Send him over he's practically the CEO."
3. "I thought we would run our ad in Monday's paper when the rates are cheaper."
2. "We got the boilers up and running. We'll be by next week to check for leaks."
1. Your purchaser is bragging about the great deal he got on decorations and you're left trying to make "Easter in December" the next big thing.

BELIEVE IT!

Our nation has all sorts of arcane, nonsensical laws on the books. Each week, we'll share one with you ...

In Louisiana, one could land in jail for up to a year for making a false promise.

Celebrate Small Business Saturday in Beech Grove

Shop Local - Kick start holiday shopping by participating in Small Business Saturday, Nov. 26, in Beech Grove. Start the day at the Delta Theta Tau craft fair, 9 a.m., at Beech Grove High School, then move onto Main Street and take part in a shopping passport program for a chance to win a local gift basket worth more than $100. Businesses participating in the passport program include: Beech Grove Bowl, Rustic Root, Harlow Rouge Couture, Eckstein Shoes, Treasure Trove in the Grove and Spalding Jewelry. Passports can be picked up and dropped off at Beech Grove Bowl, Rustic Root, Eckstein Shoes or the craft fair. Additionally, shop small bags full of local goodies, discounts and coupons will be passed out at local businesses and to early shoppers at the craft fair. There's a limited supply of bags available.

For more information, visit beechgrovechamber.org/2016/11/07/delta-theta-tau-annual-craft-fair.

Southside Sorority holds Annual Craft Fair

Fundraiser - Artists and craftsmen from across the Midwest will be at Beech Grove High School, 5330 Hornet Ave., on Saturday, Nov. 26, from 9 a.m. - 3 p.m., to help you with holiday shopping. For 41 years, local Delta Theta Tau members from Nu Tau Chapter have held a craft fair the Saturday after Thanksgiving. It is now called the Artisan Holiday Market, to reflect the true nature of the event. This event enables Nu Tau Chapter to financially support nearly 20 local charities. Recently, Nu Tau was recognized for placing 8th out of 91 chapters nationally for the total dollars donated to charity. The Artisan Holiday Market is the primary fund raising event for the sorority. There is a $2 entrance fee and lunch will be available for purchase.

Beech Grove prepares for Christmas holiday

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus

Eight-year-old Virginia O'Hanlon wrote a letter to the editor of New York's Sun, and the quick response was printed as an unsigned editorial Sept.

21, 1897. The work of veteran newsman Francis Pharcellus Church has since become history's most reprinted newspaper editorial.

Dear Editor,

I am 8 years old. Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus. Papa says, 'If you see it in the Sun it's so.' Please tell me the truth; is there a Santa Claus?

Virginia O'Hanlon
115 West Ninety-Fifth Street

Virginia,

Your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus. It would be dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world.

You may tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernal beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

No Santa Claus! Thank God! he lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood.

READERS' WRITES

A Thanksgiving greeting

The City of Beech Grove would like to wish everyone a Happy Thanksgiving. City Hall will be closed on Thanksgiving and the Friday after as well. City Hall will re-open on Monday, Nov. 28 at a.m. For those who get their trash picked up on Thursday, DPW will pick it up on Friday. For those of you who get your trash picked up on Friday, DPW will pick it up the following Monday.

The Friday after Thanksgiving traditionally starts the holiday season shopping. We encourage you to "Shop Local" and visit our Main Street businesses on Saturday, Nov. 26 for good deals.

We would like to pass on to all of you that our DPW is prepared to take on the weather conditions. We have recently purchased 6 new snow plows and pick up trucks, our salt spreaders are being installed and we have a barn full of salt. Local contractors for snow removal in neighborhoods are secured again for this season and we will plow all local streets after 2 inches of snow fall.

Dennis B. Buckley
Mayor, City of Beech Grove

CORRECTION

Oops...

In the Nov. 17 issue of The Southside Times, the article on Shannon Newerth should have stated that she resided on the Purdue Campus the summer before her senior year, not through her senior year. We regret the error.

READERS' WRITES

Frost like a snow

What an absolutely beautiful transition into cooler weather today, in my neck of the woods. Living by some deep bodies of water, when the temperature cools, it always makes for a thick and ominous predawn fog before it rolls away is if it was choreographed. I always marvel at this. Today, however, the temperature dipped into the mid-20's. This of course coats everything in, to quote my father, "a frost like a snow." The fog freezes on everything and creates the appearance of a light snow, making the landscape pristine and beautiful.

This fall has stayed unusually warm, fooling even the flowers, which have only now stopped blooming. The trees have also been in on the act, as they are late in changing colors.

But I noticed this morning that summer is finally releasing its grip on us and I find this to be sad. Any leaves that were turning have fallen in mourning, perhaps due to the weight of that "frost like a snow". Although it is cool at 24°F it is sunny and beautiful and one need not be melancholy. Don't worry about the coming winter; today is a glorious day to be alive.

Hacksaw Ridge; Best film of 2016

MOVIE REVIEW

By Adam Staten

As 2016 quickly approaches its inevitable conclusion, the Thanksgiving and Christmas season are now upon us. This is generally the time of year when kindness, generosity and the best of humanity are on full display. However, despite anything that may happen now or in the immediate future, the world can often be a cold and cruel place. One recently released film depicts what is easily the most horrific act the human race has ever and will ever engage in, warfare.

Hacksaw Ridge is the true story of Desmond Doss, a World War II medic and conscientious objector, who saved the lives of dozens of men without ever firing a single shot. Despite his deep-seated belief that taking the life of another, no matter the circumstance, is a sin, Doss enlists in the Army. At basic training Doss consistently refuses to touch a gun, much less engage in any kind of target practice. Doss is ultimately court marshaled for his unwillingness to heed to his commanding officer's orders. However, it's eventually decided that Doss does in fact have the right to go into battle without any weapon to protect himself.

Doss and his platoon are soon deployed to Japan. After scaling the several hundred foot high wall that is Hacksaw Ridge, the soldiers are greeted by a battlefield lined with the rotting and maggot-field corpses of their predecessors. Minutes after surveying their bleak surroundings, bullets start flying. Doss then risks his life saving nearly 75 men injured and left for dead.

The way in which Hacksaw Ridge is written it's almost as if you're treated to two separate films. The first half focuses on attempting to give the audience a sense of who Desmond is by focusing on his faith in God and his budding romantic relationship to his eventual wife Dorothy. Then almost halfway through, the film makes a noticeable and somewhat dramatic change and the rest of the film is nearly nonstop carnage. The story structure is somewhat distracting, but given the superb direction and strong performances all around, this is easily overlooked.

In addition to the direction and the performances, the cinematography on display in Hacksaw Ridge is spectacular. The beautiful shots of the dark, hazy battlefield and the quick, nearly nonstop sequences of graphic, bloody violence are expertly framed and put together.

While likely the most violent and bloody film of the year, Hacksaw Ridge is also the best film of the year. The strong visuals and the touching, moving story will stay with you long after you leave the theater. 4.5 out of 5.

What are you thankful for?

NUTRITION

By Wendell Fowler

Rather than focusing on the fear, anger, hate and heartbreaking behavior America's experiencing nowadays, let's all turn off the TV news, slow down moment, close our eyes, take a big deep breath in through the nose, and then exhale slowly out the throat. Now, let's focus on the good within us all we seem to have forgotten. Feeling peaceful in the midst of all this is a choice. So this Thanksgiving before we eat with family and cherished friends let's feel good together as we count and share our blessings.

HERE'S MY LIST:

- First and foremost, I am grateful for you, dear readers. When I hit the Southside shopping at wholefood groceries and the mall, (can't keep my wife out of DSW) I'm frequently approached by cheerful readers who eagerly share heartwarming tales of their preventing, conquering or managing disease, obesity, depression or general malaise and discover that other level of "feel good" I evangelize. Their enthusiasm makes my heart light brighter. You lift me up.
- I'm thankful when folks who have re-connected with God's earth and its bounteous celestial apothecary (community Farmer's Markets of course) has given them a deeper, more eloquent, connectivity to the divine mind of all that is-our creator.
- I'm thankful that you know you're the sole architect of your health now, and in the future.
- I'm grateful for the constant flow of science revealing that eating today's standard American fare of premade, albeit convenient food-like twaddle have been revealed to be the foundation of 70-80 percent of today's largely preventable diseases.

- I'm thankful you're returning to the kitchen stove where you control the ingredients.
- I'm thankful you've learned that nothing mentally, physically or spiritually gratifying comes from Capri sun, 'Poop Tarts' and diet coke. You learned they diminish your light when the world needs your beautiful light to shine brightly.
- I'm thankful that you know water is the staff of life. Without it all life would perish.
- I'm thankful you are at least toying with the idea of changing at least a small part of your diet, such as backing off on sugar, white flour or junk food.
- I'm thankful you perceive your body as the Holy Temple-the home of Jesus.
- I am thankful for my patient, loving wife Sandra, the health of my family and our happy, healthy dogs that bring me so much joy to life.
- I am thankful for the love of my community and tribe of friends who support and love me unconditionally.

And so it is. Happy Thanksgiving.

Southside's Madsen graduates from Air Force basics program

Military - Airman First Class Samantha Leigh Adrian Madsen graduated from the United States Air Force Basic Military Training Program at Lackland AFB, San Antonio, Texas on Sept. 9. She has completed an eight-week program that included training in Military Discipline and studies, Air Force Core Values, physical fitness and Basic Warfare Principles.

After graduating from Basic Military Training Airman Madsen went on to Complete her Technical School Training in Fuel Systems Maintenance at Sheppard AFB, Wichita Falls, Texas and graduated from Tech School on Nov. 15. She will be stationed at Davis-Monthan AFB, in Tucson, Ariz. serving with the 355th Aircraft Maintenance Squadron, under the command of Colonel Scott C. Campbell and Colonel Jennifer M. Short. Davis-Monthan AFB is one of the largest installations and flying operations in the United States Air Force with more than 7,500 Airmen, 3,000 civilian employees, and more than 100 operational aircraft.

Airman Madsen is the Daughter of Kevin and Michelle Madsen, of Perry Township, Indianapolis. She is a 2016 graduate of Indiana Connections Academy, an on-line charter school.

McDonald's awards MAC Grants Southside teachers

Education - For 17 years, McDonald's Restaurants of Central Indiana has offered MAC Grants to help teachers Make Activities Count for their students. Jackie Miller, Angela Orr and Michael Tygrett were each awarded a McDonald's MAC Grant this year. Miller, a teacher at Perry Meridian Middle School will use the McDonald's MAC Grant to have students re-enact and learn about the American Revolution. Orr, a teacher at Southport Middle School will use the McDonald's MAC Grant to implement baking and cooking skills in the classroom for students to learn measurements. Tygrett, also a teacher from Southport Middle School will use the McDonald's MAC Grant to have students create ancient writings using clay and stylus. The MAC Grants program provides funding to teachers for interesting and educational projects. Those who are interested in applying for the grant can submit an application at mac-grantsindy.com during Fall 2017.

Weekly Devotion

25 The sword without, and terror within, shall destroy both the young man and the virgin, the suckling also with the man of gray hairs. Deuteronomy 32:25

It seems that there are those in this old world who just cannot find it within themselves the ability to live at peace with others. These people are not satisfied to live a life of co-existence with others in the world and especially those who disagree with themselves. These people are not at peace with themselves let alone with their family, neighbors, or others in the world around them. Instead of a healthy discussion about the issues, they decided to blow the rest of the world out of existence. So, they set out to terrorize the rest of the world to force it to cower in a corner somewhere so that they, the terrorists, can run the world and make it over again in their likeness and image.

God created us for fellowship with Himself and with one another.

When we are so busy struggling amongst ourselves for the "top" position in our society, we miss the wonder and beauty of real fellowship. Together we can solve any problem and resolve any differences but that can be done only when we develop a sense of submission to the better and more appropriate ideas amongst us. Church society is no different in that sense than the society of the world itself. Instead of letting God be God, we want to make Him over again in our own image and likeness and wind up de-ifying man and humanizing God.

Let God be God and let us be His children together and by so doing the world will be a much better place for everyone of us. If we have differences, let us take them to the Lord and let Him be the final Arbiter of them. Things would work out much better if we do.

God bless and go and have a great day.

Paul A. Kirby is the pastor at the Church of God at 3939 S. Emerson Ave.
