Eskenazi receives $500,000 for addressing social determinants of health

Eskenazi Health has received a $500,000 grant to accelerate the integration of social determinants of health into clinical care. Eskenazi will work on ongoing initiatives while exploring new innovations. The hospital will work with IU Richard M. Fairbanks School of Public Health at IUPUI, among other community partners, to assess how and where social determinants of health impact patients. Once identified, patients can be referred to in-house or community-based programs and services that complement their medical care. Funding will primarily be used through the next 12-18 months to identify nonmedical factors influencing patients' health.

A question of ethics: gravitating toward the mysterious world of cemeteries

HAUNTS & JAUNTS

By Rick Hinton

For paranormal investigators, cemeteries can be a catch-22. They are intended as a memorial for the living: a repose of peace, tranquility and a temporary separation from a hectic routine of daily life. They house moments of remembrance and reflection in an oasis of quiet reverence, where one contemplates their own mortality amidst a calming setting of trees, grass and monuments. Life holds a degree of upmost importance (at least temporarily) in the short time we are there.

Yet for many paranormal investigators it has become a mindset of pseudo-reasoning: it's a graveyard, so consequently it just has to be haunted! This is also just an assumption.

Cemeteries are hallowed grounds of historical significance – highlighting the life and times of a generation that has come before us and shaped a town's history. Cemeteries are also ultimately our own final destination, with our own pages to write and leave behind.

The Greenwood Cemetery, located at 620 West Main St., continues to hold a silent vigil as the surrounding area has steadily changed and grown throughout the passage of years. Expansion from downtown Indianapolis has transformed the U.S. 31 corridor, remodeling the veneer of a former small town residing in the countryside. The cemetery and history however, remain unchanged.

The Greenwood Cemetery was officially established in the summer of 1884 by a group of 34 motivated town residents, originally consisting of only 12 acres. It was extremely humble beginnings when it opened for business. The first burial was in that same year. It wasn't hard to see into the future, forecasting that space would soon become an issue. The caretakers continued to work with what they had. It wasn't until 1907 that the cemetery expanded ground north by the acquisition of 25 additional acres. It was then that the "life" of the Greenwood Cemetery took a firm grip and rolled forward into the future.

New paranormal groups seem to gravitate toward the shadowy, mysterious world of cemeteries; older established groups – not so much. It can, however, be a training ground for equipment and personal reactions to sometimes adrenaline-fueled situations. It's an opportunity to see from what your team members are made. Yet, at the end of the day, is it an intrusive and foolish game?

I have spent some quiet evenings in the past, perching myself on a bench in the older pioneer section of the Greenwood Cemetery – just watching and listening. No ghosts ... no audible voices calling to me from a distant era.

There is something to keep in mind while in cemetery mode: respect. You are there just to observe. Cemeteries are not a playground for ghost-hunting, but rather a tribute to honor those who have lived and loved before us.

Local youth organizations need mentors like you

Did you know that one in three children will grow up without having a mentor?

January is National Mentoring Month. The month focuses on the need for mentors and how each of us, as individuals, businesses, government agencies, schools, faith communities and nonprofits – can work together to help ensure positive outcomes for young people. The campaign celebrates mentoring and the positive effect it can have on young lives.

To help you decide which type of mentoring program you want, ask yourself what time commitment you can make, the age of youth you'd like to work with, what types of activities interest you (do you want to help kids learn a skill, pursue an interest, help them with their school-work or be a caring adult friend)?

The following are 10 local organizations needing mentors:

- Starfish, Inc.
- Big Brothers Big Sisters of Central Indiana
- Girls, Inc.
- Concord Center
- 100 Black Men of Indianapolis
- Trusted Mentors
- ReadUP
- Hawthorne Community Center
- Mary Rigg Neighborhood Center
- Trusted Mentors

HUMOR

TOP 10 THOUGHTS AFTER A WEEKEND AWAY

By Torry Stiles

Dear readers: The missus and I spent last weekend exploring parts of southwestern Indiana. Here are a few observations.

10. If the counter help at the little sandwich shop in Bloomington are red-eyed and smelling like an Australian grass fire it is probably best that you stay close to your food while it's made.
9. Folks from Loogootee don't appreciate being called, "Loogies."
8. In a world filled with smart phones and GPS units it is practically impossible to get lost. It seems I am an over-achiever.
7. People from French Lick already know that Larry Bird grew up there and roll their eyes at you when you try to explain it to them.
6. Folks at the bed & breakfast never appreciate it when guests try to redecorate. How was I supposed to know that replastering would be so hard?
5. The wife doesn't like curvy, hilly roads with all sorts of twists, turns, ups and downs. I seem to be highly skilled at finding the route most loaded with those. ... Oops.
4. The fancy hotel in West Baden is pretty classy. I almost felt guilty wearing my favorite Speedrome shirt until I spotted another guest sporting a Steve Kinser jacket.
3. On the campus of Vincennes University sits the Red Skelton museum. Clem Kadiddlehopper is practically a professor at the place.
2. You can revel in the wonders of the Circle of Life. Distracted tourists create roadkill. Vultures circle the roadkill distracting drivers who create more roadkill.
1. From Vincennes, a 30-second drive across a bridge takes you to Illinois, where you can play slot machines in diners and buy marijuana legally. When I was growing up, I thought the ultimate thrill was buying some bottle rockets.

Singleton and Herr Mortuary Name Returns to Madison Avenue

Bill Singleton first opened Singleton and Herr Mortuary on Madison Ave. in the early 1970s. The St. Pierre family is proud to carry on his legacy and is pleased to restore the name of the funeral home at its location near E. Stop 11 Road in Southport.

The St. Pierre family, sixth-generation funeral directors on the Southside, offers a written service guarantee at all of their locations. They are the exclusive providers of the Cremation with Confidence™ Guarantee and are members of the selective organizations Selected Independent Funeral Homes and Preferred Funeral Directors International, along with the Indiana Funeral Directors Association.

What happens to preneed contracts?
Prearrangements made previously at this location with Singleton Community Mortuary and Memorial Center will be moved to their new westside location at Lynhurst Drive and Morris Street.

We recognize an event such as this can be confusing. If you wish for your prearrangements to remain at the Madison Ave. location, that is your right. Indiana law allows for you to be served by anyone of your choosing at the location of your choice.

Should you have any questions regarding your prearrangements, our family at Singleton and Herr is honored to assist you. Stop in the funeral home or call (317) 882-0771 to arrange an appointment.

By Angela Morefield

City leaders, officials and citizens gathered at Hornet Park Community Center Jan. 1 for the swearing-in ceremony for newly elected officers of the city of Beech Grove.

The ceremony began with the posting of the colors flag presentation, a prayer and the Pledge of Allegiance. The Honorable Judge Linda Brown started the ceremony with swearing in re-elected Beech Grove Mayor Dennis Buckley and new Clerk-Treasurer Jim Coffman. The following were elected to City Council At-Large: Kara Ferguson and William (Buddy) Templin; District 1: Elizabeth Lamping; District 2: Gary Hall; District 3: Robert Ferguson; District 4: Kevin Day; and District 5: Dave Harrison.

Mayor Dennis Buckley then led the swearing in for the city leaders, starting with newly appointed Police Chief Michael Maurice, followed by Deputy Chief Robert Mercuri and Fire Chief Robert Cheshire. The ceremony was closed with the retrieving of the flags, and a prayer.

Michael Maurice appointed as chief of Beech Grove Police Department

Compiled by Nancy Price

Michael Maurice has become chief of the Beech Grove Police Department effective Jan. 1. Maurice replaces Mark Swartz, who retired after serving 37 years with the department. Swartz served as police chief for the last eight years.

Maurice has been with the BGPD for 18 years. In those 18 years, Maurice worked 10 years on middle shift, seven of those as the shift lieutenant. He also served as a field training officer, Fraternal Order of Police representative and member of the Special Response Team.

In January 2012, recently retired Chief Mark Swartz appointed Maurice to the position of deputy chief, where he has served the past eight years. During this time Maurice helped oversee the daily operations of the police department and continued to serve on the SRT.

In April 2012 through January 2013, Maurice attended and graduated from the Police Executive Leadership Academy that was sponsored by the Indiana Association of Chiefs of Police. In the fall of 2019, Maurice obtained his master's degree in Business Administration from Western Governors University.

Michael Maurice is a 1999 graduate of Cedarville University, where he earned his bachelor's degree. He then graduated from the Indiana Police Corp Academy in February 2002 and was hired by the Beech Grove Police Department that same month.

Robert Mercuri, who has been with the BGPD since 1991, has been appointed as deputy chief.

Cinemark Movies 8 gifts private movie screening to Southside family

FEATURE

By Angela Morefield

A recently renovated Southside movie theater decided to gift a movie screening of Frozen II to a family that gives back to an important cause.

Cinemark Movies 8 at U.S. 31 and County Line Road in Indianapolis, previously known as Movies 8, wanted to give back to the Southside community to celebrate their recent theater upgrade and remodel.

A private movie screening was gifted to a special Southside family. Vanessa Stiles, public relations representative for Victory Sun, Inc. suggested Jennifer Buechler's family. Buechler is the mother of five children. Her oldest son is a sophomore at Ohio State University and graduated from Roncalli High School, and her youngest, Lauryn, is in second grade and was born with Down Syndrome. Jennifer and her husband, John Buechler, formed the 21 dreamS team for the Down Syndrome Indiana's annual fundraiser, Buddy Walk.

"The Buechler family got the opportunity for the movie screening when Cinemark's remodel of the existing theater demonstrated a commitment to Indianapolis' Southside community," Stiles said. "In addition to the renovation, Cinemark's leadership team sought out unique ways they could demonstrate their commitment to the community."

The Buddy Walk is a celebrated event for the Buechler family and the families and friends who gather each fall for the Buddy Walk are an extension of Jennifer's family. When John's mom passed away, the funeral fell on the same weekend as the Buddy Walk. Missing their Buddy Walk family, Jen described the relationship her daughter Lauryn had with John's mother, "Nanny," in a Facebook post:

"When Lauryn was born and we received her at-birth diagnosis, Nanny took it exceptionally hard. Due to the culture and negative stereotypes of differently-abled people (most certainly individuals with Down Syndrome) of her generation, she was worried and scared about Lauryn's future. She cried for days. Then she met Lauryn. And, she saw how the world was changing ... and how Lauryn and individuals like her are changing the world. They had a special relationship."

Cinemark wanted to give the family a reason to celebrate with their Buddy Walk families without having to wait until next year's event. On Dec. 28, Cinemark welcomed the family and their 21 dreamS friends and other Buddy Walk families for a belated celebration.

Even though the 21 dreamS team did not attend the Buddy Walk, they were the second largest fundraising team, with $13,445 raised (more than $3K over their goal).

The theater's renovations include state-of-the-art picture and sound quality and electric-powered, plush, oversize recliners with footrests, cup holders and heat-controlled seats. Cinemark accepts reserved seating online, includes a kiosk and an app for better access to ticketing capabilities. All films shown are new releases. Southside fitness center owners provide encouragement and variety for exercise in the new year

Compiled by Nancy Price

According to webmd.com, there are several excuses people are most likely to give for not exercising. The most popular excuse? "I don't have time," followed by "I'm too tired" and "exercise is boring." Southside fitness facilities have heard them all and have an answer for each excuse. At Ardizzone & Nalley Gym, an example workout for those pressed for time would consist of a five-minute warm-up, followed by 15-20 minutes of a low-impact workout and a five-minute cool down. Feeling tired after work? Orangetheory Fitness suggests finding a facility that has a penalty or fee for not showing up or cancelling your workout. If you find exercise boring, 9Round Fitness suggests you find something you enjoy doing that matches up with your goals. Whether your goal is losing weight, gaining more energy or meeting new friends in a fun group environment, the following centers offer something for everyone.

9Round Fitness

What is the key to being successful in your fitness goals?

No doubt ... first you have to find something that you enjoy doing, something that is fun, something you won't dread. 9Round offers something fun and different and the first workout is free. Once you've found something you enjoy, make sure it matches up with your goals. It's important to write your goals down and track how you are progressing toward them. At 9Round, we offer body composition scans so that you can measure not only your weight, but lean muscle mass and body fat mass so you can see real results. Another important factor is to find a workout or accountability partner. There will be those times (even if you love your gym) that you just don't feel it. That's where an accountability partner can help. Don't have one? 9Round is a very close community and our members find new friends with similar interests in the gym. Lastly, share your goals with our trainers and they will help keep you on track and accountable as well.

The gym accepts members of SilverSneakers, a health and fitness program designed for those 65 and over. (Submitted photo)

Ardizzone & Nalley Gym Inc.

Describe your preferred exercise routine and why it works.

As a gym that welcomes and accepts SilverSneaker members, one of our focuses for the upcoming year is to provide those individuals with classes and programs that will improve their functional strength, balance, flexibility and overall ability to complete necessary daily tasks. These routines consist of low-impact, full-body exercises that include the use of elastic bands, mini rubber exercise balls and dumbbells at a weight that the member can control and maintain proper form. These workouts will be challenging but not leave the members feeling like they are "beat up." A successful workout is one that not only makes you better but is sustainable and creates an energy in you that keeps you coming back for more! We feel like we have done that here. An example workout routine would consist of a five-minute, body weight-only warm-up, followed by 15-20 minutes of low impact, full-body resistance training and finish with a five-minute cool down and stretching period.

Franciscan Health welcomes its first baby in 2020

New year's baby – The clock read 5:14 a.m. and Jonah became the first baby born in 2020 at Franciscan Health Indianapolis. He weighed 9 pounds and 6 ounces and was 21 inches long. Jonah is the son of Michele and Danny Engelhardt of Indianapolis. The newborn also has two big sisters. At the end of December 2019, more than 2,200 babies had been born at the Indianapolis hospital. More than 55,000 infants have been delivered there since 1995, when the Women and Children's Services program was consolidated at the 8111 S. Emerson Ave. medical campus. The parents of the first New Year Day baby born at Franciscan Health Indianapolis receive a gift basket containing a variety of items for the infant. Each time a child is born at the hospital, Jesus Loves Me chimes throughout the hospital via the public address system. The World Health Organization has designated the year 2020 as the "Year of the Nurse and Midwife," honoring the 200th birth anniversary of Florence Nightingale, who is considered the founder of modern nursing.

Indiana State Bar Association to offer free legal help for public on MLK Day 2020

Free legal services – Hoosiers needing answers to legal questions are invited to a free legal consultation during the Indiana State Bar Association's annual "Talk to a Lawyer Today" on Jan. 20. Consultations are provided in-person at numerous statewide locations or via the statewide hotline from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. EST at (800) 266.2581. Individuals will speak with one of the more than 200 attorneys volunteering their time and experience during 10- to 15-minute consultations to answer general questions and offer legal information. Topics typically include bankruptcy, child support, complaints against a city, contract disputes, divorce, employment issues, immigration, landlord-tenant issues and wills and estates. Members of the ISBA donate their time for this once-a-year program as a tribute to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. The program is an opportunity for attorneys statewide to provide free legal consultations to members of the general public who might not otherwise be able to afford the counsel of an attorney. Please help share this information with the general public who may benefit from free legal counsel. Walk-in locations will be published closer to the day at inbar.org/talktolawyer.

Baxter YMCA

What advice would you give to someone who is new to fitness prior to them choosing an exercise regimen?

Seek advice from a professional. Training with a nationally certified personal trainer is a great way to jumpstart your fitness routine because they provide motivation, accountability and ensure that you are working out safely. They can help you set realistic goals and avoid plateaus both mentally and physically. Here at the Baxter YMCA we offer one complimentary session with a personal trainer for all new members. This is a great opportunity for you to determine if personal training is right for you. The trainer can also help to connect you to other programs like small group training and group exercise to help you reach your goals and provide variety in your workout.

Carole's Fitness

Describe your preferred exercise routine and why it works.

There are four components in every class: (1) cardio, (2) core, (3) weight work and (4) flexibility/balance, with relaxation at the end of class. The classes are small with an average of eight in each. It is unique in that you get small group coaching and instruction. The main thing is to work the exercises correctly to best benefit the parts of the body you are concentrating on. The routines are changed often to be sure the entire body is constantly getting a good workout. In class, each person works independently. This allows new people to do what they are capable of doing and move forward from there. The cardio may be at a slower pace at first; however, as you continue, you will be able to pick up your pace and move like those who have been in class for some time. It's rewarding to watch each person progress, ultimately becoming stronger and more energetic.

Life Systems Martial Arts

What is the key to being successful in your fitness goals?

Consistency is so important. We have that thing called life that can get in the way but to reach your goals consistency is an important key element. As it is said, "Eighty percent of success is showing up." There will be days that you just don't want to work out. Believe me, I have those days too. It may not be the best workout you had but it is a workout and you showed self-discipline. Health is a very important part of healthy living and to keep fit. Health starts in the kitchen. I know many have heard this but, "You can't outwork out a bad diet." This is probably the main component to reaching your goals. You need the right fuel to feed your body and mind. It varies of course for each person, depending on their level of fitness. You need the right balance of protein, carbs and some fats. I keep that water intake every day too, taking water with me wherever I go.

What advice would you give to someone who is new to fitness prior to them choosing an exercise regimen?

It's important to make yourself work out on those days when you don't want to go. Schedule your workouts and find a way to hold yourself accountable. Find a facility that has a penalty or fee for not showing up or cancelling your workout. This will help make it more difficult for you to skip when you don't feel like going. If you find a routine that you like that doesn't have a penalty to hold you accountable, do it yourself! Place a jar in your house and force yourself to add $10 every time you skip a workout. When the jar is full, donate the amount to a charity chosen by one of your friends or family members. Bring a friend! Research shows that having a workout buddy and support system helps you stay consistent and stick with a program. If you don't have a friend or workout buddy, think about a group or class where you bond and feel encouraged by the other participants.

What advice would you give to someone who is new to fitness prior to them choosing an exercise regimen?

Look around, try different things and most of all, don't go it alone. Take a friend; try group classes. If you really want to stick with your new routine, whatever it is, make sure you have an accountability partner, or six. It is easy to give up when no one else is watching and counting on you, but when that friend is waiting for you or that group is expecting you, well, that is harder to skip out on!

What is the key to being successful in your fitness goals?

Choose a plan that works for you. The key to any sustainable success is enjoying what you are doing. If you are a social person then make sure you are getting into a program with others; the group environment and support makes a huge difference.

Tag! You're it, aren't you? How to use question tags

GRAMMAR GUY

By Curtis Honeycutt

I'll admit it: I don't know much about street art. I'm no graffitist (a person who does graffiti), but I do know that to "tag" something is when someone quickly spray paints a surface, or it can indicate the way a graffiti artist signs his/her work. I'm aware that I'm breaking down basic graffiti terms mostly to win points with the Gen Z crowd. You can take that one to the Banksy!

I appreciate clothing companies that have stopped adding tags to their shirts. Instead of adding the tag, they print the size and washing instructions directly on the inside of the shirt. Just like that – no more back of the neck irritation! I'm glad someone finally figured that out. If there's a sartorial equivalent of the Nobel prize, we should track down the inventor of the tagless shirt and give them one.

When it comes to grammar and tags, I really like "question tags." A question tag is a question added to the end of a sentence. This could either be to keep the flow of a conversation going, to get someone to agree with us, or to ask a question. Here's an example: You don't think I can slam dunk a basketball, do you? He's trying to bring back the sleeveless turtleneck, isn't he?

Interestingly, if the initial statement is positive, the question tag is negative; conversely, when the initial statement is negative, the question tag is positive. You never learned the Macarena, did you? You put my stapler in Jell-O again, didn't you? See how that works? Let me rephrase that: you see how that works, don't you?

If the initial statement uses an auxiliary verb (like do, be, or have) or a modal verb (like could, may, or shall), the question tag uses the same verb. I couldn't win the presidential election next year, could I? He sure does like his long ties, doesn't he?

However, if the initial statement doesn't use an auxiliary or modal verb, simply use the verb "do." The Colts won the game on a last-second field goal, didn't they? Byron didn't buy another apocalypse shelter, did he?

Question tags are fun, aren't they? This is kind of like when you buy a new car – once you're aware of question tags, you'll notice them everywhere. It's kind of like a shirt with an itchy tag – it's annoying, isn't it?

Roncalli High School dedicates new gymnasium

Dedication – On Dec. 16, Roncalli High School held a dedication ceremony and pep rally to open the new Ascension St. Vincent Gymnasium on the Roncalli campus. Roncalli President Dr. Joseph Hollowell addressed the audience of students, faculty, staff, clergy, alumni, volunteers, donors and representatives of Ascension St. Vincent. Dr. Hollowell said that the new gymnasium represented the work of hundreds of people that began seven years ago with the first architectural contract to design the facility in 2012. Fund-raising for the project began in 2016 with over 100 volunteer solicitors who generated over 1,500 gifts totaling commitments of over $7.8 million. Donors, administrators, students and clergy all joined across the basketball court and cut the red, white and blue ribbon in unison. The Roncalli pep band sparked up the fight song and began the pep rally.

Napoli Villa

Carmelina Pizzi is a third-generation co-owner of the Italian restaurant, Napoli Villa in Beech Grove. Pizzi's grandfather and grandmother, Guerino and Carmela Cento, were immigrants from Southern Italy. Napoli Villa was founded in 1962 in Beech Grove, after a short time at another location just south of downtown at south East and McCarty streets. She still shares duties with her mother, Antoinette Pizzi, who co-owns the restaurant with her. "I'm constantly learning from her," Carmelina said. "I'm taught by my mother and self-taught." All pastas and entrees include the popular antipasto salad or a garden salad. Gluten free or wheat spaghetti is available upon request. Napoli Villa specialties include the Spaghetti al Pomodoro, with a choice of traditional tomato sauce, a robust meat sauce or two hand rolled meatballs; the Pollo Cacciatore, chicken breasts sautéed with white wine, mushrooms

Cats The unexpected virtue of bad movies

MOVIE REVIEW

By Bradley Lane

Cats, directed by Academy Award-winning director Tom Hooper, is based on one of the longest-running Broadway musicals of all time and yet, it is a complete cinematic disaster. There are multiple visual effects glitches throughout the film, the story makes no sense, it is thematically bankrupt and on top of all that, the cat-human hybrid creatures that star in the film are uncanny, uncomfortable and creepy. While watching the film I couldn't help but wonder; who approved all these wildly inappropriate creative decisions? Even so, I argue that these ridiculous creative decisions are exactly why Cats is a worthwhile film to experience.

Cats is light on plot, but the story mainly revolves around a newly abandoned cat being introduced to a stray cat society. She navigates this new setting as cats introduce themselves through song. Each cat has a name in addition to a specific trait or characteristic that inspires them to sing.

Trying to summarize the plot of Cats is a futile gesture, but that is all a part of the magic of Cats. Writer and composer Andrew Lloyd Webber's source material is similarly incoherent, but it is important to recognize it was written for an entirely different medium. Stage performance assumes a level of suspension of disbelief from its audience from which film does not allow. When deciding how to interpret the stage show, it seems like every decision was one that just didn't pan out.

However, Cats is a beautiful disaster. I laughed more at Cats than at any outright comedy I saw this year. The audience I was a part of was similarly engaged with the film. Audible groans, uproarious laughter and sarcastic clapping abounded in the theater. The audience had a great time, despite the objective lack of quality of the film.

It is in this collective experience that Cats deserves to be viewed. A packed theater or a couch full of friends is the best way to view Cats, specifically because it is through camaraderie that Cats is most enjoyable. What were once awkward and uncomfortable scenes become side splitting jokes when surrounded by similarly minded viewers.

More important than anything else though, Cats takes risks. It was a $95 million investment that funded sexually charged, hard to look at, human-cat creatures that sing and dance for two hours. It's insane! I would watch Cats again and again, a movie that takes real risks, than another bland, focus grouped, safe Star Wars, Marvel, or Disney remake and I urge you to do the same.
