Southside included in statewide art mural project

The Arts Council of Indianapolis, in partnership with Jiffy Lube of Indiana, has created a public art project in 2019 that includes the Southside. "Every Part Matters" was created in 2015 with a goal of embracing the arts and giving back to the community. The project has already transformed the exterior walls at nine statewide Jiffy Lube buildings. Pamela Bliss, an Indianapolis-based muralist who created the mural on Massachusetts Avenue titled, "My Affair with Kurt Vonnegut", has been selected to create a mural for the Jiffy Lube store at 7965 U.S. 31 S.

TAKING THE LONG ROAD

Local family works the Final Four and four kids at once

By Stephanie Dolan

J.D. and Cindy Hamilton were both freshmen at the University of Indianapolis when they met on a double date.

"She was the other person's date," J.D. said.

You can say it worked out for the Franklin Township residents. They've been married for 23 years – 24 in July – and they have four children at home. They each work, and they both take care of their family.

What makes their story different from 1,000 other Southside families? The Hamiltons adopted two children, and they recently took in two girls that they fostered previously. J.D. works for the NCAA and often travels for the job, leaving Cindy, a kindergarten teacher, to wrangle all four children on her own.

PLAYING THE GAME

J.D., who has been with the NCAA for 16 years, is the assistant director of media relations and statistics. He just returned from another work trip to New York. Upon his arrival, the family plans to celebrate their older foster child's 18th birthday.

This is one of a few trips that J.D. makes throughout the year. He also travels for a week for the college football championship, two-and-a half-weeks for the NCAA basketball tournament and three weeks for the College World Series.

"I'm helping press get credentials, setting up interviews with student athletes, making sure athletes get to press conferences and providing media with statistics they need to write their stories," J.D. said. "So, we're doing a lot of research to help them to do their jobs."

J.D. runs a project called "The Car Wash."

"It's this thing where our student athletes get interviewed by networks like ESPN, CBS Sports and NCAA.com," he said. "We're moving students from room to room to make sure they get to the right interview on time."

But all of this activity is just practice for the job J.D. has at home as dad.

BEING A FAMILY

"The travel does make things a little more difficult for sure," Cindy said. "Especially with the addition of the two new foster kids. Right now, I took some leave time from work instead of trying to figure out things for transportation. But we do have an awesome support system."

The Hamiltons are members of Southport Presbyterian Church.

"Our church has been fabulous with helping with transportation and even meals," Cindy continued. "Our family helps out with a lot of that stuff too. Thankfully, J.D.'s longest trip is in the summer, and we can all just go with him."

The Hamilton's younger foster child is 11, and their two adopted children, Ashley and Jeremiah, are 10 and 3, respectively.

"It definitely takes a village for sure," Cindy said. "Especially when you foster, I think. When your family suddenly grows by two kids, it throws a whole new dynamic into your family. Overall, I think we've fostered about 17 kids."

The Hamiltons have a heart for fostering and want the children living in their home to know they are loved and safe.

"Our goal is to give these children a period of time where they're loved and feel comfortable and safe while all the other stuff with the parents – while all the other judicial stuff is being taken care of."

While the fostering experience has had its ups and downs, it has not been without reward.

"The two girls who are back now – six years ago they left us," Cindy said. "We were crushed and heartbroken. Six years later, they're back. In between times, we got our daughter and son and adopted

5 QUESTIONS WITH THE HAMILTONS

Who or what inspires you the most?

CINDY – I think it's Jesus Christ. How we look to God to do the job he's given us and taking four kids – at times it's trying. God's called us to serve, and he's going to equip us and provide for everything.

J.D. – Jesus Christ is first and foremost. We think we're just doing what God's given us to do. People think it's amazing, and we just do what we think we've been asked to do. I agree with Cindy. Our whole story is not something we would have written or chosen. It is written by God, and it's amazing to us.

What are you currently reading?

CINDY – I am reading a book called Age of Opportunity – A Biblical Guide to Parenting Teens by Paul David Tripp.

J.D. – I'm not a reader. Not books anyway. I'm an internet junkie – just reading articles. I read a lot of stuff – just what's going on pertaining to my job and politics and current events.

Do you have any pets?

No pets – we used to have bulldogs. We would like to get another dog, but with four kids, it might be too much.

What are you most looking forward to within the next 30 days?

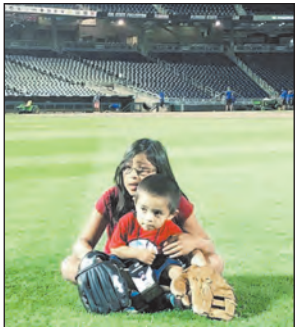

CINDY – We're looking forward to spring break.

J.D. – For me, I really enjoy the Final Four.

What do you love most about your spouse?

CINDY – I will say that JD is a huge people person. It's one of the things I love the most about him, but it also drives me crazy. He's great and super generous and is so good with just trying to help people out and do fun things for them. At times, he can't say no. He's a super awesome people person and really serves other people well.

J.D. – Cindy's our glue. She just takes care of all of us. Not many things slip through the cracks. She's always thinking about what needs to be done. I just appreciate that about her. Another thing I take for granted is that I'm lucky to have a loving wife who puts up with all my mistakes and I greatly appreciate that.

Jeremiah was three weeks old when this photo was taken. them. It's been quite a surprise."
"It was a good Christmas gift," J.D. added.

COMING TOGETHER

Soon enough, J.D. will be back on the road for the college basketball championship – the Final Four. This year, the tournament is being held April 6-8 in Minneapolis at the U.S. Bank Stadium.
"It's a thrilling job," he said.
"This is fun for us," Cindy said. "The kids do like to watch for him during the games. One year, he made it into the 'One Shining Moment' montage at the end of the tournament. He's always standing on the court at the end of the championship games. For me, as a basketball fan, that was pretty cool seeing my husband up there for that."
"I'm very lucky," J.D. said. "Because of my job I get a seat better than (former) Vice President (Joe) Biden had. It's just fun – you get to have these amazing experiences like taking photos with Michael Phelps. But it's not about who they are – the celebrities. It's just fantastic that I get to work with students and give them the greatest time of their lives. They experience something that not many people get to do on the national stage. We make sure they get to experience that without any hiccups."

J.D. added that some of the more noteworthy tournament experiences included Goren Hayward's winning shot at the 2010 Final Four and being in Indianapolis when Butler was in the Final Four.
"And, a couple of years ago in Villanova, Chris Jenkins hit the game-winning shot to beat North Carolina right in front of me," J.D. added. "That was pretty neat."
But, in spite of all the perks of the job, the Hamiltons always come back to family.
"I'm very lucky to have a very supportive wife that allows me to do what I want to do," J.D. said. "God's blessed us with great families and friends who help us out."
"We're just very blessed," Cindy said. "J.D.'s job has a lot of fun perks for our family. It allows him to be a blessing to friends and family who come to events. He loves that."
"I also have great coworkers," J.D. said. "They understand what's going on with us. There's events going on and running around, and we're just blessed to have great coworkers and friends and family."

Beech Grove hosts fourth annual community fair

By Rick Hinton

The fourth annual Beech Grove Community Fair returned to the Southside once again on Saturday, March 16. The community fair was sponsored by the Greater Beech Grove Chamber of Commerce and held at Beech Grove Middle School.

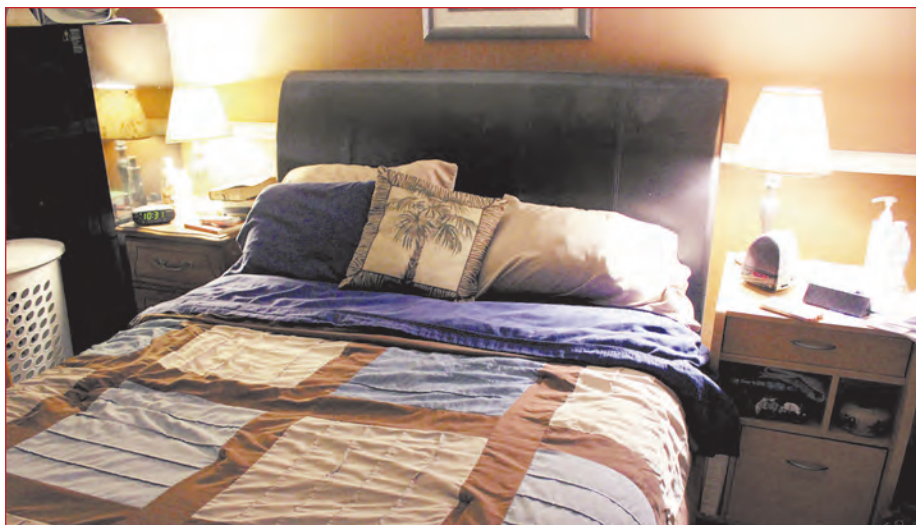

The yearly event opened its doors at 10 a.m. and ran until 1 p.m. Stepping into the school was like stepping into a festival of celebration. Tables neatly lined the gym floor as new friends were made and old ones reconnected. A kids zone provided face painting and activities as the consistent crowd mingled through the aisles to talk with representatives from the community, offering everything from free health screenings to officers from the Beech Grove Police Department, the Beech Grove Parks Department, the Beech Grove Comprehensive Drug-Free Coalition, The Southside Times, Servant's Heart of Indy and several retailers with samplings, to name just a few.

The community fair was initially held at Beech Grove Elementary School, however, the fair immediately outgrew that location, subsequently having the last three years hosted by Beech Grove Middle School.

Any small town should have a strong desire to serve the community. It's information that connects people with services, activities and offerings. And ... making a few new friends at the end of the day. The Beech Grove Community Fair provides the information to make that a reality. In small town America, it's a good and vital fit!

The Greater Beech Grove Chamber of Commerce has its mission: "To provide members with a supportive system with continuous opportunities for growth, education and sustainability for their businesses." The community fair is a representative of that very thing!

1. Lydia, Lila and Lina Marine from Elwood visited the event with relatives from Beech Grove. 2. The crowds were consistent throughout the day. 3. Mandy Williams of Joy's House (a local Beech Grove business) answers a question. It was her first year at the fair. "It's a great mix of vendors & community offerings," she said. 4. Laura Hinton had a good time visiting with the Beech Grove Police Dept. 5. Sue Salamone of Servant's Heart of Indy proudly displayed the offering of serving the needs of families. 6. Representatives of the Beech Grove Parks Department staffed a table. (Photos by Rick Hinton)

Sweet sleep ... or a sleep disorder?

HAUNTS & JAUNTS

By Rick Hinton

I like a good snooze. Who doesn't? I think back upon the sleep of my youth: 10-12 hours of subliminal bliss, followed by an awakening, a quick snack, then back to sleep for a few hours more. Those were the days when, while on break from school, we would exercise a nice, subtle excuse from any adult responsibility by spending hours in silent lucidity. How I wish those days would come again!

I've heard tempting rumors that it can be so in retirement. Very tempting! Can we go back to the sleep of our youth? Does it all go full circle as we age? I have the calendar out. I'm checking off each day. The future is ... well, the future for this solid and steadily growing closer. It has become a mission!

However, our sleep changes as we grow older. As with everything else, as the decades pass into a misty future, sleep also has its mysterious transformations from what we remember from when we were young and a future so very far away. A sign of the times? Pretty much. Are there paranormal ramifications from disturbances in our sleep? You bet! We'll get into that next week, but for now – let's take a look at the most common sleep disorders that make one feel tired and worn down:

- INSOMNIA: Difficulty going to sleep, staying asleep, or waking earlier than planned. It can be a vicious cycle! For me, it's usually Sunday night because I hate going to work on Monday morning. For my friend, Judy Fowler Smith, it appears to be every night.

- SLEEP APNEA: Breathing stops for several seconds during the night due to blockage in the upper respiratory system (lying horizontal doesn't help). The brain finds itself awakening to correct the blockage. I don't think I suffer this condition, but my wife could answer that better than I. Snoring can be associated with Sleep apnea. I do have occasional bouts of this, of which my wife will attest! A Sleep Number 360 Smart Bed, with my wife's finger on the control for the tilting head, could easily solve this malady. However, it's not in the budget.

- RESTLESS LEG SYNDROME: Sensations in the legs (my feet particularly) of aching, itching, throbbing and burning. It's hard to drop off to sleep with the feeling of bugs crawling about your lower extremities. I need to move! Soothing body lotion prior seems to help.

- NARCOLEPSY: This is a complicated one. It's a neurological disorder characterized by the inability to control the sleep/wakefulness cycle. Excessive daytime sleepiness can cause you to drop off without a moment's notice. One of my favorite shows from the 1980s, Hill Street Blues, addressed this condition with the introduction of a character, Nick Hitler, a struggling stage comic, who would drop off in mid-routine. People thought it part of the act. It wasn't. Sleep paralysis (we'll get into that next week) and hallucinations can also be associated with this condition.

Of ghosts and things that go bump in the night? Late night or early morning encounters? Paranormal experiences can tie in and sometimes be explained by at least two fairly common sleep disorders: sleep paralysis and my new favorite term – exploding head syndrome.

Paralysis, and my new favorite term—Exploding Head Syndrome... Syndrome...

Rick Hinton, a Southport resident, loves researching things that go bump in the night. His articles can be read on Facebook: Rick Hinton, Southport Paranormal Examiner. Hinton conducts paranormal investigations with his team, South Central Paranormal.

Early screening key for surviving
colorectal cancer

Nearly 3,400 Hoosiers will be diagnosed with colorectal cancer this year. As well, an estimated 1,100 will die this year as a result of the disease, according to the American Cancer Society (ACS).

March is National Colorectal Cancer Month. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and the Indiana State Department of Health (ISDH) urges the public to screen for the disease. Early screening for the third-most commonly diagnosed cancer among both men and women does not have to be expensive or uncomfortable.

The biggest risk factors for developing the disease include gender and age. More than half of Indiana's cases from 2011-2015 were diagnosed in men; almost 90 percent of those were in residents age 50 and older.

Other risk factors include race, personal or family history of colorectal cancer or polyps, a personal history of chronic inflammatory bowel disease and certain inherited genetic conditions like Lynch syndrome and a diagnosis of type 2 diabetes.

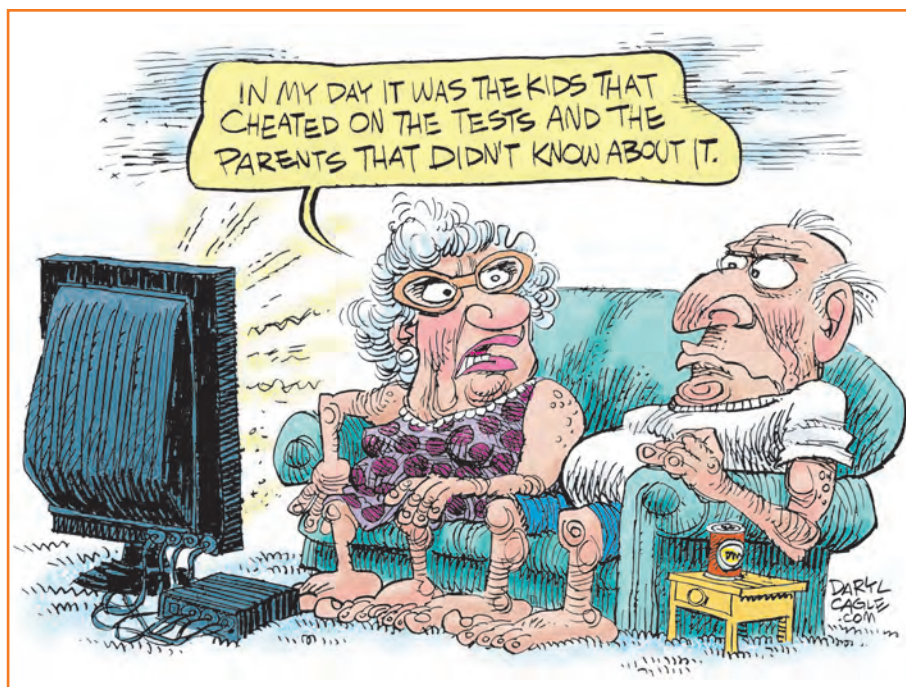

However, adopting a healthy lifestyle, which includes avoiding tobacco products, eating a healthy diet, exercising and getting recommended screenings, can greatly reduce the risk of developing colorectal cancer, according to Indiana State Health Commissioner Kris Box, M.D., FACOG.

For more information about colorectal cancer, visit the ISDH's website at StateHealth.in.gov or the Indiana Cancer Consortium at indianacancer.org.

Buckley highlights public safety, department investments in eighth annual State of the City Address

FEATURE

By Angela Norris

Beech Grove Mayor Dennis Buckley, in his eighth annual state of the city address, highlighted the success of the previous year's priority on public safety and discussed his goals for the continued progress within the city. The address, held March 14 at Hornet Park Community Center, was hosted by the Greater Beech Grove Chamber of Commerce.

Department of public safety

"Our most important priority is the delivery of public safety in our city. As in previous years, our public safety departments make up a large portion of our total budget," Buckley said. "In 2018, we raised our staffing levels for both the police and fire departments to their highest level ever. Our total crime reporting through the FBI shows a decrease in crime from 2017 by 4.8 percent. This is significant based on what is happening on the outskirts of our city."

Department of public works

Buckley reviewed the progression of the Beech Grove Department of Public Works. "In 2018, our department of public works once again performed at a very high level. The department was presented with more new equipment and continued upgrades to the buildings and grounds. The city purchased a new trash truck that improved our fleet and we finally replaced our old trash truck that was purchased back in the early 1990s," he said.

Department of compliance

The current vehicle that the department of compliance uses is the old battalion chief vehicle, used by the Beech Grove Fire Department. The goal for 2019 is to repurpose one of the fire department's administrative vehicles and place it in service with the department of compliance.

The department of senior services

The Beech Grove Senior Citizen Center continues to add programs to assist the older citizens. Transportation to the grocery store, doctor's offices, local hospitals, and other local shops will continue. The local Lowe's donated items and installed a new dishwasher in the kitchen as part of their community volunteer program.

Department of parks and recreation:

In 2018, the Indiana Historical Society held a ceremony in Sarah T. Bolton Park and installed a historical marker to recognize the historic area.

"In 2018, our park system received a $13,000 Patronicity grant from the Indiana Housing and Community Development Association (IHCA) to help offset the cost of playground equipment for Sarah T. Bolton Park and Challis Park," Buckley said. "This money was matched by the proceeds from the mayor's dinner for the parks held in October. In early 2019, our redevelopment commission voted to fund the remaining balance so the parks department can purchase new playground equipment at both Sarah T. Bolton Park and at Challis Park (approximately $79,000.00). This will replace the current playground equipment, which is 20 years old."

Buckley then addressed the significance of the Greenway project. "In 2019, we look forward to doing the final paving work around Sarah T. Bolton Park so we can begin work on the 2.2 mile 'Franciscan Trail' Greenway. The Greenway is set to be bid out any time after July 1, 2020. This $3.3 million project will completely change our city and next to the reconstruction of Main Street, will be in my estimate the most important project that we have done to date," Buckley said.

Infrastructure

In 2018, the paving program continued to make improvements for rebuilding the infrastructure. When paving was completed in 2018, 55 roads and parking lots had been paved since 2012.

INDOT, MPO and community crossings grant program

Funding commitments were continued from the Indianapolis Metropolitan Planning Organization and INDOT through the Community Crossings grant program. Upcoming projects include the Thompson Road sidewalk project and the 25th and Churchman avenues roundabout.

Economic development

"Since we began in 2012, we have become home to over 100 new businesses," Buckley said. He addressed the upcoming plans for the local business community such as Main Street, the St. Francis property and the Industrial Park at Arlington Avenue and Big 4 Road.

What's expected in 2019

Buckley concluded his speech by addressing the city's goals for 2019:

- Continue to provide quality services afforded for all residents of the city.
- Continue to focus on responding to problems associated with drug abuse and the underlying problems that cause drug abuse.
- Continue to invest in the personal safety of each resident and all of our dedicated employees.
- Investments must continue in all departments, especially the police and fire departments.
- Continue to rebuild infrastructure and continue to fix drainage problems.

"We have done such a good job of paying off our debt and within the next three-four years, our civil city and redevelopment commission will not have any long-term debt," Buckley said.

Greenwood VFW hosts brick fundraiser for new building

FEATURE

By Angela Norris

Greenwood VFW Post 5864 is asking for the public's help in fundraising ... one brick at a time.

The post is building a new facility and holding a brick fundraiser to lay a walkway to the new space for the flagpoles.

Last year, the membership voted to purchase land and build a larger facility. The current building is nearly 35 years old. Although it has served well, it is time to provide veterans, both young and old, with an updated facility. The new building will be in Precedent South Industrial Park, located east on Main Street.

The VFW is asking for your donations in any amount or the purchase of a brick or two. For special donations, they can name a pavilion, banquet room, or day room after your company. Also, for any donation over $1,000, they will provide you with three bricks with three lines for you to customize with your choice of wording on them.

"You don't have to be a veteran, just a supporter of veterans. You may have a relative that you would want to purchase a brick for," said Steve Milbourn, Commander of Post 5864.

The brick sizes are available in: 4 x 8 inches for $100 (includes three lines); 8 x 8 inches for $175 (includes five lines). Brick colors are tumbleweed, wheatfield and admiral red.

Milbourn has sold roughly 200 bricks and hopes to sell at least 200 more. There will also be a separate area with bricks mounted on a display to remember those killed in action.

Steve Milbourn served in Vietnam from April 1966 to October 1967 with the U.S. Army's 101st Airborne Division. He then went on to study at Ohio State University for journalism and became a successful newspaper company owner.

"I am in full control of this project, other than my right-hand gal, Sherri Jones. She helps me get things done," he said. Jones is the senior vice commander and runs bingo for the VFW Post.

VFW Post 5864 will celebrate 43 years in operation in Greenwood this April. The up-and-coming younger veterans from the wars in Grenada, Lebanon, Somalia, Afghanistan, Iraq, Bosnia, Kosovo, Syria and several areas in Africa are now becoming more involved in the organization. The organization currently has 10 younger veterans who were either elected or appointed to various positions for the 2018-2019 year.

"We are very fortunate to still have some World War II veterans, Korean War veterans and quite a few Vietnam veterans among our membership," Milbourn said.

"My father told me that in life you lead, follow, or get out of the way, and I always lived by that," he said, adding to always remember the "5 P's": Prior Planning Prevents Poor Performance.

To review the 501 (c) (3) letter or to donate, please visit the website for more information: greenwoodvfw.com.

GREENWOOD MEMORIAL Veterans of Foreign Wars POST 5864

PHONE: 317-888-2488

To the Businesses and Residents in the Greenwood area:

We would be honored if you would help us build our new facility by donating or purchasing a brick or two. Several of you have already donated. The Brick Order form is on our website - greenwoodvfw.com or you can pick one up at the VFW after 2 p.m., Monday through Saturday. Click on the button that says DONATE and you can view the form and the three brick colors before you make a purchase.

Our new building will be in Precedent South Industrial Park. It is located east on Main St., past I-65. Continue east about 150 yards there is a street named Commerce Parkway W. Dr. Turn right (south) and go about 200 yards. There is a sign in the front yard, "Future Home of Greenwood VFW Post 5864."

We would appreciate your donation in any amount or the purchase of a brick or two. Please review the 501-c-3 letter from the VFW Foundation on our website. If you do donate, you can mail it to them with a note providing out Post number so the money will come back to our VFW, or you can send it directly to us at the address above. For special donations, we can name our pavilion, banquet room, or day room after your company (please see the brochure on our website). Also, for any donation over $1,000, we will also provide you with three "bricks", with three lines on them. You don't have to be a veteran, just a supporter of veterans. You may have a relative that you would want to purchase a brick for. The bricks will be placed in three or four sidewalks which will lead up to where our flags are located. If you donate over $2,500, we can provide you with a free Banquet Room or Shelter House rental.

Climax Dance collides with drug-induced horror

MOVIE REVIEW

By Bradley Lane

Climax is the newest feature film from French-Argentinian provocateur and director Gaspar Noe. Anyone who has seen just a single film directed by Noe will more than likely either decry him as a hack devoid of artistic value or praise him as a visionary. Noe has been polarizing critics and audiences alike since his feature-length debut, I Stand Alone, in 1998. His films explore the depths of human's capacity for evil and pain through experimental filmmaking techniques (helping pioneer the current film movement, French Extremism). Needless to say, his films are not for everyone. However, as a piece of art, Climax is a triumph and deserves to be viewed, discussed and contemplated for days after you leave the theater.

Climax takes place on a cold winter night in 1996 France. An incredibly distinguished group of dancers are just finishing their rehearsal in a Catholic schoolhouse they rented out as a temporary studio before they make their journey to America to compete on the national level. After a final run-through of their routine they decide to party before leaving in the morning. However, their celebration becomes a nightmare when it becomes apparent that their sangria had been spiked with potent LSD.

Noe sets the stage for his drug-fueled horror show with pinpoint accuracy. Each and every character has clear motivations, desires and fears before any of the crazy begins so that when the drugs begin to take effect all of what might seem like insanity is rooted in previously established characterization. This becomes all the more impressive when you learn that initially Noe only worked off of a mere five-page script and most of the first act dialogue was improvisation by the cast members. The actors were encouraged to help develop their characters with Noe to create a more realistic and immersive cast of characters, of which there are nearly 20.

Visually, every frame of Climax is visceral, intense and beautiful. Noe frequently employs the use of immaculately choreographed long takes that will make your jaw drop. Often not cutting for what could have easily been 10- to 15-minute-long sequences. Additionally, what has now become a Noe trademark, the film powerfully distorts and confuses audience perspective with over the head shots, shots low to the ground and inverted and even shots that spin the camera a full 360 degrees. If you haven't seen a Noe film before it is likely to be distracting, but ultimately works to perfectly marry form to content.

In any other director's hands an extended drug sequence would be filled with played out visual tropes: blurred visuals, hard to distinguish action and fast editing. Noe rejects common film language to force the audience to see exactly what is happening in sometimes excruciating detail. This sort of omniscient third person view makes the audience less of a participant in their horror, and more like a helpless onlooker making its impact all the more forceful.

Climax is an exercise in pure cinematic tension. It is a deeply disturbing film and should only be viewed by mature audiences with proper audience discretion but is one of the most affecting movies in recent memory.

Bradley is a Beech Grove High School alumnus and has been enamored by film for as long as he can remember. He is currently in his third year studying at IUPUI, majoring in Media and Public Affairs with a minor in Film. Bradley can be contacted at blane2214@gmail.com.

Ear infections in dogs & cats

PAWS for THOUGHT

By Dr. Bruce McLaughlin

Dogs with floppy ears, such as beagles, cocker spaniels and basset hounds are more prone to ear infections than are dogs without floppy ears.

How are ear infections treated?

Ear infections are typically treated with topical medications instilled into the ear canal. Many of the medications contain both an antibiotic and anti-fungal and an anti-inflammatory agent. In many cases, the pet will also be given oral antibiotics.

Prior to treating an ear infection, it is important to rule out ear mites as a cause. It is also important to clean the ear canal thoroughly so that the topical medication is able to reach the cause of the problem.

It is very important when treating an ear infection to use the medication for an appropriate amount of time. Stopping too soon will result in recurrence and often bacteria that become resistant to the antibiotic. It is recommended to have your pet's ears rechecked prior to finishing the medication so that it can be determined if the infection is totally cleared.

Ways to prevent ear infections:

Keep moisture from entering the outer ear canal. When bathing your pet make sure no water enters into the canal. We often recommend applying a cotton ball into the ear canal prior to bathing and removing when finished. Just remember to remove the cotton ball.

Keep pets from swimming in lakes, ponds and pools. Lake and pond water contains many bacteria that can lead to infections.

If your pet is prone to ear infections it may be determined that periodic cleaning with an appropriate ear cleansing solution will prevent infections. Make sure it is an agent that is "drying" and approved for ear canals.

At the first sign your pet may have an ear problem, it is important to have a vet check the ears quickly. The longer an infection goes on, typically the longer it will take it to clear. There are times when ear infections become so severe that loss of hearing and major surgery may be indicated to help you pet.

Pros and cons of purchasing a home warranty

REAL ESTATE

By Dawn Whalen
Whalen Realty Group

When purchasing a home, many buyers will be asked if they wish to purchase a home warranty, or the seller may include one with the sale of the property. Regardless, there will come a time when a homeowner must decide if a home warranty is worth the investment. Before diving into the details, it's important to note that a home warranty and homeowner's insurance are not the same, and a mortgage company will require insurance on a home, but not a warranty.

Pros of a home warranty

1. Traditionally covers plumbing, electrical, major appliances, heating and cooling elements.
2. Home warranty companies use a list of preferred contractors for repairs, eliminating the need for the homeowner to search for a provider.
3. The annual fee of a few hundred dollars, based upon the plan and property, and the contractor service fee, which runs approximately $75-150, can offset a costly repair. For example, if the furnace stops working and it was well maintained by the previous owner, then the home warranty could cover the cost of the repairs or a new furnace, which is definitely more expensive than a few hundred dollars.

4. Great for families where the homeowner is not handy with tools.

Cons of a home warranty

1. Review the plan thoroughly as some areas of the home may not be covered, such as a detached garage, outbuildings, plumbing for the hose or other elements.
2. If the home warranty company determines an item has not been properly maintained, then it can choose not to cover the repairs. Using the furnace example again, if the contractor doesn't think the furnace received regular maintenance, then the home warranty is not required to cover the cost to fix it, which means the homeowner pays for the repair plus the home warranty service fee. Proper maintenance can be a major grey area for many homeowners and home warranty companies.

3. The homeowner is generally required to use the home warranty company's preferred contractors, which eliminates the owner's freedom to choose whom they feel is best qualified.
4. Unless the warranty specifies that an exact replacement be given, a homeowner could end up with a different appliance brand or model than was originally included with the home's purchase.

A home warranty is not ideal for everyone, but for sellers, it can offer the buyer a sense of security during negotiations. Many realtors have a list of reputable home warranty companies they prefer, but it's always a good idea to read the fine print and clearly understand what is and is not covered.

Indianapolis Public Library plans branch for West Perry Township

FEATURE

By Rick Hinton

Libraries exist to serve the community. The buildings from my youth no longer only contain just books, but nowadays so much more: DVDs, newspapers, computer labs, study/activity spaces, music and public meeting rooms. And ... ample seating. Something for everyone!

The Indianapolis Public Library is planning a new branch to serve the community in the western section of Perry Township. A series of community meetings — the first held March 13 — solicited the public to offer suggestions on not only the physical design of the building, but also services to offer. The second meeting — Thursday, April 11, 7-8:30 p.m. at the Meridian Woods Park Clubhouse, 6760 Yellowstone Parkway, will reveal attendee input and preferences, and how the project will proceed forward.

Led by project architects from Schmidt Associates and HBM, the new $9.2 million dollar branch will be located near Harding Street and Southport Road. Scheduled for opening in 2021, the five-acre campus will encompass 25,000 square feet. And most importantly — fill a large geographical gap in facilities and service for south Marion County residents.

IPL Communications Specialist, Jon Barnes, was happy with the turnout, estimating roughly 50 "citizens" (those not affiliated with architects or the library) in attendance. Mike Coghian, with Facilities Projects, liked what he saw. "In the April meeting we will present and reflect back upon the input," he said. "We will refine that even further."

The crowd was diverse ... some quietly listening, others inquisitive of how it would all come together. Longtime Southside resident and councilor for District 20, Jason Holliday, was also in attendance. Everyone rubbed shoulders for the common good and the realization — combined with the existing Southport Branch — that this new facility will provide library access to the growing Perry Township community.

The benefits of juicing for receiving vegetables' nutrients

NUTRITION

By Wendell Fowler

Each morning, I pray over, and then juice, about four pounds of green and orange veggies, green apples, celery, turmeric root, ginger and bitter greens. After my wife, Sandi, fully wakes up and I've given her a forehead kiss and a loving hug, I present her the liquid, eagerly gulping to trigger apoptosis: programmed cell death: in the instance, cancer cells. Good to the last drop, Sandi sips her elixir 'till it's gone. Then, in the afternoon and early evening, I prepare two more wheatgrass shots. What a lush, eh?

Too many gentle souls would rather gnaw off their arm before they'd eat anywhere near the seven to nine half cup portions of fruit and veggies required for our temple cells to perform as God intended. And, most folks would rather swallow than chew. Takes too much work, I guess. Unlike most world cultures, Americans rarely eat vegetables for breakfast, and at lunch, a typical vegetable serving could be lettuce or tomato on a sandwich, guaranteeing your daily quotient of protective plant-foods will fall short.

Juicing is a brilliant way to receive a rainbow of plant nutrients from food that you refuse to eat. Juicing makes seven to nine portions possible without having to sit down and eat several pounds of vegetables per day. Juicing strips away solid matter, leaving a colorful liquid exploding with the energy of vitamins and minerals from raw plant-foods that bypasses digestion and feed temple cells within minutes. It takes a few pounds of vegetables to get a 12-ounce glass of juice, which gives you an entire day's serving in one glass, which, in turn, boosts the temple's immune system that can annihilate cancer cells and prevent chronic disease. This liquid isn't just hydrating, it's full of energetic antioxidants, anti-inflammatory compounds and phytonutrients. It must, however, be consumed within one hour and on an empty stomach. Otherwise, the juice will lose its energy. That's why canned, bottled and dead juices are of little value.

Regrettably, mainstream America ironically refuses to reconnect with the earth created to support them, which explains our high rates of disease. Their cells starving for even basic nutrition. They're programming so deeply embedded, I've actually been angrily, verbally attacked by fear-filled folks who fight for their right to eat and enjoy dead food. What folks must realize: they're feeding disease; blunting their gift of perfect health as God intended. Surrender to God's medicinal pharmacy rather than destroy the temple. Everybody has a cancer cell inside. Do you feed it, or kill it?

How to bring your 'A' game to the office

GRAMMAR GUY

By Curtis Honeycutt

Going on a coffee run for your co-workers sounds like a great idea, doesn't it? Not only do you seem considerate of their caffeine needs, but you also offer to pay (usually), which makes you seem generous. You're the hero of the office! But then you have to take down all their complicated orders, take the drinks away in one of those multi-cup holder things without spilling them all over your car (or your shirt), and then bring the correct drinks to everyone. Seems like a hassle, doesn't it? The next time you have this idea, just hand out $5 instead.

Here's a free invention idea for you (as long as you name it after me): someone needs to invent a cup carrier that has built-in slots for seat belts. That way, you'd be able to secure your scalding cargo without ruining your interior. I call it "The Honeycutt Hot Holder Holster." I can almost see it on shelves in the "beyond" section at Bed Bath & Beyond.

Everyone wants to be the office hero, but not everyone knows the right time to use "bring" or "take." The problem is that both words have similar meanings. Both words are verbs that involve carrying something, whether literally or figuratively. "Bring" means to carry something along with you while "take" means to carry something away with you.

For example, when the barista finishes making everyone's espresso drinks (quick tip: it's "espresso," not "expresso"), you take the drinks from her. Similarly, you would bring the drinks to your coworkers. However, if I, as your boss, asked you to deliver coffee to the accounting department down the hall, I would say, "Please take this bucket of coffee to the accounting team."

It all comes down to the difference between "toward" and "away." When the object is coming toward the person speaking, use "bring." When the object is coming away from the person speaking, use "take." "Bring" indicates movement toward the writer/speaker, while "take" indicates movement away from the writer/speaker.

Take this advice to heart. Soon enough, your office mates will be bringing you piles of compliments on your journey up the corporate ladder.

Weekly Devotion

3 So he went and took Gomer the daughter of Diblaim; which conceived, and bare him a son.

4 And the Lord said unto him, Call his name Jezreel; for yet a little while, and I will avenge the blood of Jezreel upon the house of Jehu, and will cause to cease the kingdom of the house of Israel.

5 And it shall come to pass at that day, that I will break the bow of Israel in the valley of Jezreel.

6 And she conceived again, and bare a daughter. And God said unto him, Call her name Lo-ruhamah: for I will no more have mercy upon the house of Israel; but I will utterly take them away.

HOSEA 1:3-6

God, through the Spirit and by natural means, continues to instruct Hosea about Israel's future. Gomer, his wife, gave him a son and Hosea was told to name him Jezreel because this child will be a symbol of sorts that will speak of Israel's demise. By the time of Hosea, Israel is divided into two camps. Judah and Israel itself. Ten of the original 12 tribes are in Israel's camp and two are in Judah's camp. Israel is so backslidden and so disobedient to the Lord and fully given to idolatry that God has no further use for them. He decides to do away with them because they decided to do away with Him and to no longer to faithfully serve Him. Whatever service to the Lord is going on in Israel is token service alone and God would not accept that.

God, after all, is a jealous God. He is not and never will be jealous of you but He is jealous for you. He wants our undivided attention and love. He will not share us with the world and any entity thereof.

In today's church there is that going on. The divided attention and love for God is prevalent throughout what some call Christianity. God either has you or He doesn't and He will not accept anything less than 100 percent of your life. This is the problem so many have. They want to hold on to the world with one hand and God with the other and more often than not the things of this world take precedent over the things of God.

We are His servants and we cannot serve in His house and another house at the same time. I realize we must live in this world and as much as is possible in each of us, we must live by its enacted laws. But when those laws cross the line and expect of us that we serve man over God, then we must not cross that line. God knows this world very well and its tendency to sin and He wants His people free from the bondage of sin. He expects us to want the same thing of our devotion to Him. Therein is the contest between God and the world's system and it will always be. In the end, if we remain faithful to God, we win. I am on the winning side and expect to stay there all the way to the end.

God bless and go and have a great day.

Paul A. Kirby is the pastor at the Church of God at 3939 S. Emerson Ave.
