Life lessons from those who regret the lack of a life well lived

FEATURE

By Rick Hinton

A condensed excerpt from a forthcoming book.

Is the regret of a life less lived enough motivation to remain behind after physical death? Does this explain one aspect of the paranormal? It very well may. We will all face the inevitable conclusion of physical death with our lives, like a clock ticking off the years, begins to wind down and eventually stops. Until the prospect of dying – or actual death – affects you personally, it's one of those topics we keep on the shelf. It's not a comfortable subject, and not something we like to think about.

A hospice nurse working with patients in their last days made some observations. These folks had returned home to die in a comfortable and familiar environment. She found a common thread existing with each one during this period and was not afraid to ask questions. It was as good an experience for her as the sense of closure was for them. As the patient's time drew to a close, they were quite aware of that fact. There seemed to have been a sense of urgency in speaking what they felt needed to be said. Acceptance of their upcoming transition often brought out regrets of a life not lived to its full potential. Repetitive themes were the result of this nurse's questioning. The most common five she found were:

I wish I'd had the courage to live a life true to myself, not the life others expected of me.

"This was the most common regret of all. When people realize that their life is almost over and looking back clearly upon it, it was easy to see how many dreams have gone unfulfilled. Most people had not honored even a half of them and had to die knowing that it was due to choices they'd made – or not made. From the moment you lose your health, it is too late. Health brings a freedom very few realize until they no longer have it."

I wish I hadn't worked so hard.

"This came from a lot of male patients I nursed. They missed their children's youth and their partner's companionship. All of these men deeply regretted spending so much of their lives on the treadmill of a work existence."

I wish I'd had the courage to express my feelings.

"Many people suppressed their feelings in order to keep peace with others. As a result, they settled for a mediocre existence and never became who they were truly capable of becoming. Many developed illnesses relating to the bitterness and resentment."

I wish I had stayed in touch with my friends.

"Often they would not realize the benefits of old friends until their dying weeks. Many had become so caught up in their own lives they had let golden friendships slip by over the years. There were many deep regrets about not giving friendships the time and effort that they deserved. Everyone misses their friends when they are dying. It all comes down to love and relationships in the end."

I wish I had let myself be happier.

"Many did not realize, until the end, that happiness is a choice. They had stayed stuck in old patterns and habits. Fear of change had them pretending to others, and themselves, that they were content.

Girl OF THE Year

Center Grove student honored as advocate for The Leukemia & Lymphoma Society Indiana Chapter

By Nancy Price

When a beaming 12-year-old Center Grove girl named Audrey Wampler rang a bell at Riley Hospital for Children at IU Health last July to celebrate the end of grueling chemotherapy treatments two-and-a-half years earlier, naturally, she felt optimistic.

Yet, this upbeat attitude rarely left her side. Not even after the diagnosis of acute B cell lymphoblastic leukemia, frequent hospitalizations, physical pain, fatigue and losing her hair.

"There were many times she didn't feel well as a result of her very intensive lifesaving chemotherapy, but I never heard her complain nor was she ever grumpy with her caregivers," said Ann Haddix, nurse practitioner at Riley Hospital. "She was always pleasant and a joy to be around. I always looked forward to seeing her!"

Haddix met Audrey, a sixth-grade student at Center Grove Middle School, and her family a few days after Audrey received the leukemia diagnosis. "She was still in-patient and as I was going to be the nurse practitioner following her, went to meet them," Haddix recalled. "They were overwhelmed with information and blindsided by this new diagnosis – in addition, her dog was dying, and we allowed her to go to the front door of the hospital to say 'goodbye.' It was the saddest thing I have ever seen."

Determination for a 'Normal Life'

However, "she kept going to school and continued most of her activities during her treatment," Haddix continued. "She didn't let it stop her from having a normal life."

Audrey's aunt invited the family, which includes Audrey's mother, Kristen; father, Ryan; and brother, Mark, to attend the annual Light the Night fundraising walk that fall to benefit The Leukemia & Lymphoma Society. Participating in the event "helped Audrey see initially that others have leukemia (as well)," said Kristen. "It made her not feel alone."

In addition, Audrey's teacher, who survived leukemia as a young girl herself, attended. "She kind of knew what I was going through and it was special for her too because she had never (attended)," Audrey said. "That was really special for me."

The following year, Audrey was asked to be the honored hero due to her inspiration as a supporter for the region by LLS at Light the Night in Indianapolis.

A Young Ambassador

This year, Audrey was asked to be the 2020 Girl of the Year for the LLS Indiana Chapter. Each year, four ambassadors are chosen to represent their state: the Women of the Year, Man of the Year, Girl of the Year and Boy of the Year. As Girl of the Year, she is an advocate for fundraising efforts, including designing T-shirts, speaking at luncheons and dinners and participating in videos.

Jeff Johnson, campaign director for Man and Woman of the Year, noted the silver lining in Audrey's experience with leukemia has been the opportunity to share her experience with others. "She's very passionate about sharing her story," he said. "For someone her age to come out of this with such positivity is inspiring."

"I am so very pleased for her but not surprised that she is receiving this honor," added Haddix. "She will be an excellent representative and role model."

This year's Light the Night event will be held Oct. 3, 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. at Military Park, 601 W. New York St., Indianapolis. For more information, go to lls.org or f: Light the Night – Indianapolis area.

Pack Away Hunger, ProAct Indy partner to donate meals to neighbors in need

FEATURE

By Nancy Price

Two local nonprofits recently teamed up to provide thousands of meals to neighborhoods affected by the COVID-19 crisis.

Pack Away Hunger gave 16,000 meals to ProAct Indy to distribute to three high-need neighborhoods in Indianapolis and to No Questions Asked Food Pantry on the city's Southside on April 21.

"The only way we are going to get through this unprecedented time is by leaning on each other," said Derrin Slack, ProAct Indy founder and chief program officer. "I have seen inspiring grassroots efforts from many community members, nonprofit organizations, churches and communities step up for our neighbors who have been adversely affected by COVID-19, so partnering with an organization like Pack Away Hunger, who is being intentional about sustainably meeting our community's needs is a no-brainer for us. It is not the act of service that is going to get us through these times, but for our relationships, our people."

"Our meal distributions went very well, and our community partners were so grateful to receive them," said Allison Avin, director of communications for Pack Away Hunger.

On May 5, Pack Away Hunger will hold a socially distanced staff pack-a-thon called #GivingTuesdayNow.

"Essentially #GivingTuesdayNow is a worldwide call to action to support nonprofits and communities," Avin said. "Traditionally there is just one #GivingTuesday, which takes place the second Tuesday in December each year. With this crisis, the organizers of the movement recognized that nonprofits and communities need help now."

"Under normal circumstances we hold meal packing events with businesses, churches, etc. Obviously under current conditions we can't hold those events which has diminished our ability to pack meals for local families. The six members of our team will be packing meals for six hours and we will use the opportunity to raise donations for the meals. The meals will then be distributed into the community in the following weeks."

The goal for #GivingTuesdayNow is to raise $5,000. "Meeting that goal will help ensure we can continue providing meals to our local partners," Avin said. "Let's come together to create a wave of generosity, citizen engagement, action from business and philanthropy and support for communities and nonprofits around the world."

Donations may be made to PackAwayHunger.org.

Perry Township resident appears on The Price Is Right

FEATURE

By Nancy Price

"Brandon Howell ... come on down!" shouted the familiar voice of George Gray, the announcer on The Price Is Right, to a Perry Township resident.

Howell, a faculty member at Indiana University of School of Public Health-Bloomington, appeared on the long-running TV game show this morning at 11 a.m. "I've always wanted to go on the show," he said.

Howell booked tickets and appeared during a taping in early February while in Los Angeles for a conference. "They have a series of things to do before you get in the studio," Howell said of those wishing to appear on the show. Contestants are asked about their knowledge of the show, and they must show energy when meeting with the main producer.

"You check in and do paperwork, there's a series of photos and everyone is dressed up in shirts made (for the show). You watch a series of videos, they teach you what the experience is like, they guide you and it moves very fast. You sit there and they're starting to tape and Drew Carey (the host) comes out and interacts with the audience and tells jokes.

"Everyone is just in really good spirits," Howell said. He was the last contestant to be called to the stage. "As soon as I heard my name I just bolted from my seat. When you're on the stage, you're so excited trying to focus and so in my excitement I had a question about the game. Drew wasn't dismissive and he gave me as much time as possible. He's amazing."

At press time, Howell was unable to comment on which game he played and if he won. He said he would "absolutely" go on the show again if he could. That was the one of the most exciting days I've ever had," he said.

How you can help COVID-19 needs on #GivingTuesdayNow

Next Tuesday, May 5, is #GivingTuesdayNow. Normally, the day is held the Tuesday after Thanksgiving to create an international day of charitable giving at the beginning of the Christmas and holiday season.

This year, a second #GivingTuesdayNow date has been added in response to the urgent needs caused by COVID-19. Anyone can join the global movement for unity and giving back in a variety of ways, including the following:

- Discover a local fundraiser, community drive or coordinated event to join others in your area or with your same interests in giving back. Search for opportunities at givingtuesday.org/whats-happening-near-me.
- Give to your favorite cause.
- Share kindness with your neighbors.
- Show gratitude to healthcare workers, service providers and other essential workers who are making sure we still have the services we rely on, even at risk to their own health.
- Use social media to spread the word! Remember to use #GivingTuesdayNow.
- Announce your participation in #GivingTuesdayNow to your networks and email lists.
- Visit givingtuesday.org/now

For more ideas, visit givingtuesday.org or sign up for GivingTuesday Daily Generosity alerts to get ideas and inspiration each day for ways to show kindness and give back while staying safe.

#GivingTuesdayNow will share specific opportunities for individuals to participate in local, regional and country campaigns as well as ideas they can take and use for individual action or to rally their family, friends, neighbors, coworkers and networks to do good.

July 3 fireworks cancellation

After consultation with our police chief, fire chief and public comments from the Indiana State Board of Health, I have decided to recommend to our board of public works and safety that a permit for the public display of fireworks on July 3 in our city park not be issued.

It is apparent that social distancing will continue to take place through August of this year, and with the large crowds that this event will draw, may cause our citizens and guests an unnecessary exposure.

There is no scheduled rain date. We will prepare for our next opportunity for this event in 2021.

AROUND TOWN

Members of DAR Mary Bryan Chapter make face masks during COVID-19

Donation – The Mary Bryan Chapter of DAR has seven members making face masks daily for numerous medical facilities whose supplies are being depleted. Facilities that have requested our face masks have been Community Hospital South, Franciscan Health Network, Dialysis Center of Indianapolis, American Senior Communities and other Johnson County facilities. Besides friends, neighbors and family members, the Gray Goat Bicycle Company, considered an essential business, requested masks for their employees for all four of their locations in addition to a veterinary clinic and the Greenwood Main Street post office. We have received material from many individuals but finding elastic has become increasingly difficult after fabric stores were forced to close; online orders are now being placed. Members Carolyn Ferraro, JoAn Nichols, Candy Close, Jill Werner, Cathy Pollachek, Laura Manning and Molly Chizum began sewing in April while buying; Vicki Kurtz delivered needed supplies. To date nearly 900 masks have been sewn and donated to the community as part of a national DAR initiative to do service to America from home to ease the need of face masks to the medical facilities as well as many individuals trying to protect themselves and others from the COVID-19 pandemic.

Chamber of Commerce

Our thoughts are with our community. The chamber is a nonprofit organization, and we too have made changes due to COVID-19. Music on Main is a summer favorite, however, due to COVID-19 we will not hold the event this summer. We plan to host a job fair in late September and plans are underway for our annual awards night dinner, a pop-up market and Shop Small Saturday, all scheduled for November.

Flattening the curve and social distancing have become popular phrases over the last few weeks. Now we are starting to hear about recovery plans. Most of us don't have a plan in place on how to navigate a global pandemic, but much of what you do today will determine how you come out on the other side of this. If you would like assistance creating a recovery plan the chamber has wonderful templates and is available to work with you to create a plan that makes sense for your business. Please reach out to us; this is a free service for any business or nonprofit in the Greater Beech Grove area.

We would like to welcome new members to the chamber. You can usually find Mr. and Mrs. Hot Dog by the canal or at local events. They have a great menu and call Beech Grove home. Now you can order online and have your food delivered! Find out more at mrandmrshotdogstand.com. Songs of Hope Church is a new concept that focuses on worshipping God through music and plans to open later this year. The majority of their programming and volunteer work will be centered on helping serve the community.

The Greater Beech Grove Chamber of Commerce is dedicated to building a vibrant community that people and businesses are proud to call home. If you would like more information, we invite you to visit our website, BeechGroveChamber.org or to follow us on Facebook. You can also call (317) 800-8499; we are happy to talk with you.

Center Grove student starts free grocery service delivery

FEATURE

By Nancy Price

A Center Grove senior is helping home-bound people in his community by providing a grocery delivering service for free.

Dylan Godsave, who has operated online businesses since he was a freshman, created South Side Delivers about three weeks ago in response to concerns about COVID-19.

"I have a team of people working with me and I was in a meeting and someone asked, 'What are we doing about this pandemic?' That's when we started pondering and I came up with an idea. We thought about the resources we have and how we could use them for the greater good," he said.

Godsave quickly built a website for the business and added locally owned businesses with products available for delivery as well. Customers may order face masks from Drop Shop; hats, T-shirts, hoodies and blankets from Coffey Connection Graphics & Apparel and bath bombs from Casual Cosmetics.

Godsave, along with about 30 high school and college students from Center Grove, deliver ordered items within one to two days. Drivers adhere to CDC guidelines by wearing gloves when picking up items from local stores, applying hand sanitizer every 10 minutes and sending an SMS message via text after dropping off deliveries to customers' front porches.

"There's a big need for what we're doing," Godsave said. "That's what drives us to do our best. We've received exceptional feedback through the community. A lot of people ask how they can help. I try to push local businesses. They are needing help."

South Side Delivers accommodates one order per household per week; there are no deliveries on weekends. A delivery map can be found on the website: southsidedelivers.com.

The business will continue to operate as long as there's a need during stay-at-home orders through the government and health officials, according to Godsave.

Carryout - Despite restaurants being closed for dining in, customers are still placing orders and parking their cars outside the restaurant to wait for their favorite meal. Please see our list of Southside restaurants serving carryout and delivery meals.

Hornet Pantry in Beech Grove needs donated food items or grocery store gift cards. (Submitted photo)

Southside food pantries in need of donated items

FEATURE

By Nancy Price

Several Southside food pantries are in desperate need of donated items due to economic challenges from the COVID-19 pandemic and are asking their communities for help.

"We have seen an influx of people and families since the virus hit," said Christina Nelson-Canfield, who operates Michelle's Little Pantry in Greenwood. Michelle Waugh Dahl runs the pantry's Franklin location. "We are both 24-hour community based. However, we have had to shop with monetary donations when we can to fill the void."

When schools closed in March, the pantries gave away 50 spring break bags.

"Over these past four Wednesdays, our Hornet Pantry has passed out over 1,300 meals and groceries to over 400 families," said Angel Calvert McKenna, facility manager for Hornet Park Community Center. "We've also made food deliveries and have provided boxes of food to families in need as those calls come in. Many in our community understand the need and have been generous with their support and donations, but we are in need of that help once again. If you have some of the items at home to spare or would like to donate a grocery store gift card, we could really use your help."

Most of the pantry's needs include the following: rice, pasta, pasta sauce, peanut butter, jam or jelly, macaroni and cheese (a lot), cereal, granola bars, fresh or dried fruit, ramen noodles, pudding, boxed or bagged bread products, such as pizza crust, cornbread or pancake mixes and canned items, including tuna, chicken, ravioli, beans, tomatoes and soup.

Nelson-Canfield said the Little Free Pantry locations need personal care items, such as soap, shampoo, laundry detergent, diapers and wipes. "Anything you can do would help," she said. For more information, visit Michelle's Little Pantry on Facebook.

McKenna can be reached at (317) 803-9086 or by email at angel.mckenna@beechgrove.com.

IU Credit Union named a 2020 Best Places to Work in Indiana

Recognition – IU Credit Union has been designated as one of the Best Places to Work in Indiana. This is the 15th year for the annual program created by the Indiana Chamber of Commerce and Best Companies Group. To determine the Best Places to Work in Indiana, companies from across the state entered a two-part survey process. The first aspect consisted of evaluating each nominated company's workplace policies, practices, philosophy, systems and demographics. This part of the process was worth approximately 25 percent of the total evaluation. The second part consisted of an employee survey to measure the employee experience and accounted for some 75 percent of the total evaluation. The combined scores determined the top companies and the final rankings. Specific company rankings will be announced at an awards dinner in Indianapolis on June 4. IU Credit Union is a full-service, nonprofit financial institution with 10 branches statewide, more than 68,000 members and assets exceeding $1.2 billion. Established in 1956, IU Credit Union offers a full range of financial services for both individuals and business owners, including mobile and online services at iucu.org. For more information on the Best Places to Work in Indiana program, visit BestPlacestoWorkIN.com.

Kroger Family of Companies to hire 20,000 workers in next several weeks

Hiring – The Kroger Family of Companies (NYSE: KR) have recently provided new career opportunities to more than 23,500 workers nationwide, including those from the hardest-hit sectors such as restaurants, hotels and food service distributors. Kroger plans to hire an additional 20,000 workers over the next several weeks to help it continue to provide fresh food and useful supplies to communities across the country during the COVID-19 pandemic. In Kroger Central Division, serving primarily Indiana and Illinois, each store needs as many as 35 new associates. Division recruiters have hired 275 people in just the last three days. Hundreds more applicants will join the company in the days ahead. Other job seekers are invited to talk with recruiters at their local stores or apply online at jobs.kroger.com.

Sandra Eskenazi Mental Health Center

The widespread COVID-19 pandemic has changed the world tremendously in the last several weeks, leaving many people in the U.S. frightened, isolated and confused with the travel restrictions that have been mandated by state and local officials.

We definitely all need to focus on our mental health during this very strange time period we're all going through. This can be very difficult because we're all being asked to be isolated and not everybody has family they live with and some people live alone, so even though we're practicing social distancing for safety, we all need to stay in contact with people whether it's our family members, friends or people we work with.

It's also important that we communicate to the best of our abilities with family and friends we live with because we'll be around them more than ever before, which could become stressful.

As adults continue to navigate their way through this strange and unsettling time, many of them are parents suddenly saddled with the responsibility of helping their children understand why they're not going to school or able to play with their friends.

This is a time when we can all ask ourselves, "What can I learn about each family member even though I live with them?" Maybe this is a chance to get to know everyone even better, and maybe I can teach my kids some hobbies that I used to do, but don't have time for now. If you can practice social distancing when the weather is nice, it's a great time to get outside, perhaps with sidewalk chalk, or try different crafts outside.

With their kids always at home these days, a number of parents have been thrust into the role of teacher, which for many comes as a responsibility they never imagined for themselves.

In teaching your children, it might be helpful to remember teaching is not your profession and you're doing the best you can. Try to set realistic goals about what you want your kid to accomplish and to learn, and then celebrate together when those goals are accomplished. For parents who are working from home with a full-time job, teaching their children for a whole full day is impossible, so they have to adjust those expectations for themselves. Know that your kids are going to be OK and that the most important thing is they're home and safe and know that you're doing the best you can.

This could be such a fun period of growth for children and adults, and a beautiful time for people to come together and spend a lot of meaningful time with each other. The most important thing to remember is this will eventually come to an end; don't be too hard on yourself in the process.

People who believe they may have been exposed to COVID-19 should contact their health care provider immediately. If you are ill with flu-like symptoms such as fever, cough or shortness of breath, please call your health center or clinic before coming to your appointment. At Eskenazi Health, please call 317.880.7666 before coming to your appointment. Healthcare professionals are available 24/7 to answer questions on symptoms and direct you to the most appropriate care. It is important to first call before arriving at Eskenazi Health.

Beat the pandemic blues by working on your home and garden this spring

By Brian Ruckle

We are a month into spring and with so many Southside residents staying home during the COVID-19 crisis, now is the perfect opportunity to spend time in the fresh air, exercise, make your home beautiful and grow your own food supply.

Indy Rental and Sales stocks equipment to help homeowners with any number of spring projects, whether it's preparing a garden, working on your lawn, or installing a new fence or patio. Popular rental items are seeders, aerators and dethatchers to keep lawns green and healthy. Other like ladders, scissor lifts, skid steers and mini excavators make tasks easier and safer.

Area greenhouses are reserving time after opening for senior citizens and are asking visitors to maintain six-feet social distancing.

Melinda Gary of Gary Greenhouse said customers have different preferences this year due to the current pandemic situation and news about food supply.

"People are scooping up the vegetables fast. They are rushing in to get tomatoes, peppers, cucumbers, zucchini," she said.

Bill Heidenreich of Heidenreich Greenhouses said that he expects people to buy both flowers and food producing plants.

"I don't think people will be taking big vacations or go too far away from home. They may not spend money on vacations but staying at home they may want to do something to fix up their yard. All the vegetable sales are strong, and flowers sales are strong too," said Heidenreich.

With warmer months coming, it is time to prepare for the warmer months. Chris Huser of Lamping/Huser Heating and Cooling reminds homeowners to maintain their furnace filters.

"Always make sure your furnace filter is cleaned, and check your outdoor condenser coil, which can get clogged up with cottonwood and other debris," Huser said. "Have a professional check the Freon and controls in your air conditioner to ensure proper operation."

Spring may be the right time to add some new carpet, which may have suffered from rain and snow tracked in during the cold months. Dan Hornaday of Flooring by Stretch Rite said today's big flooring trend is hard surfacing.

"Hard surfaces are very popular," he said. "Many consider replacing carpet in large room areas, (since) hard surfaces are more durable in high-traffic areas, especially after winter, with salt and snow tracked in."

Dance-offs, teatime and crafty 'hugs': fresh ideas for family entertainment

FEATURE

By Angie Norris

As COVID-19 social distancing and self-quarantining continue, some of us may be going stir-crazy not being able to go and do the things we're used to doing. Our habits have changed and a new "normal" is something that we're all trying to get used to. You've been cooped up for weeks, only leaving the house for essentials, and it's hard to come up with activities to keep your family entertained that you haven't already done. If you're running low on your list of things to do at home, here are a few options to keep your family busy.

Plugged in

Everyone knows that most kids love video games. That's what they want to spend most of their time doing. So, why not join in with them for a game or two? Have a video game football or basketball championship with the whole family. You could get a dancing game and have dance-offs, or a band game and have concerts. Even a racing game with cars or motorcycles would be fun for the whole family. Have one family member keep score and see who wins at the end. Let whoever wins pick dinner or dessert. Or, you could even make a family trophy for the winner out of household items like pop bottles and foil.

Keepsake craft

A lot of us have been at home not able to visit loved ones like we normally do. It can be hard to not have that warmth of a hug from mom or dad, or grandma and grandpa. Although it wouldn't be as good as the real thing, here's an idea to help. You could get a white, or lightly colored blanket, nothing too fluffy, the smoother the better for this project. Have your little ones lay down with their arms spread out like they're about to hug someone. Trace around their torso, arms out, with a fabric marker, then have

AN OPTION

The Tailgate

The Tailgate may not be open for you and your friends to gather and watch the game, but you can still order a chargrilled burger, quarter pound hot dog, or wings to go from this family-owned and operated pub. "If you want a delicious hamburger and chips on the side, this is the place!" according to a reviewer. Appetizers include pretzel breadsticks with nacho cheese or spicy mustard, deep fried meatballs or pepper jack cheeseballs with marinara; pulled pork, grilled tenderloin and sloppy joes are sandwich options, while filets and sirloins are served for entrees. Additional options include chili, soup and a black'n bleu salad. "I had the steak kabobs, they were the best I've ever tasted, and my husband enjoyed his stuffed burger," a guest commented. ice cream will satisfy your sweet tooth, as well as brownie bites and cinnamon sugar doughnuts.

Brickhouse Coffee Roasters

100 Byrd Way, Greenwood, IN 46143

Recommended:

Vanilla chai tea with a favorite baked good.

About the bakery:

Brickhouse is a family-owned and operated business with Jared and Lora Stayton and their daughters. The Staytons were missionaries in southern Spain when they were inspired to start their own coffee shop as they discovered the economic challenges missionaries face while serving full time while learning the value of community in local cafes and relationships that develop over a cup of coffee. With the help of their home church, Horizon Christian Fellowship, they began making their business vision a reality. Brickhouse seeks opportunities to get involved within its local community at various events and with outreaches and projects. It desires to help, equip and encourage others in their vision and calling.

Funfact:

Brickhouse got its name from the same structure that housed the original roasting workshop, an 1800s two-story brick house that sits on the church property.

Top 10 movies to stream this week

MOVIE REVIEW

By Bradley Lane

All the movies on this week's list are available to stream on Tubi, an entirely free video on-demand service. No subscription required, so all you need is an internet connection to watch these great movies!

- The Adventures of Tintin (2011): Certainly not Spielberg's first foray into animation, but definitely his most beautiful; The Adventures of Tintin is a gorgeous animated adventure. Between tracking down hidden treasure, drunken pirates and a cute-as-a-button fluffy companion, this is a perfect movie for family night.
- Airplane (1980): Airplane uses every second of screen time for jokes. The sets, props, performances, music and camera work are all dead set on making you laugh. It is a spoof of the highest caliber.
- Akira (1987): Another gorgeously animated movie, this one though decidedly not for younger audiences, Akira is a feast for the eyes with a lot of thematic meat to chew on. A young biker works as hard as he can to try and rescue his friend from the clutches of a government conspiracy.

- The Big Short (2015): The true story of the people who saw the 2008 economic crash coming and profited from it. Made in the style of a dark comedy, you won't believe your eyes and ears.
- Donnie Darko (2001): Famous for its endless complexities and obtuse story, it remains one of the greatest cinematic mysteries ever. A high school student begins to have visions of the end of the world and only he can figure out exactly what these visions mean and why he is seeing them.
- Fist of Fury (1972): Bruce Lee at his best. While this film is slightly less popular than his later work like Enter the Dragon, make no mistake Lee is at the top of his game as he fights to defend the Chinese honor in the face of foreign oppression.
- Irreversible (2002): I want to make this abundantly clear; this film is for mature audiences only. Made by French provocateur Gaspar Noe, this story of brutal revenge is told in reverse chronological order with one of the most horrifying scenes put on film at its center.
- Night of the Living Dead (1968): The prototype for the clichés of the zombie movie genre, George A. Romero made this film on a shoestring budget of just over $100,000. It follows the exploits of a mismatched group of survivors during a wave of inexplicable zombie attacks. The practical effects and character dynamics cemented this as a classic of the horror genre.
- Short Term 12 (2012): A prestige drama that has been lost to time, Short Term 12 is an emotionally raw and intense film. It follows the residents and staff of a care unit for at-risk teens, as they struggle with their own personal traumas, both the staff and residents. This one will rip your heart to bits and then put it right back together again.
- The Conjuring (2013): The peak of modern horror referencing classics of the genre. James Wan makes one of the scariest haunted house films imaginable, all the while holding the audience perpetually at the edge of their seats.

Bradley is a Beech Grove High School alumnus and has been enamored by film for as long as he can remember. He is currently in his third year studying at IUPUI, majoring in Media and Public Affairs with a minor in Film. Bradley can be contacted at blane2214@gmail.com.

them write a short message to their loved one. After they're done, wash it with laundry sanitizer, place it in a Ziploc bag and wrap it with pretty paper. Mail it to your loved one and when they open it, they can wrap themselves in your little one's hug. How cool is that! Whoever gets this precious keepsake would be sure to cherish it.

Teatime

Hosting a family tea party can be fun for everyone and leave loving memories for your children to carry with them. You could even put on Alice in Wonderland and mimic your tea party like the one in the movie. You could make brightly colored flowers out of colored paper and put them in a vase on the table or string up for decoration. Make three tiered platters out of plates, and candle holders or teacups to keep yummy goodies on like cookies, macarons and small tea sandwiches. Have a platter of different teas, along with things like honey, lemon and cream to add. Go ahead and dress up in your Sunday best for the occasion. It's been a while and dressing up makes everyone feel good.

Be sure to take care of yourself and give yourself a break. You can't take care of anyone else if you're not healthy. Kindness and compassion during these times are what we all need. If you're doing the best you can, then that's what really matters.

Nienaber for State Representative • House District #90

THERE IS NO NEIGHBOR LIKE A NIENABER

On June 2, please vote for Jordan Nienaber for State Representative

1. A massive infrastructure project that would rebuild and widen roads and bridges while putting more Hoosiers in good-paying jobs.
2. Every student K-12 will be able to have a hot meal free of charge and every student's school lunch debt will be eliminated.
3. An increase in the minimum wage to $15 an hour with all first responders seeing an increase to $20 an hour.

Mother's Day is coming up, and we're paying tribute to moms for our May 7 issue. Our question/theme this year is: "What would be the ultimate Mother's Day gift for your mom and why (no cost limitations)?" We are opening this up to all ages this year (yes, even adults). Please keep your answers at or below 100 words and email responses to nancy@icontimes.com along with your first and last name and city/town of residence (if you live on the Southside of Indy, please include your township) by May 3. We look forward to hearing from you!
