Ghost hunting politics: Part II

HAUNTS & JAUNTS

By Rick Hinton

There continues to be ghostly spectacles on the internet posted from excited and impressionable ghost groupies, with definite tie-ins with ghost apps and Photoshop. What is most amazing is the buy-in that this is conclusive proof for the existence of ghosts. Are we that gullible and consequently, have shut off our brains?

"Ghost Camera apps have been out for years," Kenny Biddle states. "We have seen the Same Freaking Ghosts in hospitals, prisons, hallways, bedrooms, on the beach, in windows, in your cousin's sister's uncle's closet... and so on. Yet, we still see groups with fancy names posting a photo from a Ghost Camera app, and debating about it ... with comments from many individuals falsely arguing points of why it was 'amazing'. I say falsely because the arguments were completely invalid and obvious they had no knowledge of the topics being discussed."

Biddle adds:

"What's the real issue here? Well yes, there are many, but one stands out for me: the lack of ANY research and investigation WHATSOEVER. No search of phone apps (since this has become a common hoax), no research of Photo Shop techniques (since this was brought up several times, but shot down)... or even a simple search for 'fake ghosts'."

Biddle knows photography. It doesn't take much to fire up his cylinders when it comes to the subject of purported "ghost photos." He also comments about the lack of advancement in the pursuit of paranormal realities.

"Groups are stuck in a rut ... and have been for several DECADES. Hell ... over a century! There is no 'advancement' going on. The recent rut consist of the following:

1) Get permission (or not) to explore a

"haunted" location.

2) Set up a lot of gadgets believed to capture/record something to do with ghosts (with no evidence to back up such an idea).

3) Turn the lights out. Sit in the dark. Talk to the dark.

4) Review all recordings and assume everything you cannot explain absolutely must be that ghost of a little girl you read about.

5) Post it all, wait for praise. Delete and block questions, rational explanations, logic, reason, professional knowledge, evidence that refutes your claim."

Paranormal groups often do more harm than good. Clients reach out for help, answers and validation, instead receiving the "official" wisdom and verdict of someone with a ghost-hunting diploma from the internet or television. They can be wrong (it happens), not realizing the lasting ramifications of their words or actions. They leave, moving on to other adventures with their befuddled clients left behind in the same situation. And, quite often, with inaccurate information to help them move forward. It's a sad state of affairs!

Standard operating procedure for paranormal investigators, as outlined by Biddle, appears to be the norm within many groups. And the groups keep coming, as do the theories and speculation. "This, or similar versions of this, are what I see most throughout the world of paranormal enthusiasts. Fancy terms are thrown about quite frequently and with an air of authority, yet most know little to nothing about what the term actually means. If you've never heard of the Scientific Method, you shouldn't be claiming to be taking the scientific approach. And if you can't bother yourself to research a Ghost Camera app, on top of making ridiculous arguments for why it's 'real,' you should really find a new hobby – like window licking!"

Rick Hinton, a Southport resident, loves researching things that go bump in the night. His articles can be read on Facebook: Rick Hinton, Southport Paranormal Examiner. Hinton conducts paranormal investigations with his team, South Central Paranormal.

Mother's DAY

This year, Southside students from second through eighth grade were asked to complete the following sentence: "My favorite thing to do with my mom is. ..."

Children have a lot of things they like to do with their mothers. From sipping on Frappuccinos at Starbucks and watching shared favorite shows on TV to cooking meals, going on road trips, roller skating and even making slime together, students shared that they have fun hanging out with their moms.

Congratulations to our winner this year: Melody Fanai, an eighth-grader from Indianapolis Southside Christian Academy. Melody and her mother will receive a gift certificate for two to dine at the Tea Room of Rustic Root.

Placing second is Rebecca Bik, a fifth-grader from Greenwood Christian Academy, with third place going to Kamille Voyles, a second-grader at Isom Elementary School.

The Southside Times thanks all participants in this year's essay contest and wishes all moms a Happy Mother's Day.

Melody Fanai

My favorite thing to do with my mom is to make Kimchi, which is a famous, traditional, Korean side dish made from vegetables. We make it every once in a while, and while we are making it, my mom and I enjoy that time we can spend together. We don't always get much alone time together. If I burn myself while I'm stirring things on the stove, my mom gladly and patiently takes my place. When she's all finished with the Kimchi, she always lets me be the first one to try it! I get to be the judge. I love the special times we spend together. I really want to spend more time with my mom during the rest of my life. I love her so much!

My favorite thing to do with my mom is having a fun time with each other and playing. I like doing this with her. It is really fun. Also, I'm really energetic, so I like playing outside a lot with her. I always cherish time with her and we have fun with each other. We always laugh together and have fun together all the time. She means a lot to me and I always want to spend time with her a lot. When she needs help, I always help her around. I always remember when we always play together. When I was a child, I used to play hide and seek with her all the time. This year, I help her do the gardens we are starting. I always help her around and she always helps me clean the messes I make. She always has time for me and that is why I always cherish the moments with her. She works a lot just so I can attend a school that talks about God and a house where I can live and have meals. I love her a lot and she means a lot to me. I will always cherish the moments with her. I will always have a ton of space to have love in my heart. She does a lot of stuff any mom can't do. I can never live without her and if I did I would have an empty heart. I love my mom and I will always love her always till the very end.

I love to go on road trips with my mom. She always takes me fun places. We have fun when we are in the car. We have gone to a lot of places. One time we went to Kentucky. My mom tells me fun jokes and plays good music in her car. We sing to the songs together and have a great time. My mom is cool and awesome. I love her very much!

The Southside Times received a large number of essays submitted from students at Southside schools. All of the essays were so adorable and touching, we couldn't resist sharing more than our top three. We hope you enjoy this Mother's Day issue!

My favorite thing to do with my mom is cook dinner. She helps me measure the ingredients so I can make pizza or doughnuts. Sometimes we even make cakes. She gives me more confidence and helps me when I measure things wrong. She is a good cook and the best mom!

My favorite thing to do with my mom is going on a road trip with her. My favorite one was when we were going to Illinois to a Toby Mac concert with my cousin. One reason is that she let us stop and do fun things on the way. We could go to eat wherever we and my cousin wanted. Me and my cousin also could watch DVDs in the car and also play around. Also, she lets us stretch our legs and play at some places. She also bought a hotel room for us to have. One more reason is that she let us get what we wanted at the concert. Another road trip we took was with my whole family to Kentucky, but also with my grandma, to see the ark encounter. It was very fun because she was there with me. The last reason is that she loves to do fun stuff with me, and she cares for me and loves me. She will be the best mom forever, I love you, Mom.

My favorite thing to do with my mom is go on trips. She has taken me to several different places. Sometimes we go to closer places like Terre Haute. Sometimes we go farther away like Las Vegas or Mexico. Going to Cancun every year is a tradition for us. It wouldn't feel right not going, and it especially wouldn't feel right going without my mom. We do a lot of things in Cancun. We love going to the pool and floating around on the rafts. We have movie nights with popcorn. Sometimes we just stay in our hotel room and eat pizza. It's the best! In Las Vegas we visit a lot of little stores and just hang out together. When I was little, we always enjoyed sitting next to each other on the plane and coloring pictures. If I ever go anywhere without her, I really start missing her, and wish I hadn't gone without her. Even though I'm getting older now, I still love going on trips with my mom.

My favorite thing to do with my mom is travel! Sometimes we go to parks and places that are close to home, but sometimes we go to faraway places like Chicago, New York and Texas! I have a memory of traveling in New York with her when I was around 5 years old. We went through an underwater tunnel. It wasn't glass, but it was still cool to be in an underwater tunnel. There was also a Lego shop in New York that had every type of Lego you can imagine! It was awesome! That was just one fun memory, but every day is always the best day if I'm with my mom!

My favorite thing to do with my mom is go to Starbucks, sit outside and just talk or sit on the couch, watch movies or TV (NCIS) with junk food. I also love playing games. I love this because I love spending quality time with my mom. When my mom and I talk, we actually talk. We don't just sit there. We get into in depth conversations about things. We also have this book. It is called 3000 Questions About Me. They are "would you rather" questions. For example, "Would you rather have ice cream or snow cones?" Things like that! My mom always goes back to the question, "Why?" because she is interested and actually cares about me. For example, today I told her I didn't have breakfast. She explained to me that it was my responsibility to get breakfast, then she got me breakfast from McDonald's.

Now, I am not saying that my mom gives me whatever I want, because she doesn't. She does so much for me that I don't even know. She picks up after me, she cleans. My mom is very loving. If I was a mom, I don't think I would have that much love in my heart for my sister and I. We love each other. These are my favorite things to do with my mom because she cares. When she doesn't want to play a game, she plays the game because she CARES. When she doesn't want to go to Starbucks, she goes to Starbucks for my sister and I because she CARES! I love my mom because she still cares. I have grown so much, and she still cares, today. This is a real mom; this is my mom.

My favorite thing to do with my mom is going on small dates with her. Whether that is shopping, getting a quick meal, watching a funny movie, or getting our nails done, it is the best. This is by far my favorite thing to do with her because sometimes it is hard getting one-on-one time with someone when there is a lot going on, and I am very lucky to be able to have that special time with her.

My mom is funny, kind, easy to talk to about things, is just so fun to be around and I treasure the time I get to spend with her. Since both my brother and my sister play sports, we are usually very busy and do not have a lot of free time, but my mom always finds a way to make some time for us and go on little dates, even if that is watching an episode of our favorite TV show before I go to bed.

I love when my mom and I go on dates together because we also get to grow on our relationship with each other. This is one on my reasons because some kids don't get to spend time with their moms or do not get along with their mom, and I am very lucky to have such a good relationship with her through the time we spend together. For these reasons, this is why my favorite thing to do with my mom is going on small dates with her. So Mom, if you are reading this, just know that I love you and always will ... and happy Mother's Day!!!

AN ORPHAN'S ABBA

Greenwood mother starts global nonprofit after hearing God's calling

BY STEPHANIE DOLAN

Jim and April Jurgensen live in Greenwood. They've been married for 27 years, and they have two children. Berea is 23, and Noah is 21. They attend Community Church of Greenwood, and they live quiet, humble lives.

Except for the three to five trips taken internationally each year to visit any one of several orphanages that their nonprofit organization, The Boaz Project, funds and maintains in Russia, India and Kenya.

"They (Berea and Noah) began traveling with us when they were 3 and 5, and by the time they were in middle school, we'd often tell short-term teams that if anything happened to Jim and me, it was OK," April said. "Berea and Noah knew what to do and how to get them home. They are currently in stages of life which make travel quite difficult, but we're looking forward to traveling to Kenya with Noah in December."

THE WHY

The Boaz Project is a movement of those committed to ending the orphan crisis by inspiring and equipping leaders around the globe to care for orphans in their own communities.

"The name comes from the Biblical character Boaz, out of the book of Ruth," April said. "As a kinsman redeemer, he not only provided for Ruth's physical needs, but also brought her into the family of God. We seek to follow his example as we care for orphans."

In 1999, April was a contented housewife. Berea was 2 years old, and Noah was only 6 months. One day, a friend called to ask if she'd seen an episode of 20/20 about Russian orphans. April admitted she hadn't, but agreed that the conditions outlined in the program sounded awful. She hung up, only to get calls about the episode for the next two days from two other friends.

"In the days that followed, the Lord braided those three phone calls into my memory and began hounding me in earnest," April said. "When I spent time reading the New Testament each morning, suddenly verses about the orphaned and the fatherless started jumping out at me. 'I've read these books of the Bible before.

Why haven't I ever noticed God's passion for the orphan?' I pondered."

Just three years prior, April lived in Russia for two years before moving back to Indiana. At first, she reasoned that this was why friends were calling her, chalking it up to nothing more than that. But still ... she couldn't shake the idea that God was talking to her through those phone calls.

"As only God could orchestrate, all of these inexplicable incidents happened while I was preparing to return to Russia for a short visit," April continued.

THE WHAT

"As I obtained my letter of invitation and began applying for my visa, things only became more bizarre. Friends and acquaintances started walking up to me, handing me money and saying, 'When you go back to Russia, can you see to it that this gets to an orphanage?' What? I had told no one but my husband about the way God had been chasing me with thoughts of orphans. And he had told no one."

While in Russia, April visited orphanages, handing out toys and toiletries to children whose faces shown with pure joy at these small kindnesses. Upon her return to the United States, she knew that this wasn't something she could do in one visit, hoping that the Band-Aid – that one visit – would heal the wound these children had opened in her soul.

"All I knew was that God had turned three phone calls into a calling," she said. "And now, I could not hang up and walk away."

Today, The Boaz Project has come alongside nearly 15 existing facilities in Russia, India and Kenya.

"In Russia, we work with six state-run orphanages and one foster home," Jurgensen said. "In India, we work with six families who – out of obedience to God – started taking children in, with no idea how they'd provide for them. In Kenya, we work with one boys' home, but are in the process of helping to launch a girls' home. We have recently been buying and/or building facilities in order to offer sustainability to the homes."

"The process looks different in each location where we serve," Jim added. "In Russia, they're government institutions, so the upkeep isn't really on us. In India and Kenya, we do take over the physical upkeep. In India and Kenya, these homes don't receive any government help."

Frequently, some of our families were being moved because a landlord didn't want so many children on his property or wanted to increase the rent to a level the homes couldn't afford.

"It was very disruptive, especially for children who've already known so much trauma and loss," April added. "We each typically take three to five trips a year. As an organization, we average six per year. Our short-term team members do the Vacation Bible School teaching as we work with the house parents. A few of us (staff and volunteers) are qualified to provide training for the house parents on how to care for children from trauma, so if I personally do any teaching, that's what I do. It helps them understand the root of some of their children's behaviors and how to work through it."

My favorite thing to do with my mom is get ice cream. We ride our bikes to get ice cream. I like to get blue and mom likes vanilla with rainbow sprinkles. She always lets me pick what I want to eat and then we go to the park afterwards. Sometimes we go to the library and pick out books to read together. My mom has a pretty reading voice. I love my mom!

I love to do a lot of things with my mom. She's always by my side. We love to go to restaurants and eat noodles together. Sometimes we go to the pool and swim together. One time I got lost, but my mom found me. On holidays, we make slime together. When we are bored, we go to the museum. We go outside and play together. My very favorite thing to do with her is travel. One time we went to Noah's Ark! My mom gives me warm, big hugs! She always cheers me up. She is always with me no matter what happens. I love my mom!

Aside from religious instruction, The Boaz Project provides humanitarian aid, baby nurturing, educational expenses and birthday and Christmas gifts, which shows each child that he or she is seen and worthy.

THE HOW

The organization is funded through gifts from compassionate individuals, businesses and churches. Churches like the Jurgensen's home church, the Community Church of Greenwood.

"Yes, CCG has supported us since our inception 19 years ago," she said.

How can members of the community learn more or get involved in the work of The Boaz Project? Visit boazproject.org/encounter and sign up for a one-hour informational session.

According to Jim, there is one aspect of starting a non-profit that has been more difficult than anything else: "Hands down: fundraising," he said.

"We don't ask for any money, though; we just explain some of our approach to orphan care and share stories about what God's doing around the world," April said. "Or, they can order my book, The Orphan's Abba: Stories from Orphan Care That Reveal God's Love for You from Amazon. This compilation of stories from orphan care includes spiritual takeaways and tips for choosing an orphan care organization to support."

5 QUESTIONS WITH
April Jurgensen

Who or what inspires you?

Our house parents. These folks give their lives – day-by-day and moment-by-moment – to care for children who've known unfathomable trauma. And they've done it for so long with virtually no support or resources! They're the most selfless people you can imagine.

What are you current reading?

Atomic Habits: Tiny Changes, Remarkable Results by James Clear.

Do you have any pets?

Yes, the cutest rescue dog ever. Her name is Kopek, after the smallest denomination of Russian coin. She's part beagle, part toy fox terrier. We also have an unnamed fish that's determined to live forever.

Coffee or tea?

Both, but more coffee as I age.

What is your biggest guilty pleasure?

Graeter's black raspberry chip ice cream.

Going Green: A Beech Grove reflection of pride

By Paul Young

Beech Grove hosted its fourth annual Going Green in the Grove community event on Saturday, April 27 at Hornet Park Community Center. The Beech Grove Parks Department and Greenscape Commission teamed to give away 600 trees. The trees were available in several different species.

Many different organizations were present at the event and each one had its own mission reflecting community pride. While most of the organizations were centered on improving the environment, others had a different purpose.

Among those on hand were Daughters of the American Revolution, whose mission is to enhance the lives of our veterans. They had a number of cards available for people to sign, showing their appreciation to veterans for their service.

Wizard of Paws Wildlife Education Inc. brought two New Guinea singing dogs, whose melodic howling was a huge attraction.

Bethany Community Gardens features an exclusive area at Bethany Lutheran Church for members to participate in gardening and attend classes. Produce grown is donated to local food pantries, including Hunger Inc. and Servants Heart of Indy, Inc.

A fundraising raffle was held with many attractive prizes.

There were crafts for the children, an obstacle course and a photo booth, which was a popular feature. Beech Grove Mayor Dennis Buckley and his wife, Patty, were among the many people to pose with the floral-themed props.

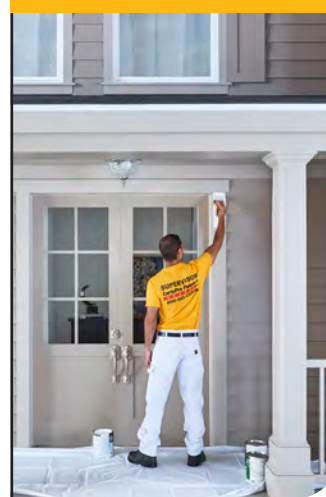

Going Green in the Grove is one of many events hosted by the Beech Grove Parks Department. For more information, visit their website at beechgrove.com/parks-department.

National Prevention Week, held from May 12-18 this year, is an annual observance dedicated to increasing public awareness of, and action around, mental and/or substance use disorders. Communities and organizations across the country are raising awareness about the importance of substance use prevention and positive mental health.

National Prevention Week also promotes implementing prevention strategies and showcasing effectiveness of evidence-based prevention programs, in addition to fostering partnerships and collaborations with federal agencies and national organizations dedicated to improving public health and promoting and disseminating quality substance use prevention and mental health promotion resources and publications.

The Beech Grove Comprehensive Drug-Free Coalition (CDFC) is hosting two free events open to the public next week. "Youth Substance Misuse and Overdose Prevention" will be held Wednesday, May 15 from 5-7:30 p.m. at the Beech Grove Library, will include speakers from Health Ed Pros and Community Health Network. ## Johnson County Sheriff's Department investigates financial crime against former CGCS employee

By Angela Norris

The Johnson County Sheriff's Office is conducting a financial crimes investigation against a former employee of Center Grove Community Schools, at the request of the Center Grove Community School Corporation.

The Center Grove Community School district sent emails to all parents this week to let them know about the investigation. The message from Superintendent Richard A. Arkanoff stated that the school was cooperating, and read:

"Center Grove is aware of an investigation underway involving a former employee. We immediately alerted authorities to this situation and are cooperating fully with their investigation. We look forward to seeing justice served in this case and will continue to do whatever we can to assist with the investigation."

In a later message, Arkanoff emphasized that the investigation concerned a "financial situation," and didn't involve any students.

In a statement made by the Johnson County Sheriff's Office on Friday morning, confirming that no student was involved in the investigation, the statement said,

"This investigation does not pertain to any students or children. It is a financial crimes investigation."

Johnson County Sheriff Duane Burgess declined to provide further details about the case and is not releasing any names of the suspect or suspects at this time, stating the investigation is "currently being worked diligently."

READERS' WRITES

Jim Coffman announces run for Beech Grove Clerk-Treasurer

My name is Jim Coffman. I decided to run for the position of clerk-treasurer for Beech Grove, alongside Mayor Dennis Buckley. I graduated from Roncalli High School and earned my bachelor's degree from Indiana University. My family owns and operates Eckstein Shoe Store on Main Street.

We started knocking on doors a few weeks ago and found many people are unsure what the clerk-treasurer does. Open, efficient and honest communication is important, and it's essential that voters know who they're choosing. In the interest of getting us on the same page, here are some duties of the clerk-treasurer. It is the responsibility of the clerk-treasurer to collect fines/fees as ordered by the governing body. The money collected was set forth by ordinance by the common council, and the clerk has no say on what is collected. Money in the city bank account comes from fines, fees and taxes that citizens paid, and the clerk must efficiently distribute. The clerk also acts as recording secretary/record keeper for the city council and board of works.

It is the responsibility of the clerk-treasurer to work with the mayor, the council and all city department heads to ensure the city successfully serves its citizens. This includes employing the best spending practices and uses for your taxpayer money.

When people work together, great things can happen. Let's work together to sustain our unique sense of community.

*Thank you,
Jim Coffman*

Public safety conversation planned

On Thursday, May 9, I will host a "Town Hall Conversation" on the future of our police and fire departments. This begins at 7 p.m. and will be held at the Hornet Park Community Center. This is an important conversation concerning how we conduct business in the future, investments in a new police station and fire station and investments in personal protection for all of our public safety employees. On a footnote, the potential sale of our sanitary sewer system will not be discussed at this event.

*Respectfully Submitted,
Dennis B. Buckley
Mayor, city of Beech Grove*

PMHS hosts 58th annual district art show

Arts & Culture – Hundreds of people packed the Perry Meridian High School gym for the 58th annual district art show. The show featured art from every school and grade level. Guests were able to enjoy a variety of pieces, including ceramics, paintings, drawings, textiles and more. The arts are alive and flourishing in Perry Township.

Roncalli to host retirement reception for Dean of Students

Retirement – Roncalli Dean of Students, Tim Puntarelli is retiring after 40 years of service to Roncalli; he spent 29 of those years as Dean of Students. During 40 years, Tim also taught in the English and Theology departments, was an assistant coach in the football program and worked for numerous senior Christian Awakening Retreats. Roncalli High School will hold a reception in his honor on Friday, May 10, 3:15 – 5 p.m. in the RHS Media Center. All are invited to stop in and extend your own personal thanks and appreciation to Tim. If you are unable to attend, cards or notes of appreciation may be sent to the high school to his attention. RHS Principal Chuck Weisenbach commented on Tim's work through the years. "Tim has been the ultimate in terms of being a compassionate leader and mold of young people! I marvel at how many kids who were frequent fliers to the Dean's office during their days as a student at Roncalli come back in the years following graduation to share a conversation with him. He is respected by students, peers and parents as being a caring, fair administrator who advocated for all kids, including those that misstepped on occasion."

The ceremony was held at All Star Bowl in Indianapolis where Egan trained. From left, Michelle Egan, mother of Kaitlyn; Kaitlyn Egan; University of The Cumberlands women and men's bowling coach, Kevin Reigle; and father, Kevin Egan. Kaitlyn is a four-year senior at Perry Meridian and has bowled all four years of high school. The letter of intent officially confirmed her athletic scholarship to bowl for the Patriots next year. "She started bowling as a freshman and really enjoyed it. She was serious about it and so we found her a coach. Through time and effort she was able to earn herself a scholarship," said Kevin Egan, Kaitlyn's father. "I couldn't be prouder to have her go out and earn her way to college."

Long Shot A heartfelt and hilarious political rom-com

MOVIE REVIEW

By Bradley Lane

Politics are becoming mainstream. Like it or not, basically all media is inherently political. Whether you're watching a late-night talk show, listening to your favorite band, or going to see the newest Marvel film, at some level they are all communicating political messaging. At this point, even not addressing politics in media is a political stance. Communicating political messaging through media is not hard; what is hard is communicating that message well without talking down to your audience or being so subtle that it does not connect with general audiences. So, a new Seth Rogan comedy centered on his romantic relationship with the secretary of state, played by Charlize Theron, seemed destined to fall short of that high bar. However, I am very pleased to report that while Long Shot does lack subtlety in its messaging and themes, it is a supremely heartfelt and funny comedy about polarized times and vulnerability.

Long Shot focuses on an outspoken and brash journalist, Fred Flarsky, played by Seth Rogan, after quitting his small newspaper job after being bought out by a large media conglomerate, owned by right wing media mogul Parker Wembley. After a chance encounter at a swanky event he stumbles into with his best friend, Fred reconnects with the secretary of state and his old babysitter, Charlotte Field. Field has presidential aspirations, but her initial polling reveals a lack of humor in her public persona might hold her back. To combat this, she hires on Fred as a speech writer, where they soon develop feelings for one another, and the high-pressure nature of Field's career threatens to damage their relationship, as well as set the scene for some hilarious comedic situations.

The performances in Long Shot are uniformly great. Theron has proven herself as a dramatic actor but plays the straight woman to Rogan's goofy antics really well. In the same vein, Rogan handles the more dramatic moments with a level of seriousness and sincerity that he has yet to land in any of his films previously. Unfortunately, during these more serious scenes, we are robbed of genuine tension by an overbearing and overly dramatic score. The music is not bad, just overused to emotionally manipulate the audience into feeling certain ways about certain events. The standout performance of the film is Andy Serkis as Parker Wembley. Wembley is a mash-up parody of real-world media figures Steve Bannon and Rupert Murdoch, brought to life by make-up, prosthetics and a great performance by a nearly unrecognizable Andy Serkis.

The writing behind Long Shot is its greatest quality. The script, written by Dan Sterling and Liz Hannah, is careful to respect viewers' sensitivities without becoming toothless in its critique, and ultimately reveals its deftness throughout the film. Both Hannah and Sterling have written political films before with Hannah, collecting writing credits on the 2018 Oscar nominated, The Post, and Sterling helping to write the extremely controversial Seth Rogan comedy, The Interview. Clearly their shared experiences working with political material has guided their artistic vision in Long Shot and their messages land, mostly, without a hiccup. Field and Flarsky's relationship serve not only as a great on-screen couple but as an allegory for the film's major conflict and even more, the state of American political discourse.

Long Shot is a funny and engaging critique of the extremely polarized American political landscape that emphasizes the importance of empathy and vulnerability without ever sounding overly preachy.

Spring radishes:
good medicine

NUTRITION

By Wendell Fowler

I must confess: I underestimated the radish as a contributor to my temple's health. Sandi likes them and frequently brings a bunch home from the market, and if I remember, add them to our daily salad of dark, leafy greens, veggies, nuts and seeds, beans, apple cider vinegar with Mother and healthy oil. Otherwise, they'll go bad from my neglect.

Red, round, crunchy and crisp, radishes are one of many nutritious root vegetables, belonging to the brassica family. Thought to have originated in China centuries ago, today, the pungent root it is one of the most widely cultivated crops throughout the world. In Chinese culture, radish was believed to create wholesome health. A Chinese proverb says, "Eating pungent radish and drinking hot tea, let the starved doctors beg on their knees."

The low-calorie root is an excellent source of antioxidants, electrolytes, minerals, vitamins and dietary fiber. Fresh radishes are a good source of vitamin C, with as much C as a 10 oz. glass of OJ! C helps the temple scavenge harmful free radicals, prevent cancers, inflammation and boosts immunity; our department of defense. They are also a good source of calcium, potassium, folic acid, adequate levels of folates, vitamin B-6, riboflavin, thiamin and minerals such as iron, magnesium, copper and calcium.

Further, crunchy radishes contain detoxifying antioxidant agent's zeaxanthin, lutein and beta-carotene. Radishes are very good detoxifies for the liver and stomach too. Radishes contain antioxidant sulforaphane with a proven role against prostate, breast, colon and ovarian cancers by its cancer-cell growth inhibition and cytotoxic effects on cancer cells.

It's beyond my bandwidth why, over our lifetime, we weren't taught more about the thousands upon thousands of health-sustaining plants created by the Great Spirit for civilization. Since ancient times, natural medicine has been the backbone of traditional healing around the globe. What happened: The Industrial Revolution? We're so profoundly uprooted from earth's apothecary that many haven't seen plants, other than in the grocery.

Nature is the master craftsman of an infinite array of molecular entities: a generous resource for preventing and treating diseases. Long before chemicals were manufactured in labs, people used plants for medicine. Big Pharma knows this intimately as most plant-sourced drugs are "reinvented by scientists" or, as God intended, come organically from plants. There are thousands of phytonutrients derived from plants for use as drugs and medicines.

Pharma doesn't want you to know nature provides, otherwise you won't need their alchemy resulting in ghastly side effects. May all beings reconnect and be free from suffering and its causes.

How to avoid RAS Syndrome

GRAMMAR GUY

By Curtis Honeycutt

I have some urgent news: there's an epidemic sweeping the country. So far, scientists haven't found a cure, but I'm happy to report that it's preventable. It leaves people looking foolish in front of other people they're trying to impress at parties and can, in rare cases, cause a breakup of a romantic relationship. I'm talking about RAS Syndrome.

RAS Syndrome stands for Redundant Acronym Syndrome ... Syndrome. While everyone knows that saying "ATM machine" is redundant, have you ever talked to someone about forgetting your "PIN number" every time you're at the ATM? PIN already stands for Personal Identification Number, so saying "PIN number" is redundant. You don't want to look like a doofus in front of your financial planner! He'll remove you from his preferredmonocle client list faster than you can say IRA account.

Does your new TV have an LCD display? Because that's redundant as well. So is saying DC Comics — DC already stands for "Detective Comics," although the only situation in which you'd be shamed for that redundancy is probably the Comic-Con convention.

I can't tell you how many times I've heard this one: "Yeah, go ahead and send me that logo in a PDF format." PDF stands for Portable Document Format. The only thing that would make that more redundant would be if you said, "Please send that logo file over in a PDF format for Matt."

Although I'm sure you mean to be polite, writing "Please RSVP" on an invitation is technically redundant — RSVP is an abbreviation for the French expression répondez s'il vous plaît, which means "please respond." Saying "Please RSVP" is the same as saying "Please, please respond." After all, you don't want to sound desperate to get people to your fancy roof party.

I'm not sure if an entire sports team can contract RAS Syndrome, but, if it did, it would be the "LA Angels." When translated into English, Los Angeles means "The Angels." So, technically, "the LA Angels" is the same as saying "the The Angels Angels."

Now for the lightning round. If you utter any of the following phrases, you've caught the RAS Syndrome: ISBN number, UPC code, HIV virus, GOP party, SAT test, PAC committee, Gob Bluth, NPR radio, CSS sheet and OPEC countries. By preventing RAS Syndrome in your speech and correspondence, you'll avoid looking dumb in social, business and romantic situations.

Weekly Devotion

6 Howbeit we speak wisdom among them that are perfect: yet not the wisdom of this world, nor of the princes of this world, that come to naught:

7 But we speak the wisdom of God in a mystery, even the hidden wisdom, which God ordained before the world unto our glory:

8 Which none of the princes of this world knew: for had they known it, they would not have crucified the Lord of glory.

9 But as it is written, Eye had not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God has prepared for them that love him.

10 But God has revealed them unto us

by His Spirit:

I CORINTHIANS 2:6-10

What amazes me is the fact that even many who claim Christianity as a religion and a religious practice do not understand what they say they are. We have Sunday school once a week for about 40 minutes and Wednesday evening Bible study for about 45 minutes of actual study time. It takes a while for everyone to get finished with their personal conversations and to get their coffee and to do other menial things before they actually get to the study itself. Once into the study they have many personal opinions and thoughts and a lot of time is spent on these.

To actually study the word of God to know its truth is a rare thing in our time. Most study the Bible to seek for those passages that support their personal understandings of their version of the truth, and they study that version of the Bible that brings them the most comfort. Actually, the Bible was written to make us uncomfortable, and especially as we continue to go on living in sin even after we say that we have forsaken them to live for Christ.

Oh, what a glorious thing it is when a person comes to realize that the Bible's greatest mysteries are hidden in plain sight for those who hunger and thirst after righteousness. God has prepared for them those things that the world will never get and rejoice to know them. I know I do. I love it when God peels back the cover from those hidden mysteries and reveals them to me. He has so many times, but when He does He expects me to take them into my heart and dedicate myself to live them out in my life.

God bless and go and have a great day.

Paul A. Kirby is the pastor at the Church of God at 3939 S. Emerson Ave.
