'A PART OF THE COMMUNITY'

Indianapolis Rotary Club forms liaison with Chin Community of Indiana

By Nancy Price

In the past 20 years, 70,000 refugees from the Chin state of Myanmar (Burma) have flocked to the United States to escape religious persecution and forced labor. Around 20,000 of those immigrants live in Perry Township, Southport and Greenwood.

"The (Burmese) government is the reason I came here," said ZaBik Bualteng, executive director for the Chin Community of Indiana (CCI). "Even my brother-in-law, he was arrested twice; he did nothing wrong as a (Christian) pastor and leader. They targeted pastors, they punished too many pastors. The religious persecution is huge."

Ten years ago, the Chin Community of Indiana (CCI) opened in Perry Township to serve as a community liaison to help refugees find employment, offer ESL classes and locate community services and resources. In the past five years, the center has needed additional funding for resources as the Chin population's growth has spiked.

A GROWING POPULATION

"Our Chin population is growing very fast," said Bualteng. "People know this is a good place to live. The money they make, and the expenses is very good, and housing is very cheap compared to the cities of Dallas, Washington, D.C. area, Denver. Housing there is very expensive. Those people get, like, $10 an hour right now, even in Dallas, but here, many people are starting at $16 an hour because of Amazon and all the other warehouses."

In 2015, Jeff Lake, past president of the Rotary Club of Indianapolis and current assistant governor, was discussing potential grants with the club's foundation board when a member recommended the Chin

Center. "I was chosen as the liaison with the Chin Community of Indiana, so I've been working with them since 2016 when the first grant was given," said Lake. "We provided a $250,000 grant; $50,000 a year for five years."

The club's funding has provided salaries for staff, utilities and other operating costs. "Primarily it's for them to be able to operate at the highest possible level, because without that money they wouldn't be able to have the staff and other things they currently have," he added. "We also have a Chin support committee that's going to meet quarterly, with ZaBik, and our whole intention there is to find out, 'What are your needs? What is the current status of the Chin community and what are their needs?' Now we have other human resources that maybe we can help with, that they have a need for real estate or banking or whatever the case may be. And they tell us, and we try to find someone who can help. And in a large club like ours, we have a lot of people, we do things to help them."

The Chin Center also relies on donations from its 40 local Chin churches (there are 40) in addition to its members, though often members can afford very little due to supporting their families locally and in Burma. As well, locating employment the past four months has been even more difficult for the Chins due to COVID-19.

BUSINESS NETWORKING

CCI is planning to raise the bar financially by forming its own business club so that the Chin community and its partners can network. "What we're trying to do is let (the Chins) know there are other things they can do; they could be an electrician, plumber, accountant; (those jobs) make pretty good money," Lake said.

The Indianapolis Rotary Club has given a three-year extension to continue to support the Chin Center.

"Za's only been here since March but he's already started a youth council, a business club," said Lake. "So things are happening at an accelerated pace, so that helped our foundation board realize it's a good idea to extend the grant three more years. They have a fairly small location here. It's kind of a small place to handle all they do. At some point they may want to have their own separate freestanding facility somewhere else."

Bualteng referred to the Rotary's extension and his friendship with Lake and other club leaders as "exceptional" and also extended his appreciation for those in his local community, including donations from the Marion County Health Department and the time schoolteachers give to help Chin students. "They are just like missionaries for us," he said.

Lake said a goal of the Indianapolis Rotary Club is to help the Chins assimilate into their local community. "We don't want them to be just a separate entity, a bubble," he said. "They want to be a part of the community. We want them to be a part of the community."

SOUTHPORT INTERNATIONAL ROTARY CLUB

The Southport International Rotary Club meets at the Chin Community of Indiana, 2524 E. Stop 11 Road. "We wanted to call it an international club so that all people could be invited regardless of where they're from," said Jeff Lake of the Indianapolis Rotary Club. Marion County schools permitted to start classes as scheduled for the 2020-21 school year

By Nancy Price

The Marion County Public Health Department has given permission for schools in Marion County to reopen with their original opening dates, with recommended guidelines from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and other professional organizations. Individual schools may choose to implement more rigorous protocols. Guidelines are as follows:

- Increased access to cleaning supplies and hand sanitizer for staff and students
- Cloth face coverings or masks for teachers, ancillary staff and students in sixth grade or higher
- Students should be seated 3-6 feet apart; arrange for teachers to be 6 feet apart from students when possible
- Cohort students as much as possible using a team approach (the same students stick together and rotate as a team)
- Require all students who are sick to be fever free for at least 72 hours before returning to school; designate an area where symptomatic students can wait for pick-up separate from clinic area; limit items to be shared between students
- Transportation by personal vehicle encouraged; bus drivers should wear face coverings; students expected to wear a face mask during transportation
- For COVID positive symptomatic, at least 72 hours must have passed since recovery (resolution of fever without the use of medications and improvement in respiratory symptoms) and 10 days have passed since symptoms first appeared
- For COVID positive asymptomatic, students must be excluded from school; a return to school 10 days from the positive test assuring no symptoms developed
- For no COVID test symptomatic, exclude from school; return to school if at least 72 hours have since recovery (defined as resolution of fever without the use of medications and improvement of respiratory symptoms) and 10 days have passed since symptoms first appeared
- For reporting cases, designate a contact person or team within each school, preferably a school nurse

Beech Grove City Schools

I know you have many, many questions concerning the start of the 2020-2021 school year as we all continue to navigate life in a pandemic. Our staff members have been working diligently to craft a safe and flexible structure to accommodate our BGCS students. Beech Grove City Schools will start school, as scheduled, on Thursday, July 30. We will offer instructional options in either the physical school setting, or on-line for students who are not able or are uncomfortable returning to school on the scheduled start date.

Be sure to take a look at the Hornet Blast e-newsletter, which is published every Thursday morning, to access the latest school information. Our district Facebook page and website are also two important resources to keep up-to-date with the latest information for Beech Grove City Schools' families.

This has been a difficult and challenging time for all of us, but please know our priority continues to be the safety of each of our students and staff and providing each of our students with the best instructional resources. We learned a lot from the extended e-learning experience and have made modifications to ensure that, when needed, at-home learning offers increased robust instruction for our students.

Thank you for your trust, your patience and your understanding as we navigate these experiences together.

Welcome back, Beech Grove City School students!

Small schools. BIG opportunities.

It's always a great day to be a Hornet!

Center Grove Community School Corporation

On behalf of the Center Grove Board of School Trustees, administration, faculty and support staff, we would like to welcome everyone back to school on Wednesday, Aug. 5, 2020! This year's first day of school is one we have been eagerly anticipating. We have certainly missed our students and colleagues during the extended closure and summer months. Our administrators and staff, along with our teachers' association, have been working diligently on our plan to return to school. Our top priority remains the safety of our students and staff. We are implementing safety measures as recommended, along with a thorough three-step cleaning process in all school buildings. We have worked to make as few changes as possible to our school day and school calendar to provide our families with stability, while developing precautions and protocols to protect their health. Our Teaching & Learning team has worked with our principals and teachers to develop extensive plans to help students who may need additional support to start the school year. They have also created a virtual learning model for families who choose that option over traditional learning during this time. Much more information is available on our district website at centergrove.k12.in.us/Return2020. We appreciate the extraordinary partnership we share with our parents and residents of our community as we work to provide exceptional educational experiences for our students. We look forward to welcoming everyone back for the 2020-21 school year!

Sincerely,

Richard A. Arkanoff, Ed.D.

Mr. Michael C. Chitty
Superintendent of Schools

Greenwood Community School Corporation

On behalf of the Greenwood Community School Corporation Board of Education, I would like to welcome students, parents, staff and community stakeholders back for the 2020-21 school year. We always are so excited to see our students. However, I believe this year that excitement is at a whole new level! I want to first mention the members of our board of education. Our success as a school district starts with this governing body. Members of our board of education are Steve Moan, president; Jack Napier, vice president; Mike Metzger, secretary; LaDawn Weston, member; and Brian Ford, member. I begin my eighth and final year as the superintendent here in Greenwood. I have been honored to serve the Greenwood Community School Corporation and the community of Greenwood. The key word in the Greenwood Community School Corporation is "community." It takes a community to help educate students. Everyone – whether you are a parent, staff member, business leader or a resident with no children in our school system – has a responsibility to our young people. Our school district enrollment is expected to remain at 4,000 students this year. We always appreciate the feedback we get from parents new to our district regarding the positive culture and climate that exist for our students. Thank you for being a part of the Greenwood Community School Corporation. Please know that we don't take you for granted. We are a service organization, and we take our service responsibility to our students, parents and community seriously. Please help us to carry out this mission by volunteering your time and talents to better serve our students. Here's to a great 2020-21 school year!

Respectfully,

Kent DeKoninck, Ph.D.
Superintendent

Lutheran High School of Indianapolis

It is the desire for all students and teachers at Lutheran High School to engage in the spirit of fellowship and community. Both social and emotional well-being requires an environment that allows for in-person relationships to thrive through human interactions. To be able to worship, interact, serve, engage and respect each other's needs is best served in-person. Therefore LHS has a good plan to reopen and begin school on Aug. 6, 2020. This plan had been created to guide the safe continuation of Lutheran High School's mission to its students and families of central Indiana while under the impact of COVID-19 pandemic conditions.

Our guiding principles are:

- 1. Safety for All. Ensure a safe learning and working environment for students, teachers, staff and families by promoting healthy and respectful behaviors.
- 2. In-School and In-Person. Encourage in-school and in-person learning experiences for all students as allowable by state and local guidelines.
- 3. Continuous Mission and Learning. Care for each student's success by providing a continuous mission and engaging curriculum when in-school or in-person learning is interrupted, and conditions require either individuals or the community to stay home. Our one-to-one digital resources allow for face-to-face classrooms to continue in a mobile environment if needed.

- 4. Support the Plan. Provide training, time and the support necessary for all members of Lutheran High School to prepare for the successful reopening of its campus.

Lutheran High School's theme verse for 2020-2021 is from Revelation 21:5 – "He who was seated on the throne said, 'I am making everything new!' Then he said, 'Write this down, for these words are trustworthy and true.'"

We welcome all who wish to join our family and experience our mission.

Michael Brandt
Head of School

Perry Meridian & Southport high schools

Perry Township Schools is excited to welcome students to class on Wednesday, July 29. Like last school year, the 2020-21 year will likely be met with difficult circumstances, and our educators are prepared to meet those challenges.

Teachers and administrators are committed to being flexible to meet the needs of every student. Some students will receive in-person classroom instruction; others will require remote learning. We vow to provide a high-quality education to each child every day.

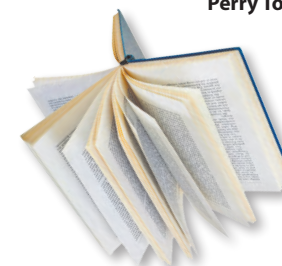

We are grateful to the families and staff who have shown tremendous patience and understanding during this unprecedented time. We are also thankful for the Marion County Health Department and Indiana State Department of Health's expertise, which has provided us with advice and guidelines to keep our students and staff protected during the pandemic. Although our understanding of the crisis is constantly changing, we are committed to listening to the experts and following the recommendations to make our classroom environment as safe as possible.

There is no playbook that instructs us on how to educate children during a global health crisis. This school year, much like the end of last year, promises to be one of the most challenging times in education. We are all doing the best we can, and every decision we make is carefully considered and measured against the latest health care recommendations. We take seriously our responsibility to keep every student and employee safe. It's possible that we will be required to close our classrooms again, so our educators are already making contingency plans to provide students with a high-quality education no matter what.

While students' and employees' physical health is a priority, we also value their emotional and psychological well-being. This year, we will place a stronger emphasis on diversity, inclusion and anti-racist teachings for students and staff. We want to make sure that students and employees of color feel safe, valued and included. We want to recruit more diverse staff. We want to empower students to call out discrimination and harassment when it happens. And are committed to investigating these reports as soon as we receive them.

Over the past four-and-a-half months, the entire Perry Township community has shown remarkable character. Parents and community partners have helped school leaders meet every challenge that presented itself. We are thankful for the support, and we are humbled to serve our students and families.

Roncalli High School

While all schools have a mission to form young people academically, and some strive to go beyond that by also attempting to form citizenship, Roncalli's mission for over 50 years has been to form the whole person: body, mind and spirit! This can best be explained by our graduate profile, which we use as a compass to direct all of the work done with our young people. The profile sets a very high standard for our graduates. Roncalli is passionately committed to partnering with our parents, parishes and community in making this profile a reality for all of our students! We share our graduate profile with you in this article as it gives clear direction as to what we hope to accomplish during this 2020-21 school year at Roncalli High School.

Roncalli Graduate Profile

As Christ has called upon each of us to "go make disciples of all nations" and to the extent that our namesake, St. John XXIII (Angelo Cardinal Roncalli) was committed to that task, it is Roncalli High School's intention to create disciples of Jesus Christ in the image of St. John. It is to this purpose that we aspire for all of our graduates to honor and glorify God by:

Faith

Having a personal relationship with Jesus Christ and evangelizing the message of the Gospel through their actions.

Academia

Reaching their fullest potential through a commitment to lifelong learning.

Service

Serving the needs of others with loving and compassionate hearts.

Community

Being devout members of the Church, cultivators of the Roncalli spirit and responsible citizens.

Dignity

Recognizing that every person is created in the image and likeness of God, having the utmost respect for life and embracing a diverse world.

All of us at Roncalli High School are very excited to welcome students, teachers, staff and families back to campus and back to school! We have been working diligently since March to ensure the safety of all in our school community as we return to in-person instruction!

We learned a great deal about what works well and what does not work well with e-learning from the nine weeks of e-learning that concluded the 2019-20 school year. With great leadership from our IT department and great cooperation and dedication from our faculty and administration, we are very excited to unveil the synchronous learning model that will allow for excellence in education to go uninterrupted for our students who are not able to be in school on a daily basis.

In these challenging and uncertain times, please join all of us at Roncalli in praying for a safe, successful school year for all schools!

Three money skills that every student should know

By Financial Center First Credit Union

As you think about your teen heading off into the real world, you may have a lot of conflicting thoughts and feelings. On one hand, you are excited to see the person that your child will grow up to be, but on the other hand, you may be nervous about the future decisions they will make.

When it comes to money management, having foundational knowledge and dedication is important in making financial decisions that affect their entire lives.

A poll conducted by Everfi shows that only 47 percent of high school students felt prepared to manage their finances on their own, and the average student can only answer two of six basic financial questions correctly.

If these stats make you think about how your child manages money- here are three tips to give your teen a head start on money management:

Establish an Early Habit of Paying Yourself First

The thought of setting money aside instead of spending it on things your child wants isn't glamorous, but it can be fun. Instead of thinking about placing money into a savings account as "saving," teach them to think of it as paying themselves first. As soon as they get their first paycheck, let them pay themselves and put a good portion aside for a future want or need.

Create a Budget Together

A first paycheck is going to be more money than your child may have ever had – which is why he/she should understand the cost of necessities. Create a budget sheet together with detailing expenses, saving and spending money to use as they see fit.

Learn that Paying Bills on Time Is Essential

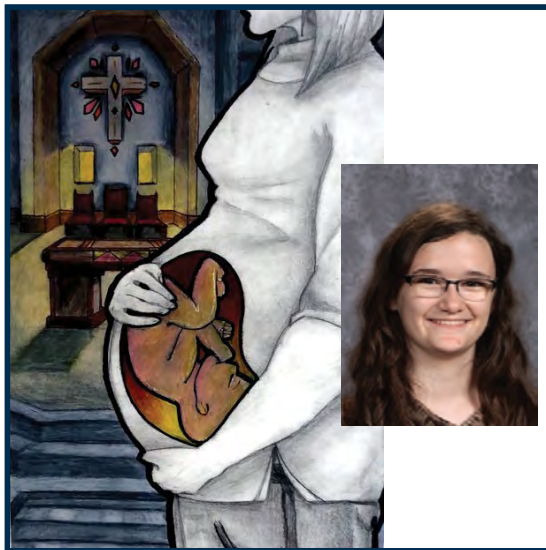

Students may or may not have bills in high school, but the discipline of paying bills before all other expenses is essential to developing good money management habits. You can create practice bills as a way for children to learn to manage money. If you ask them to pay their phone bill, ask for funds on a certain day of the month, and ensure that they follow a schedule to meet payments on time.

As a final note, remember that failure is ok – in fact, it's a key component to learning. No one starts out perfect, and with helpful guidance along the way, your student can be in a great place with their finances and on the track to long-term success.

Why microchipping is the best option for identifying your lost pet

DR. JEFF'S MEWSINGS

By Dr. Jeff Ambrous

It used to be that a tag was the best way to identify a lost pet. This worked well enough assuming it was not lost or damaged while your pet was on the run. As times have changed so has your option of identifying your lost pet. Microchips are now the best option when it comes to reuniting a lost pet to his or her owner.

Microchips are small, about the size and shape of a grain of rice. It is implanted over the shoulders with a needle which is usually very quick and easy to do. It contains a small chip that can be read with a handheld scanner.

When a chip is implanted it is very important to be sure to have it registered in the national database. You can link all kinds of information to your chip. The registry includes your name, address, phone numbers, emergency contacts, pet's name, breed, health info, photos and more.

Some chip makers also offer other services to help you reunite with your lost pet. Examples of these services include medical help lines, insurance to cover travel costs for distant lost pets and help contacting vets and shelters with lost pet notices.

It is always such a happy moment when someone brings a lost pet into the clinic and we scan and find a microchip. We can call the owner right then and get the pet back home as soon as possible. Everyone loves a happy ending.

Dr. Jeff Ambrous practices at South 31 Veterinary Clinic and can be reached at (317) 788-0893.

■ JAKE

Jake is the sweetest 10-12-year-old male Cocker Spaniel. He is still on meds from being sick, but we can still take applications on him. He was found matted and very sick with what we think was pneumonia. He is on the mend and doing OK. He does react to other dogs loose in the infirmary when he is in his crate through. There is no determined adoption fee yet for Jake.

■ THIMBLE

Thimble is a 10-month-old female tabby; she is a sweetie! Her adoption fee is $125.

Rosie's Southside Animal Shelter gives a lot of medical attention to their animals, especially dogs. Our shelter rarely turns down a senior dog in need. Our senior panels we do for any animal over the age of 8 years costs $110 alone. That doesn't count the meds needed, the vet visits, surgeries, vaccines, dewormers, flesh and heartworm prevention. Our basic work-up for the animals include age-appropriate vaccines, two to three rounds of de-wormer, flea and heartworm prevention, microchip and registration included in adoption fee, spay/neuter, heartworm tests for all dogs over 6 months, any needed surgeries for all animals in our care, grooming for those who need it, FIV/FELV tests for all our cats and kittens and rabies vaccines for all animals over 12 weeks old. We also assure that we will ALWAYS take our animals back no matter how long they have been gone.

Indiana implements T-21 law

Indiana's Tobacco 21 law went into effect July 1. The Indiana Latino Institute has advocated for laws such as these to create a healthier Indiana and protect our communities from nicotine addiction, as tobacco disproportionately affects youth and minorities. The 2018 data of the Youth Tobacco Survey, a standard tool used across the U.S. to assess tobacco use and related risk factors among youth, indicated that youth tobacco use is becoming more prevalent, youth are starting to use tobacco products earlier and younger age of initiation predicts future continued use due to developing brain chemistry and higher risk of developing nicotine addiction. Additionally, experts say that those who use tobacco products or have conditions such as asthma, COPD and heart issues are at a higher risk of contracting COVID-19 and having complications. Indiana T-21 legislation has recognized benefits for

- population health, including:
- Decreased prevalence of tobacco product use in adulthood
 - Long-term decrease in health care costs and significant reduction in preventable deaths
 - Decreased second and third-hand smoke exposure
 - Improved perinatal outcomes and reduce premature births.

Palm Springs A tired trope gets a trendy, comedic refresh

MOVIE REVIEW

By Bradley Lane

Popularized in the 1993 Bill Murray classic Groundhog Day, the idea of a time loop has captivated international audiences since its introduction. From arthouse critical darlings like Primer and Run Lola Run to blockbuster genre films like Edge of Tomorrow and Happy Death Day, the allure of a story structure so simple it just repeats itself over and over is simply irresistible to screenwriters. So then, with a proliferation of these films in the current market the only reason to produce one is if you can figure how to differentiate your take on the idea from the trove of pre-existent material. This is exactly where Hulu's newest exclusive, Palm Springs begins to show signs it might fall short of creating its own identity. Despite this, the film is consistently entertaining, but does little to distinguish itself from the tired trope, ultimately making it feel disposable.

Starring internet darling Andy Samberg and the criminally underworked Cristin Milioti as Nyles and Sarah, Palm Springs takes place in the titular town as the characters are gathered to celebrate Sarah's sister's wedding. Upon their meeting at the reception they hit it off and in the process of getting to know one another, Sarah is accidentally entered to the time loop Nyles was, unbeknownst to her, already stuck in. What follows is a predictable, if not entertaining, film about love, familial relationships and the nature of the universe.

The concept of two people trying to make it through eternity with one another is rife with potential for facilitating all kinds of philosophical messages about modern life, relationships, or just about any existential ideology. This is precisely why it is so frustrating then, that Palm Springs essentially boils down to an extremely by the number's romantic comedy. Proved as the far-out time travel narrative device is quickly dismissed as mere window dressing for sickly-sweet romanticism.

It isn't all bad though; the story maintains a quick pace so that I never found myself bored during the film. In fact, throughout the film I was consistently entertained by the genuine intimacy between Samberg and Milioti's characters. Their evolution from broken and jaded to open and emotionally venerable is admittedly well written. However, its fatal flaw is that whatever message the filmmakers set out to communicate is drowned in romantic platitudes and comes up feeling short on actual substance.

Palm Springs is by no means a bad film, just a disappointing one. It is absolutely a good time while it's on, but the film's lack of ability to find its own voice might leave you struggling to remember much of anything about it just a couple days after viewing. Palm Springs is available to stream on Hulu.

Bradley is a Beech Grove High School alumnus and has been enamored by film for as long as he can remember. He recently graduated from IUPUI, with a degree in Media and Public Affairs with a minor in Film. Bradley can be contacted at blane2214@gmail.com.

Weekly Devotion

6 Seeing therefore it remains that some must enter therein, and they to whom it was first preached entered not in because of unbelief:

7 Again, He limits a certain day, saying in David, To day, after so long a time; as it is said, To day if ye will hear His voice, harden not your hearts.

8 For if Jesus (Joshua) had given them rest, then would he not afterward have spoken of another day.

9 There remains therefore a rest to the people of God.

HEBREWS 4:6-9

This is such an important subject that I dare not be remiss in the discussion of it. Those who lived in the past missed the point. In the time of Moses there were only two men who got it right (three, if you include Moses). These two men were given the blessing of going into the land that God had preserved and promised to His people. His people then were those who believed and trusted in God to deliver on what He promised.

Joshua and Caleb were the only two survivors of the original group that left Egypt to go to this land and to inherit it from the Lord God. The rest that were numbered in the millions did not believe and died as wanderers in the wilderness, which was just in sight of the promised land. Thus, the question, "How shall we escape if we neglect so great a salvation?" becomes more relevant than ever. We shall not escape if we neglect the "great salvation" that the writer of Hebrews is speaking of because this salvation is promised by a greater than Moses. It is promised by our Savior, Jesus Christ.

There is a rest that we receive when we are forgiven and sanctified in this lifetime. There is an even greater rest for the saints that endure to the end of their lifetime on this earth knowing that they are only so-jourmers here and that this world is not their intended promised land. Heaven is that eternal resting place for all of the saints of God who endure the false accusations and misunderstandings and who patiently run the race to the end of the race. Praise the Lord, I want to be counted among the numbers of those who did endure to the end and who have entered into a rest that we can only imagine.

God bless and go and have a great day.

Paul A. Kirby is the pastor at the Church of God at 3939 S. Emerson Ave.
