DRAGON BOAT RACING VERSUS THE DRAGON OF BREAST CANCER

Perry Township resident Elaine Shea is board president of dragon boat team Indy SurviveOars

By Marianne Coil

A seasoned nurse and educator for 42 years, Elaine Shea found her own breast lump, sought help and knew from the look on the doctor's face what was coming.

As a nursing director in the old Wishard system, she tapped into a network of local experts for help. In 2008 she agreed to participate in a trial program and took a tumor-shrinking medication for weeks before undergoing surgery. She stayed on the job during her illness.

Shea was between post-surgical radiation treatments when she ran into a friend at church. Take up dragon boat racing, the friend said, recommending a team of breast cancer survivors.

A dragon boat is slender, 40 feet in length, and decorated with a dragon head. The boat is propelled by 20 paddlers working in unison. Two more people are on the boat. One steers, and the other, called the drummer, leads the synchronization of the paddlers.

Shea visited the team at Geist Reservoir, where practice is held. She learned a bit of paddling technique and went out in a boat with others. "And I was hooked," she said.

Alluding to the song 'Kumbaya' as an expression of spiritual unity, Shea said she's not a "kumbaya person." But she will use the occasional "cool" and "super-cool" to describe the jubilation she feels when crossing the finish line with her team, the Indy SurviveOars.

The team held a gala in August at the Indiana State Museum to celebrate the 10th anniversary of Indy SurviveOars. The event yielded over $70,000 after expenses, she said. In the midst of a two-year term as president of the non-profit team's board, Shea has focused on strategic planning for the group, which bills itself as Indiana's "first and only" such team for breast cancer patients.

Founded by Kathy Martin Harrison, the team offers hope, inspiration, and camaraderie while focusing on health and physical activity, according to the mission statement.

The exercise from paddling a dragon boat helps to reduce lymphedema in breast cancer survivors, according to research by Dr. Don McKenzie, the Canadian physician who promoted the sport for patients.

During breast cancer surgery (mastectomy or lumpectomy), some lymph nodes in the underarm could be removed. As a result, lymph fluid collects and causes swelling in the arm, and possibly in the hand, fingers, chest or back.

Not all breast cancer patients have lymphedema, Shea said, but training workouts have additional benefits. A survey of the team shows that almost all respondents say their health has improved since they started paddling, she said.

The workouts also help to counter the side effects of medication taken long-term after the acute intervention for breast cancer is complete.

Indy SurviveOars has 85 active members and they usually race against only breast cancer teams, she said. However, the local group has enough backers among friends and family that they can fill a second boat with supporters who compete alongside the breast cancer survivors. Shea said she was overcome by the spectacle of pink uniforms, boats and equipment at the first international race she went to in Peterborough in central Ontario, Canada. Competitors from around the world formed a sisterhood of survivors in “more pink than you’ve ever seen.”

Joining the team has given her the opportunity to become friends with people she otherwise would never have met. The youngest racer is only age 28, and Shea is age 72. She lost two teammates to the illness within the last year. In the past decade, 11 racers have died.

Between her early days in nursing and the time of her diagnosis, treatment of breast cancer shifted to targeted intervention and away from the one-size-fits-all approach, she said, adding that nurse navigators now provide patients with coordinated access to resources.

“Competitors from around the world formed a sisterhood of survivors in “more pink than you’ve ever seen.”

- ELAINE SHEA

The racing season has ended for the year, and the boats were put to bed Oct. 11. But the educational activities of Indy SurviveOars will continue Oct. 20 with a symposium featuring Dr. McKenzie. “He put breast cancer survivors in the boat,” Shea said.

McKenzie is director of Sports Medicine at The University of British Columbia. He will appear at Community Cancer Center North at a meeting sponsored by the cancer center and Indy SurviveOars.

Shea’s year-round fitness routine includes working with a personal trainer, doing yoga, and playing in a golf league. The team also has group workouts with circuit training and rowing machines. The racers are tough enough to have finished second in a 2000-meter race, she said.

Married to Dan Shea, she lives in Perry Township and enjoys retirement, which includes travel. She just came back from a trip with her sister.

Shea wants to remain flexible enough to get down on the floor with her grandchildren. At a nursing class reunion she attended, someone said you can’t get back up when you get down.

“That’s the part I don’t equate with,” she said.

Home values increase across the Southside

Real estate – Sellers on the Southside are seeing their home values increase, and their homes fly off the market faster in most cases. According to F.C. Tucker, in August 2017 the average price for homes sold in Greenwood was $180,162, a 24.5 percent increase from August 2016; and Southport was $140,745, a 7.8 percent increase from August 2016. In addition, homes sold in an average of 44 days in Greenwood and 39 days in Southport.

Former Jonathan Byrd's complex reopens with new name, tenants

Commerce – The Jonathan Byrd's building on Byrd Way, Greenwood (Indiana), now bears a new name – The Nest – featuring new tenants and available commercial space. The Nest's first tenant, Brickhouse Coffee Co., will be followed by The Nest Event Center, opening Nov. 1. Eight additional spaces are now available for lease.

Acquired and renovated by Randy Faulkner & Associates, The Nest's first tenant is Brickhouse Coffee Co. Owners Jared and Lora Stayton learned to roast coffee beans while working as missionaries in Spain. While there, they learned age-old coffee craftsmanship, and how community and relationships can develop over a cup of coffee. They continue that tradition at Brickhouse, roasting beans and crafting all-natural syrups and sauces in-house.

The Nest Event Center opens Nov. 1, with its first event scheduled just two days later. The event center will host small and large events from intimate gatherings to lavish banquets, and is the city's first building to offer environmental projection: the ability to use projectors to digitally "paint" walls with images and videos. A grand opening will take place after Thanksgiving. Randy Faulkner & Associates and Faulkner Restoration, Inc., both owned by The Nest developers Randy and Julie Faulkner, will also be housed in the same building.

Kroger celebrates opening of 100th central division fuel center

Gasoline – Kroger Central Division invested $1.95 million in the addition of its 100th fuel center to the store at 5911 S. Madison Avenue in Indianapolis. The new fuel center has 14 pumps – 10 for gasoline and 4 for diesel fuel. The center will also offer snacks, beverages, automotive products and a variety of other necessities. A grand opening presents an opportunity to acknowledge important people and organizations in the neighborhoods we serve. Kroger presented a check to the Lt. Aaron Allan Foundation. Kroger offered .20 cents off per gallon, up to 35 gallons, for customers who scanned their Kroger Plus cards.

Gettysburg bound

HAUNTS & JAUNTS

By Rick Hinton

"The road to Gettysburg was littered with thousands of dead from both North and South. And the destruction of the reputations of commanding officers in both armies!"

It was somewhere along the rolling hills of the Pennsylvania Turnpike on a Thursday that it finally hit me... we were drawing closer to the Gettysburg battlefield. This trip — a bucket list item for my wife Laura and myself—and we were finally doing it! We were in anticipation. What lie ahead? As her four-cylinder Nissan engine strained along the dips and curves of the Appalachian Mountains (Laura: "Is my engine making a strange sound? Me: "No."), we took the Breezewood exit onto Highway 30 shooting south, passing through Chambersburg towards Gettysburg. Sixty-five miles later we rolled into town in the late afternoon. Traffic was brisk. (Is there a rush hour in Gettysburg?) We checked into our hotel four miles out of town on Emmitsburg Road, unpacked, and returned to meet up with our team for the next few days.

Laura had been speechless since we arrived. I myself—transfixed. Driving through the battlefield, just getting to the Eisenhower Hotel & Conference Center, was a setting of rolling hills, stark white monuments, cannons, and staggered post and rail fences lining the road. And... a sense of reverence regardless of any vehicular traffic, McDonald's, tourist offerings, or stop lights. We were in a historical time stamp transcending any of those things. A time stamp where past became present, and 150 years ago seemed only as yesterday. We couldn't have picked a better tour guide for this experience!

Friend, author, Irvington advocate and haunted tour guide, Alan Hunter, smiled when we arrived at the Appalachian Brewing Co. for dinner. He, his wife Rhonda, and the rest of the "Scooby Gang" were already seated. They made room for us. As a long time friend, I have come to rely on Alan's insight and historical perspectives. Yes, there's the paranormal ties also, weaving a thread in our association, but it's the history that draw and bind us. And, the fact that we're both Civil War buffs! Gettysburg, Penn. is the crowning jewel of a five-year battle that I still have problems wrapping my mind around. In 25 years Alan has visited and reflected upon the town and battlefield some 100 times. It won't end anytime soon! He invited us upon this journey. I believed he had a thing or two to offer. He did!

Thursday night, belly filled, tired from the drive, and thinking about some down time in the hotel room, Alan gave a whimsical smile to the group at dinner and said—"Let's go to Devil's Den." And that we did...

Center Grove Community Schools breaks ground on Walnut Grove Elementary

FEATURE

By Nicole Davis

Center Grove Community School Corporation will have a new elementary school open its doors in August 2019. Celebrating the groundbreaking of Walnut Grove Elementary on Oct. 10, school officials shared of the modern and functional features that will go into the facility.

“We’re excited to move forward on this project,” said Dr. Rich Arkanoff, superintendent, at the groundbreaking. “Our White River Township community is growing and thriving. With that growth comes students. As of today, we are full in all of our elementaries except for one classroom. We have portables around two of our schools, so as you can imagine, August of 2019 cannot get here soon enough.”

The two-story school, designed by Lancer + Beebe, LLC, will be constructed on the 57.5-acre property owned by the corporation on N. 450 West, approximately one mile north of State Road 144 in Bargersville.

The school will feature a solar array, which will not only make the facility more energy efficient, but allow students to look at the power usage and use that data in educational lessons. Walnut Grove will be themed around the tree of its namesake. The exterior of the school will feature a entry canopy, with walnut trees leading to the entrance. Inside, the schools is split into three wings: K through first grades, second and third grades and fourth and fifth grades. Each wing will have a color scheme that ties into features of a walnut tree such as green for grades K - one, representing spring and the colors of the tree’s leaves. Each wing will also feature hearth room space for collaborative learning.

“The design is phenomenal,” said Brian Proctor, current principal of North Grove Elementary who will serve as the first principal of Walnut Grove. “There are some neat features to this building that I think will set the standard, like the solar array field that’s not common on an elementary property, or the hearth spaces and learning lab spaces inside. Those are really unique.”

He continued, “When you stop to look at the finer details of the building, it really makes you value the facilities that we have in Center Grove. The district has done an unbelievable job of maintaining facilities that are student focused and progressive. This process has taught me to listen to the ideas of everyone and understand we’re all in this together. We all have one purpose and our purpose is to make sure Center Grove is the best it can be. It starts with facilities and you pour in the students and their families.”

READERS' WRITES

The City of Southport and Southport Council presidency

During the City of Southport Council meeting Sept. 18, 2017, Southport Police Chief Tom Vaughn requested a no confidence vote of Southport Council President Shara Hostetler. Councilor Jim Cooney made a motion to the Southport Council to remove Council President Hostetler because of no confidence. Councilors Cooney, Winslow and Haley voted to remove Councilor Hostetler as president.

I, Councilor Tunget, voted no to removing Hostetler as president on moral and legal grounds. I could not morally vote to remove Councilor Hostetler as president because I find her to be an intelligent and hardworking single mother of five wonderful and happy children. She as Southport Councilor At Large has the highest regard for all of the people in Southport she serves. Council President Hostetler serves the community with honor and dignity. There was nothing in the council agenda to even discuss Councilor Hostetler's presidency, nor should there be. Councilor Cooney cited that she did not attend many meetings, none of which were council meetings which she always attended.

Councilor Cooney did not criticize Councilors Winslow and Haley for missing many meetings. Councilor Winslow and Haley did not cite themselves concerning meeting attendance. I have missed some meetings myself but I was not criticized.

The council meeting itself was not legal because the meeting did not follow the Robert's Rules of Order both in the violation of presenting a motion to remove Council President Hostetler that was not on the agenda and violating the voting rule as to the removal of a council president. The City of Southport Council is obligated to follow Robert's Rules of Order by Ordinance.

I believe that as a Southport second term councilor and with the support of my wife, former mayor of Southport for 17 years, have the credibility enough to protect and defend Southport Council President Hostetler's presidency at least until Dec. 31, 2017 and perhaps beyond.

Larry Tunget
Southport Councilor District 4

Hostetler's record leads to removal from president pro tempore position

Ms. Hostetler's record of abstentions, no shows, and poor leadership led to the Southport City Council vote to remove her as president pro tempore.

- 07-2016 - Three Southport residents indicate to Mayor McClure that they wish to fill the vacant seat on the Council. These names are submitted to the County Republican Chairman.

- 07-2016 - Republican party gives the seat to Shara Hostetler over his own committee's recommendations. She did not attend the interview process. The City of Southport in effect did not select Ms. Hostetler to represent them.

- 10-16 - Absent Storm Water meeting; Vote on city budget for 2017-4-0-1-Hostetler abstained

- 11-16 - Vote to purchase police car-4-0-1-Hostetler abstained; vote to purchase radar guns for all police cars-4-0-1-Hostetler abstained

- 12-16 - Vote on no parking ordinance-4-0-1-Hostetler abstained; Weeds/Rank vegetation ordinance 2nd reading-4-0-1 Hostetler abstained

- 01-17 - Absent special council meeting.

- 01-17 - Vote to purchase police car-4-0-1-Hostetler abstained; vote to up fit police car-4-0-1-Hostetler abstained; Weeds/Rank vegetation-3rd and final reading-4-0-1 Hostetler abstained. Previously she had been cited twice for high grass at her residence.

- 01-17 - Elected president pro tempore of Southport City Council-vote was 3-2 with Ms. Hostetler voting for herself.

- 03-17 - Ms. Hostetler files lawsuit against City of Southport. City Councilors notified of the lawsuit and were advised that the lawsuit was confidential.

- 05-17 - Ms. Hostetler is a no call/no show for her auditing duties with the Clerk Treasurers office.

- 08-17 - Ms. Hostetler contacts the city and indicates she is unable to attend the Storm Water Utility Board meeting and City Council meeting due to a broken foot.

- 09-17 - Ms. Hostetler attends the September City Council meeting in high heels and publicly announces her lawsuit the same day.

Ms. Hostetler claims that the members of the City Council met secretly with a quorum. Ms. Hostetler is creating fake news.

The majority of the Southport City Council has taken the first step to drain the swamp by removing Ms. Hostetler from the position of president pro tempore.

Southport Councilor, District 1

FROM THE EDITOR

Volunteerism also serves you

Volunteerism is an integral part of keeping Southside community vibrant. But folks who've yet to try it may think volunteering is a completely selfless endeavor. We argue that this is not necessarily the case—that the return investment of your time can be just as beneficial to you as it is to your community. Personal growth from donating your time and energy isn't talked about as much it should be. Supporting the community's much needed services can be about you, too.

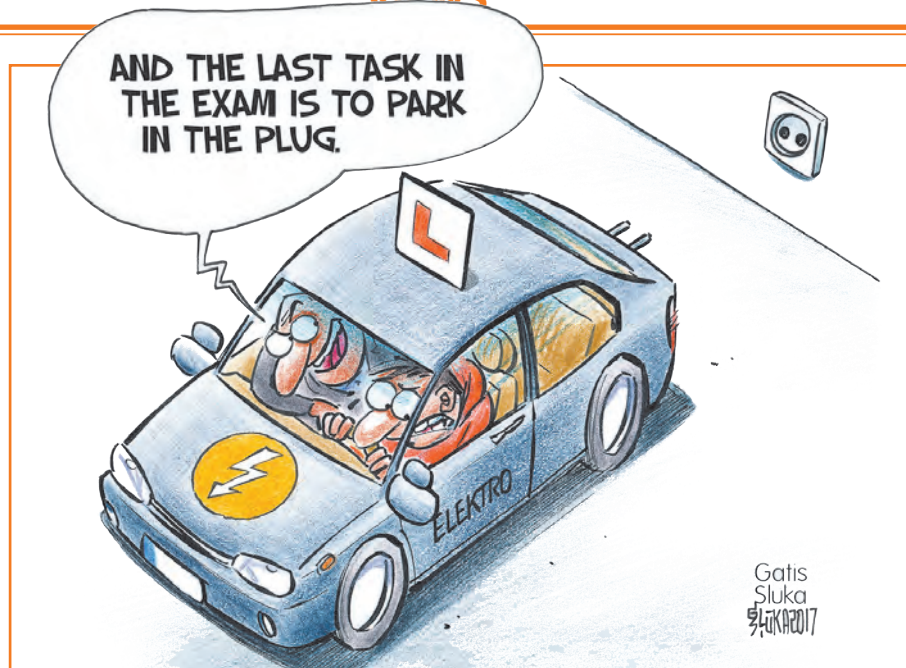

The benefits, however, go beyond what is achieved for the community as whole. Personal growth, enrichment, becoming more educated and making new friends is all part of it. And frankly, there is something for everyone.

If you love animals, contact the county shelter. Do you enjoy to taking care of people? Our community has many people-related services to get involved with. Do you want to focus on enriching your immediate community? Ask your local municipality what volunteer positions are available.

If you are still on the cusp, remember that the benefits of volunteerism are two-fold. Not only do you improve your community, you also improve yourself. We encourage readers give volunteerism a try, you'll be happy that you did.

Our nation has all sorts of arcane, nonsensical laws on the books. Each week, we'll share one with you ...

In Indiana, mustaches are illegal if the bearer has a tendency to habitually kiss other humans.

South Grove celebrates Farm to School Month

Eating local – Nearly 750 students at South Grove Intermediate School in Beech Grove celebrated Farm to School Month on Oct. 6 by eating fresh radishes they grew and harvested in their school's Learning Garden. Tarrah McCreary, Resident Dietitian at Chartwells K12, South Grove's food service partner, shared with students tips on cooking with the vegetable and its nutritional benefits, while farmers from The Kitchen Community discussed how radishes grow and the economic benefits of shopping and eating local.

Frankenfest: A Kick Off to One State/One Story

Volunteering – The Franklin Central High School Creative Writing Club served as volunteers for the Indiana Humanities' Frankenfest: A Kick Off to One State/One Story event on Sept. 30. The all-day event was hosted at the Indiana Medical History Museum where celebrity guest readers brought Mary Shelley's novel, Frankenstein, to life! English teachers Mrs. Lisa Laker and Mrs. Shelly Horvath, served as guest readers. The day included pop-up exhibits, Franken-yard games, tours, theatrical performances, and curatorial talks—all located in the nation's oldest pathology lab! The FCHS Creative Writing Club collaborated with Indiana Humanities because of their mission to "connect people, open minds, and enrich lives by creating and facilitating programs that encourage Hoosiers to think, read, and talk."

The LEGO Ninjago Movie

Terribly disappointing

MOVIE REVIEW

By Adam Staten

If it ain't broke don't fix it. In no other industry is this saying more apparent than the entertainment field. Turn on the television and you'll eventually run into six different Law & Orders, five eerily similar sitcoms and CSI programs set in seven major U.S. cities. Head to the theater and chances are most of the films showing at any given time will be sequels, prequels or remakes. Keeping with this idea of churning out one like program after another, one such film recently opened in theaters.

The LEGO Ninjago Movie is the third film featuring characters constructed entirely out of the popular children's toy. Following the box office success of 2014's The LEGO Movie and this year's The LEGO Batman Movie, a third one was simply an inevitability. However, unlike the first two films, which are loosely connected, the third is a completely different story while introducing entirely new characters.

In the third entry of the LEGO film series, the evil Garmadon is once again threatening to take over and destroy the city of Ninjago. Fortunately for the residents of Ninjago there are some brave souls who have taken it upon themselves to stop Garmadon from completing his sinister plan. A group of teenage ninjas, each harnessing a special power specific to them, do battle against Garmadon and his evil henchmen. However, things go a bit awry when it's discovered that one of the ninjas has a personal connection to Garmadon. From that point forward, the ninjas must incorporate all of their training if they are to save themselves and the city from Garmadon's evil rule.

Much like the first two films, The LEGO Ninjago Movie has a short, sweet and easy to follow story. However, unlike the first two films, The LEGO Ninjago Movie is not nearly as well written. The charm of the first two films was that they were incredibly clever and easily enjoyed by both children and their parents. However, this is just not the case in this instance. While the film is mildly funny, with a witty line and here, it's not nearly as crafty with the jokes, wordplay as its predecessors.

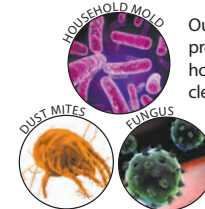

Additionally, while the film suffers from a lack of creativity in the writing the department, it makes for a film that is more than often boring and difficult to watch. Long periods of time pass between from one mildly amusing joke to the next and interest in the film can and does suffer as a result.

The LEGO Ninjago Movie is a film that suffers in large part due to the success of its predecessors. The film never comes close to reaching the mark of either film in any aspect. Terribly disappointing. 2.5 out of 5.

Congratulations to Paige Saylor who capped off a stellar track career with a school-record long jump of 19 feet, one inch at the state finals, earning her a state title. AN OPTION

Dave's All American Pizza & Eatery

THE SCOOP:

It's officially Fall in Indiana with the start of Parke County's Covered Bridge Festival. We all enjoy the sights of the covered historic bridges with beautiful colors as a backdrop and smells of the food vendors throughout Parke County.

May I suggest adding Dave's All American Pizza & Eatery On Highway 136 in Danville, west of the Hendricks County Courthouse, Danville as a stop before or after your drive to Parke County. Dave's All American is more than pizza, from the fresh salad bar, pasta, burgers and steaks. Dave's offers with daily specials; Tuesday-all you can eat Soup and Salad, Wednesday-Biggest Spuds in Indiana, Thursday-Sirloin Steak and Pasta, Saturday-Juicy Prime Rib. Dave Byrdwell, owner, enjoys welcoming his customers who he considers friends, telling the stories behind the unique and one-of-a-kind Military and Patriotic decor throughout the restaurant.

One of our visits was on a Wednesday for the "Biggest Spuds in Indiana." My selection was the Texas Spud; BBQ Beef, cheddar cheese, bacon and sour cream plus and salad bar. The salad bar selections were fresh and several houses salads including one of my favorites pickled cucumber and onions. The spud was baked to a creamy perfection served with what looked like 3 cups of BBQ Beef with cheddar cheese and spattered with bacon. Dave's claim of the "Biggest Spud in Indiana" is not misleading, my spud was the size of a dinner plate, which left me in a quandary after seeing the create you own Sundae Bar during a trip to the Salad Bar. Isn't that one of the reason's for "doggie bags?"

It's Fall y'all ... enjoy!

WHERE I DINE

Where do you like to dine?
Thai Recipes Restaurant

What do you like to eat there?

It is not a chain restaurant and we enjoy supporting independent local business ventures. A family restaurant, casual dining establishment - the family has a commitment to quality as well as a desire to please their patrons!

What do you like about this place?

We like it because it is very reasonably priced considering the choices offered from a good menu that is authentic, in addition to bring cooked to order using fresh ingredients.

Choose Fresh Pumpkin

NUTRITION

By Wendell Fowler

For pottage and puddings and custards and pies, Our pumpkins and parsnips are common supplies, We have pumpkins at morning and pumpkins at noon, If it were not for pumpkins we should be undone.

Pilgrim verse, circa 1630

In Autumn, glowing health, good eyesight and tasty vitamin-packed pumpkins overflow local farmer's markets. The orange superstar with its seeds is a miracle of plant nutrition which can be used as medicine or in an entrée, soup or dessert.

Pumpkin conveniently from a can? Please don't. Canned food is dead food with little or no heavenly nutrition. Cook your own like the pilgrims and your ancestors. Before the Industrial Revolution, early Americans and Native Indians roasted pumpkin over campfires and used the highly nutritious fruit for medicine and food. Pumpkins and their "medicinal" seeds, helped one and all survive long winters.

To receive pumpkin's potent power, it must be eaten fresh for your cells to absorb powerful antioxidant vitamin A that helps control cholesterol and protects your lungs and oral cavity from cancer. Pumpkins of lutein and zeaxanthin feeds and protects your eyes against Age Related Macular degeneration and maintains skin integrity. The orange miracle brims with magnesium, anti-oxidant vitamin C and E and potassium and is good source of B-complex group of vitamins like folate's, niacin, vitamin B-6 thiamin and pantothenic acid.

Don't underestimate the power of any seed. Pumpkin seeds provide overall prostate health (zinc), improved bladder function, prevent of kidney stones, lower cholesterol levels and can treat depression with their L-tryptophan, a compound naturally effective against depression. Pumpkin seed (Pepitas) anti-inflammatory qualities can help prevent osteoporosis and the heartbreak of cancer. Pumpkins are also a source of magnesium.

Your life as it is now, is a result of a series of choices-you've designed the road map. Please, for the sake of your health and happiness, begin to recognize that all the things making you miserable, less than whole, are the result of your choices. Awaken-you are a miracle.

Get to know changes in the health insurance market before open enrollment

HEALTH INSURANCE

By Danna Green

While working for one of the leading health insurance agencies in the nation for the past five years, I have seen some major changes in the health insurance market. We are at a point in history that many people are searching for ways to find affordable health insurance and in some counties there may only be one choice. One of the options that could be considered is a Health Sharing program as an alternative to the traditional health insurance choices. These plans are exempt from the tax penalty and provide a viable alternative to many consumers who can't find a traditional health plan that will help them utilize their hospitals as well as doctors. With open enrollment just around the corner we are about to embark on yet another year of the ACA under 65 individual market space.

Another option for the self-employed is turning to small group insurance. To be considered a small employer group you only need a minimum of two full time employees and can have up to fifty. I am seeing more and more people taking the small employer group coverage option as it could turn out to be a better financial move for many employers. It also helps retain employees and in many cases gives them more robust coverage.

Roasted Pumpkin for Puree

- Wash it, cut it in half, and then place each pumpkin half, cut side down in a baking pan that has about ¼ inch of water then bake at 350° for 45-60 minutes (depending on size) or until tender, using a fork to check.
- Outer skin and seeds can be removed easily.
- Make extra and freeze the 'meat pulp' for a future pumpkin pie, stir-fry or smoothie.

Weekly Devotion

4 He brought me to the banqueting house, and His banner over me was love.

SONG OF SOLOMON 2:4

Songs have been written using the theme "His banner over me is love." In this verse we are told that "He" brought me to the "banqueting house." We are also told that "His banner over me is love." This sets the scene for a special event in a man and woman's life. A time of true love and the expression of it. In this we see Christ and His expression of love for His intended bride, the church.

The word used for "love" in this verse and the following verse is different than the word for "love" in preceding verses. In preceding verses the word for love is rayah. This is a term used that speaks of a more-or-less close female associate, not a lover. This can be a companion, a friend and even a neighbor.

But, in this verse the word ahabah is used which means love and affection.

Love is expressed in many different ways depending upon the relationship and the intended outcome of it. Think back to your formative years and particularly those high school and college-age years. Those years when you were personally seeking out your "soul-mate," that person you wanted to spend the rest of your life with. You did not know for sure who that person was but you did have pretty certain ideas about who you wanted them to be. You looked, you searched, until you found that person. Then, you courted them and, eventually married them if everything worked out.

Those were fun times and yet, they were tense and intense at times. Would it work out? Think about Christ as the "Lover of your soul." He found you and He spiritually courted you until you either flatly said "No!" or excitedly said "Yes!" He brought us to His banquet house where we were wined and dined on His Holy Spirit and the Bread of Life. I am so glad that I am one of those who said, "Yes!"

God bless and go and have a great day.

Paul A. Kirby is the pastor at the Church of God at 3939 S. Emerson Ave.
